

DR. CLARK'S
JOHNSON'S
INDIAN BLOOD SYRUP

Laboratory, 77 W. 3d St., New York City,
LATH OF JERSEY CITY.

The Best Remedy Known to Man!

Dr. Clark Johnson having associated himself with Mr. Edwin Eastman, an escaped captive, himself a slave to Wakametta, the medicine man of the Comanches, is now prepared to lend his aid in the introduction of the wonderful remedy of that tribe. The experience of Mr. Eastman being similar to that of Mrs. Chas. Jones and son of Washington Co., Iowa, an account of whose sufferings were thrillingly narrated in the New York Herald of Dec. 15th, 1878, the facts of which are so widely known, and so nearly parallel, that little mention of Mr. Eastman's experiences will be given here. They are, however, published in a recent issue of 300 pages, entitled, Seven and Nine Years Among the Comanches and Apaches, of which mention will be made hereafter. Suffice it to say, that for several years, Mr. Eastman, while a captive, was compelled to gather the roots, gums, barks, herbs and berries of which Wakametta's medicine was made, and prepared to provide the same materials for the successful introduction of the medicine to the world; and assures the public that the remedy is the same now as when Wakametta compelled him to make it.

Wakametta, the Medicine Man
Nothing has been added to the medicine and nothing has been taken away. It is without doubt the best Purifier of the Blood and Restorer of the System ever known to man.
This Syrup possesses varied properties.
It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It regulates the Bowels.
It purifies the Blood.
It quiets the Nervous System.
It promotes Digestion.
It nourishes, strengthens and invigorates.
It carries off the old blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin, and induces Healthy Perspiration.
It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Eczema, and all manner of skin diseases and internal troubles. There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

Edwin Eastman in Indian Costume.
SEVEN AND NINE YEARS AMONG THE COMANCHES AND APACHES. A most valuable volume of 300 pages, being a simple statement of the horrible facts connected with the sad massacre of a helpless family, and the captivity, tortures and ultimate escape of its two surviving members. For sale by our agents generally. Price $1.00.
The incidents of the massacre, briefly narrated, are distributed by agents, FREE OF CHARGE.
Mr. Eastman, being almost constantly at the West, engaged in gathering and curing the materials of which this medicine is composed, the sole business management devolves upon Dr. Johnson, and the remedy has been called, and is known as

FARM GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD

MOLASSES TAPPY.—Two cupsful of molasses, one cupful of sugar, butter the size of a guinea hen's egg. Boil hard for twenty minutes. Add half a teaspoonful of soda. Try if it is brittle; if not, boil a few minutes longer. Pour out into two buttered dishes. Nuts may be added if you like, just before the soda.

BAKED APPLE PUDDING.—Pare an 1 core six apples, stew in a saucepan with a little water until soft, then add two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, sugar to taste, the chopped rind of a lemon, and the juice, two ounces butter, and four eggs, yolk only; bake in a dish previously prepared with puff paste round it.

TEA BISCUIT.—Two eggs, one cup of sifted sugar, one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar and soda, one cup of cream, one of sugar. Break the eggs into a bowl, beat them well, add the cream gradually, then the sugar, the flour, and lastly the cream of tartar and soda dissolved in warm water. Roll out and cut into biscuits. Bake in a quick oven.

TO CREAM POTATOES.—Heat one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add one teaspoonful of flour, cook until smooth, but not brown, then add gradually one large cup of cold milk, stirring all the time until it boils up; put in the potatoes, which should be cut up fine and salted and peppered; let them cook about three minutes in the sauce, just enough to heat them.

FRIED CABBAGE.—Cut cabbage very fine, on a slow-stove if possible; salt and pepper, stir well, and let stand five minutes; have an iron kettle smoking hot, drop one tablespoonful of lard into it, then the cabbage, stirring briskly till quite tender; send to table immediately. One-half cup of sweet cream and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, the vinegar to be added after the cream has been well stirred, and after it is taken from the stove is an agreeable change. When properly done an invalid can eat it, and there is no offensive odor from cooking it.

BREADED EGGS.—Take one pint of bread crumbs and soak in one pint of milk. Beat eight eggs very light and stir with the soaked crumbs, beating five minutes. Have ready a saucepan in which are two tablespoonfuls of butter, thoroughly hot, but not scorching; pour in the mixture, season with pepper and salt, as the mass is opened and stirred with the scrambling, which should be done quickly with the point of a knife for three minutes, or until thoroughly hot. Serve on a hot platter, with squares of buttered toast.

Fattening Poultry for Market.
No fowl over two years old should be kept in the poultry yard, except for special reason. An extra good mother or a finely feathered bird that is desirable as a breeder may be preserved until ten years old with advantage, or at least so long as she is serviceable. But ordinary hens and cocks should be fattened at the end of the second year for market. Feeding for this purpose may be begun now. When there is a room or shed that can be closed, the fowls may be confined there. The floor should be covered with two or three inches of fine sawdust, dry earth, sifted coal ashes, or clean sand. The food should be given four times a day and clean water be always before the fowls. A dozen or more fowls may be put at once in this apartment, so that there may not be too many ready to sell at one time. The best food for rapid fattening, for producing well flavored flesh and rich fat, is buckwheat meal, mixed with sweet skimmed milk, into a thick mush. A teaspoonful of salt should be stirred in the food for a dozen fowls. Two weeks feeding is sufficient to fatten the fowls, when they should be slipped for sale without delay, and another lot put up for feeding. If the shed is kept dark and cool, as it should be, the fowls will fatten all the quicker for it.—American Agriculturist.

Pickles.
Take cucumbers (medium sized), wipe clean, and place evenly in a barrel or a keg. When the keg is full, put a cloth over the top; next put on a board or a stone for press; take four quarts of salt and boil in a pot of water until all the salt dissolves; when cool, add two pails more water and turn it over the keg; the brine should be strong, and cover the pickles with it; when cooled put some of the brine in a jar of fresh water for two or three days, changing the water often; then put in vinegar. I have always found this way good, and it is but little work.

Recipe for making sweet pickles:
After eating watermelons, take the rind, and with a sharp knife pare off the outside green and all the heart; cut the white firm part into strips two inches long; make a syrup by putting one quart of vinegar and one pound of sugar on the stove to boil; two ounces of cloves tied in a cloth and half an ounce of allspice (ground); add with a quart of water, when well boiled, skim both and place your rind in the syrup; let it boil till each piece looks clear, and is tender; skim out into a jar and add more rind; when done, set it away to cool, and in two or three days I would like to come and help you eat them.—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

A Cheap Greenhouse.
The Germantown Telegraph says: The cheapest plan of erecting a greenhouse that we have any knowledge of—and we used one successfully for many years—is to dig out a pit in a side hill, where the upper end will be just above ground and the lower end will be two or three feet above ground, where the door must be, with two or three steps down for an entrance. Wall up, roof the wall, and cover the whole sash, as in hotbeds, the sash having more fall, say three feet in a width of two, the house being fifteen by ten. Erect in this the stand of shelves, and when it is time to take up the summer flowers, bulbs, etc., store them here. The glass should be covered with thick straw mats, which can be removed even when the weather is coldest, in clear weather, for an hour or two at midday, to get the warmth and influence of the sun. At such times ventilation also should be attended to by slightly opening a sash or two. No fire is needed. Nearly all readily flowering plants will bloom, and there will scarcely be a week during the winter that a bouquet may not be gathered, if the house is properly managed. The summer is the time to make it and have it ready for fall.

The report of the United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue shows that the deposits in savings banks in the year ending May 31 last amounted to $774,475,000, of which nearly one-third are held in New York and Brooklyn.

Curious Stories of Said Pasha.

Many curious stories are told of Said, the pasha of Ishmail Pasha, who has been kicked out of the khedive's chair at Cairo. The ruin of Egypt consummated by Ishmail dates from the reign of Said. One could fill a volume with the accounts of the eccentricities of this monarch. One day, not knowing how to reward a little service which one of his subjects had rendered him, he accorded to him, on his own suggestion, the monopoly of furnishing butter to the entire Egyptian army for one year. On quitting the palace the newly-made purveyor sold his privilege for $300,000. On another occasion he desired a garden which one of his officials possessed near the gates of Cairo. "How much did you pay for it?" asked he. "A million, your highness," was the prompt reply, an exaggeration by two-thirds of the real cost. "Very well, I will buy it of you." And the garden was paid for. This official had a son, a charming boy of seven years. "Bring me your son," said the khedive, to him one day. The boy was brought. "Will you kiss me, little one?" asked the ruler, graciously. "No," said the child, "No, for I detest you." "You detest me and why?" "Because you have taken my mamma's garden, and now she does nothing but weep." Said smiled, stroked his chin—a favored gesture of his—then suddenly replied: "If I return it, your garden, then will you kiss me?" "Oh! yes, your highness!" "Very well, it is yours; embrace me!" With this means the functionary got his property back again, and realized a profit of $330,000.

Hold On, Boys.
Hold your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak harshly. Hold on to your hand when you are about to scratch, steal, or do any improper act. Hold on to your foot when you are on the point of kicking, running off from study, or pursuing the path of errors, shame or crime. Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited or imposed upon, or others are angry with you. Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join in their mirth, game and revelry. Hold on to your good name at all times, for it is of more value than gold, high places or fashionable attire. Hold on to the truth, for it will serve you well and do you good throughout eternity. Hold on to virtue—it is above all price to you at all times and places. Hold on to your good character, for it is and ever will be your best wealth.

An Elephant Fair.
The great elephant fair of India is annually held at Sonepur, on the Ganges. Thousands of horses and hundreds of elephants may then be seen, and the bargain driving and the horse and elephant sellers seem to be fully as great as the tricks of horse dealers in other places. The price of elephants have risen enormously of late years. In 1835 the price of elephants was $225 per head; on the Bengal government requiring seventy of these animals in 1875 the sum of $700 each was sanctioned, but not an elephant could be procured at that price. Seven hundred and fifty dollars is now the lowest rate at which young animals, and those chiefly females, can be bought. Tugers of any pretensions command from $4,000 to $7,500, but the Komorian, or best strain of elephant—like blood horses—will fetch almost any price; $10,000 is not an unknown figure.

A Cleveland (Ohio) boy, eleven years old, who lost both his legs by a railroad train passing over them last October, has had four amputations of both limbs since, and although his case was given up as hopeless by several eminent surgeons, the little fellow's grit has carried him safely through, and his health has been entirely restored.

A sheet of paper dipped in chloride of cobalt when the weather is to be dry and pleasant will become blue. When wet weather approaches it will turn pink. The barometer flowers of France are thus manufactured.

The Influence of Climate.
The influence of climate upon a constitution subjected to a trying change in atmospheric conditions, in water and in food, is often marked and disastrous. Disorders of the bowels and of the liver, frequently terminating fatally, are prone to attack the tourist by land or voyager by sea in unaccustomed latitudes—more particularly those near the equator. The best medicinal protection against irregularities of the bowels, stomach and liver, not only from the above, but whatever cause arising, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine in wide and increasing demand in all parts of this hemisphere and also in the tropics. Travelers, emigrants, dwellers and temporary sojourners in malarial districts use it very extensively as a safeguard.

The Cost of Advertising.
For any responsible advertiser, making application in good faith, we prepare and furnish a written estimate, showing the cost of any proposed advertising in the leading Newspapers of the United States and Dominion of Canada.

We prepare and exhibit printed proofs of any proposed advertisement.
For the preparing of estimates no charge is made, and the applicant is placed under no obligation to transact his advertising business through us unless it appears to him that by doing so he will best advance his own interests.

A copy of the advertisement, a list of the papers, the space the advertisement is to occupy and the time it is to appear, should all be given with the application for an estimate of the cost.
When an advertiser does not know what he wants or what he ought to do, he can designate some sum of money within which he wishes to limit his expenditure; this will enable us to prepare for him such a list of papers as will be the best for his purpose, within the limits which he prescribes.
