LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

—Rev. A. O. Stone will preach in the M. E. Church next Sunday evening.

M. E. Sunday School at 10 o'clock a. m., and Presbyterian Sunday School at 3 o'clock p. m.

—Frost Sunday and Monday nights. —Our jail since court week has been tenantless.

—The weather begins to assume a little more business like air.

—The small boy now looks anxiously forward to "Holler eve night."

—Mr. Feri. Wenk has gone to housekeeping on his Dutch Hill farm.

—Col. Watson, of Warren, was in town yesterday, the guest of E. L. Davis Esq.

—Mrs. Dr. Wallace and little girl, of Brady's Bend, are visiting at Mr. Derickson's.

—Mr. Samuel Clark, who has been "off color" for a week or two, is again able to go about slowly.

—Forest fires which are now ravishing the timber through this section travel almost as fast as pheasants can fly.

—Mrs. T. B. Cobb has been selected to teach the primary department of our school during the remainder of the term.

—Junk buyers have about all the old iron and rope in this section gathered up. The price of all kinds of iron has doubled within the past month.

—Oil is, and has for a week or two past been booming. It is now hovering among the nineties, and bids fair to reach a dollar shortly. Blessed be the boom.

—Squirrels are said to be rapidly increasing around Tylersburg. It may be we'll have some fun yet; however, it's getting pretty cold for that kind of sport now.

—Mr. S. H. Haslet lost a valuable cow last Friday evening, she having choked to death on an apple. Several other cows about town have narrowly escaped the same fate.

—The new style Derby hats worn by the ladies have one advantage. They enable the wearer to return a salute and will not let the gentleman monopolize all the hat lifting.

—Mr. J. T. Dale departed for Bradford yesterday morning, to remain for some time. He and his partner, J. W. Jamieson, expect to put down some more wells soon.

—The boiler and engine for Derickson & Co.'s saw mill on Bates run passed through town yesterday morning. They expect to have the mill in full blast inside of three weeks.

—An apple-pearin' at Mr. Wes. Zents' about a mile down the river, one evening last week, was hugely enjoyed by some of the boys and girls from this place. These apple cuts are immense for fun.

—Last Thursday afternoon a pheasant flew into the hall of Court House and was captured by Curt. Shawkey. It was probably frightened by the fire on the hillside and sought that place for shelter.

—Out of respect to the memory and death of Mrs. Walters our borough schools were closed on Thursday and Friday of last week. A tribute duly appreciated by our citizens and friends of the deceased.

—The Republican tickets are all printed and partly distributed. We wish to impress upon our Republican friends the necessity of keeping a sharp eye on them, and see that they are at the polling places early, and in good bands.

—Dutch Hill got away with Whig Hill last Saturday in a game of base ball, on the grounds of the latter club. Following is the score by innings: Innings.....1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Dutch Hill... 1 6 5 8 8 2 2 4 18 5-27 Whig Hill... 1 10 0 5 1 3 2 1 2-22

—People who wish to confer a favor on the newspapers will exercise no care in putting up their stoves. Leave one of the legs out, put the pipe together carelessly or something of that kind and then we can come out with that time-honored old headline, "The Fire Fiend."—Derrick.

—Mr. Alouzo Heath left Oil City for Kansas yesterday, where he expects to lay up a fortune in the farming business. Lou is possessed of a good deal of energy; is chock full of day's works, and will no doubt meet with success, which his friends in this place will be glad to learn.

The Hanlan-Courtney Sham.

Last Thursday morning eight or ten of our citizens started for Mayville to see what was expected to be one of the greatest boat races ever witnessed in this or any other country. A special train left Tidioute via Oil City, but was not very extensively patronized, most of the excursionists from here and Tidioute going by way of Irvineton and Jamestown. The topic of conversation all along the route was, of course, the great race, and as the train neared Chautauqua the interest became greater, until all had worked themselves up to a high state in anticipation of the wonderful event. When the train pulled up to the depot there was a general rush among the passengers to get off, and in the rush the pocket books of one or two turned up missing. No sooner had the crowd alighted than they learned that the race would not take place. Courtney's boats had been cut the night before, and rendered entirely unfit for use. At first the news was rather sneered at, everybody thinking it was a put up job just to keep the crowd there another day, as had been rumored, but when it was ascertained to a certainty that the boats really had been destroyed the sulphurous outbursts from the disappointed crowd made things look blue for a time. It appears that the two men who had charge of and were watching Courtney's boat house, some distance down the lake, went up to Mayville on the previous night, leaving the house unoccupied for a couple of hours, and when they returned the mischief was done. At the time Courtney was very much censured, and really it looked very much as though he was at fault; his friends even believing he did it himself. However, recent developments go to show that the devilry was the work of Hanlan's crew of backers and gamblers, they having so much staked on him, and being fearful that he would lose the race were obliged to resort to these measures to stop it, after finding Courtney could not be bought off. At the appointed time, 4 o'clock, Hanlan came out and rowed over the course, making the fastest time on record for five miles, which was thirty-three minutes and fifty-six and one-fourth seconds. Very little interest was manifested in the matter, and long before the sculler had got back to the starting point the people began to rush for the trains, thoroughly disgusted with the entire affair. The crowd was anything but as large as was anticipated, there being scarcely six thousand people present, two-thirds of which, it is safe to say, were gamblers, pick-pockets and cutthroats. The gambling den, the prize ring, the thieves' haunts, the low dive, and the groggery were all fully represented, and in fact it was by odds the roughest crowd—taken as a whole—that the eyes of a decent person ever beheld. It is a hard matter to find a man who will acknowledge having been to see the race. The most worried and seemingly worked up man on the ground was Passenger Agent Baldwin, who was most instrumental in bringing about the race at Chautauqua. After having perfected all arrangements for the grand display, and having everything in the best of shape, then to have the whole affair wind up in such a complete fizzle, must have been provoking in the extreme. Whoever else may be at fault, the public can rest assured that Mr. Baldwin did well his part.

—Every one will find a general tonic in "Lindsey's Improved Blood Searcher." All druggists sell it. For sale by Bovard. 30 2t.

—Quite a lively war of words, accompanied by some dog blood, occurred near Buck Mills, on Tionesta Creek, the other day. It appears that some foreign parties had struck that place with dogs, guns etc., and were hounding deer into the creek, very much to the chagrin and disgust of the old hunters of that neck o'woods, and against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth; whereupon the o. h.'s turned out and commenced the slaughter of hounds promiscuously. The foreign parties of course "kicked" on this style of procedure, and the trouble commenced. Winchester, double-barrels, and muskets were drawn all round, and for a time it was thought a regular skirmish would follow; but seeing the old hunters evidently meant business the f. p.'s withdrew from the field, and, as our informant states, left minus a couple of dogs.

—The weather prophet of the Pittsburgh Commercial-Gazette has the following to say regarding the weather: "I am not able to give a positive and definite answer to the many inquiries made as regards the prospects for rain. It appears that the roots of the atmosphere are dried up throughout the east, north and west of the United States. There is no indication of a storm at present, but will present an answer in a negative sense. If there is no rain storm between Saturday and Tuesday noon, next, 18th and 21st inst., you may expect the lunar month to be nearly destitute of storms as the last month. If a free and extended copious rain storm should ensue a change for cooler weather will ensue, and if frosts follow, there will be an abundance of rain storms, yet a high river is not probable to flow before the 20th to 30th of November."

—Last Thursday afternoon some of the little boys playfully set fire to the woods near the campmeeting ground, and the leaves being so dry the fire soon got out of their control and spread rapidly. The citizens were obliged to turn out and fight hard to save the fences and buildings near the edge of the woods. The fire spread all along the side hill back of the Court House, placing some of the buildings in that vicinity in considerable danger. It was finally fought off without doing any serious damage, but only after a good deal of effort. Boys should be very careful how they handle matches in the woods during this dry weather.

—And still the drought continues. Many of the wells about town are waterless, and the bottom of the river keeps showing itself more and more each day. Our lumbermen are beginning to feel a little uneasy lest we should not have a flood before winter sets in. There is now lying at the mouth of the creek upwards of two million feet of lumber awaiting sufficient water to run it to market. This will all have to be drawn out and rafted in the spring should the much hoped for flood fail to put in an appearance.

—Prof. Monday has taken up quarters in Franklin, Pa., where he proposes following up his business of music teaching. The Professor is one of the finest performers on the piano in the State, and we'll guarantee his accomplishments will be appreciated by the citizens of Franklin. Success, Prof.

—The November number of the Nursery is at hand with more than its usual amount of pretty stories and illustrations for the children. It is the best and cheapest publication extant for young readers, and when saved up and bound at the end of each volume makes one of the handsomest little books that can be had. Especial attention is directed to the Premium list in the October number; it embraces some rare opportunities to the getters-up of clubs. Address John L. Shorey, 36 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

—The November number of Ballou's Magazine is issued, and can be found at all the newsdealers in the country, or is sent to subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per annum, postpaid. This is cheap enough for a first-class family magazine that contains so much interesting reading-matter as Ballou's, with its excellent illustrations, nice stories, thrilling sea-yarns, and first-class poetry. It is a serial for old and young, and no one can fail to find something in it that will interest and instruct. Thomes & Talbot, publishers, Boston, Mass.

—Peterson's Magazine, which a contemporary calls "pre-eminently the first of the lady's books," is on our table for November, ahead of all others. It is astonishing how this favorite continues to improve. The present number leads off with a charming steel engraving, "The Little Haymaker," and is followed by one of those double-size steel fashion plates, only seen in this periodical. Then comes a powerful engraving, "The Oriol Window," illustrating a story, and then some fifty wood cuts of dresses, patterns in embroidery, crochet, &c., &c. The price of "Peterson," remember, is but Two Dollars a year, or less than any other first-class magazine, postage free; to clubs the terms are even lower, viz: two copies for $3.50, with a superb, copyright mezzotint (size 24 inches by 20) "Washington at Valley Forge," as premium. Or four copies for $6.50, and an extra copy of the magazine itself as premium. Or five copies for $8.00, with both an extra copy and the "Washington at Valley Forge," as premium. For larger clubs the premiums are even more tempting. Now is the time to get up clubs for 1880. Specimens are sent, gratis, if written for. Address Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Public Vendue. I will expose to sale at my residence in Tionesta borough, on Saturday, Oct. 25, 1879, the following household goods: Two bureaus, two bedsteads, two set of chairs, two stands, dishes and cupboard. Also, 10 bushels of potatoes. A. O. DONOVAN. —"Is there a man with soul so dead," who hath suffered the miseries of a cough or cold, yet neglected to try "Sellers' Cough Syrup." 30 2t. —It is absolutely the best known remedy for Female Weakness, strengthens the whole system, and can produce no injurious effects. Barosma is prepared by E. K. Thompson, Titusville, Pa. For sale by Bovard. —Sick headaches incessantly distract many. Let such use "Sellers' Liver Pills." 25c. a box. For sale by Bovard. 30 2t.

MARRIED.

CRAWFORD-WARNER.—In Oil City, Pa., on Monday Oct. 20, 1879, by Rev. A. N. Craft, Mr. R. Bruce Crawford, and Miss Ellen L. Warner, both of Tionesta, Pa.

So, Bruce, you've went and gone and got spliced. Well, you and your excellent lady will please accept our congratulations and best wishes. May you "liff long and broser."

DIED.

WALTERS.—At her residence in Tionesta, on the morning of Thursday, Oct. 16th, 1879, Mrs. Doreas D. Walters, aged 41 years and 12 days.

The deceased was taken sick about three weeks ago, with typhoid fever, and was obliged to give up teaching school. She lingered along, and at times was thought to be growing better, until a day or two previous to her death, when she was taken suddenly worse, and never rallied again. Mrs. Walters was born and raised in this section, and has always enjoyed the universal esteem of her large circle of acquaintances. Her husband, Mr. Philip Walters, died about five years ago, since which she has employed her time attending and teaching school. By her kind disposition she greatly endeared herself to the little children who attended her school, and her memory will long be cherished in their young hearts. She leaves a mother, brother, and several sisters to mourn her demise, and these friends have the sympathy of our community in their affliction.
