The Best Remedy Known to Man!

Dr. Clark Johnson having associated himself with Mr. Edwin Eastman, an escaped captive, long a slave to Wakametta, the medicine man of the Comanches, is now prepared to lend his aid in the introduction of the wonderful remedy of that tribe. The experience of Mr. Eastman being similar to that of Mrs. Charles Jones and son, of Washington Co., Iowa, an account of whose sufferings were thrillingly narrated in the New York Herald of Dec. 15th, 1878, the facts of which are so widely known, and so nearly parallel, that but a little mention of Mr. Eastman's experiences will be given here. They are, however, published in a neat volume of 300 pages, entitled, "Seven and Nine Years among the Comanches and Apaches," of which mention will be made hereafter. Suffice it to say, that for several years, Mr. Eastman, while a captive, was compelled to gather the roots, gummy barks, herbs and berries of which Wakametta's medicine was made, and is still prepared to provide the same materials for the successful introduction of the medicine to the world; and assure the public that the remedy is the same now as when Wakametta compelled him to make it.

Nothing has been added to the medicine and nothing has been taken away. It is without doubt the Best Purifier of the Blood and Breaker of the Syphilis ever known to man. This Syrup possesses varied properties. It acts upon the Liver. It acts upon the Kidneys. It regulates the Bowels. It purifies the Blood. It quiets the Nervous System. It protects Digestion. It nourishes, strengthens and invigorates. It carries off the old blood and makes new. It opens the pores of the skin, and induces healthy perspiration. It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors. There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in relation to directions.

TIMELY TOPICS.

In an interesting article in the International Review on "the political situation in France," M. Talandier says: The republic is steadfastly growing, and after having successfully withstood for the last eight years the efforts of its domestic enemies, it now shows itself able to withstand even the faults of its friends. The second ordeal is much more the crucial, and we now see only its beginning. Yet it can be, I think, safely affirmed that our present political establishment is so strongly believed in, and so deeply rooted in the affections of the French people, that it almost defies not only the powers of its adversaries, but the conceits, miscarriages and absurdities of its advocates.

The substitute for wooden railway sleepers, which is promised in the manipulation of the waste from blast furnaces is one of the most interesting of recent suggestions in connection with the construction and repair of railways. Wood is fast becoming scarce, and in time will be expensive, the destruction of forests not being made good by planting. By the new process of treating this furnace slag, it is toughened after being converted into a coarse sort of glass, and put into form for sleepers. Actual experiments is said to have demonstrated the practicability of the discovery, which will be received by railway corporations as a welcome source of reduction in the expense of construction.

Two Illinois farmers, who had a large crop of wheat to sell, went to Chicago and frequented the board of trade rooms, which is a resort for speculators in produce. Their attention was attracted by an old man who constantly talked and gesticulated all by himself. They made his acquaintance, and he told them that his strange conversation with spirits, who kept him informed as to the future of the market. He said that he lacked the money to take advantage of these supernatural points, but would sell them at a reasonable price. The farmers at once put him on a liberal salary, and only lost faith in him when he stole a diamond pin from one of them. The fact that he had swindled many other speculators was then divulged.

General Myers, of the United States signal service, has completed arrangements with the principal railroads of the country by which a system of railway bulletins of weather reports is to be introduced. Under the new system, the signal service bureau can furnish to any railroad company wanting to use the same, the synopsis and indications of weather at a fixed hour. This information is to be transmitted by the railroad companies telegraph operators over the lines without charge to the United States, and to be printed on bulletin boards at their respective stations for the benefit of agricultural shippers and the traveling public. The necessary maps, reports and stationary supplies are to be furnished by the chief signal officer for the purpose of assisting the companies to co-operate with the signal service department in giving the weather views.

The Department of State at Washington has advised of the favorable reception by the British and German governments of the recent circular issued by the United States, calling attention to the determination of the American government to prosecute all persons engaged in polygamous practices, and informing them of the presence of agents amongst their subjects making converts to this sect. It appears that about the time of the issue of this circular the number of proselytes shipped to the United States was unusually large. Reports from the consular officers at the principal points of shipment of this class of people state that the police are energetically at work to stop this emigration by a formal notification of the purpose of the American government to arrest and prosecute emigrants of this sect immediately upon their arrival in the United States. The secretary of state now feels that with the co-operation of the governments addressed, the inflow of proselytes from the old world will be entirely cut off and with the energetic measures now being enforced in Utah the whole system will speedily crumble to pieces.

A Poet and His Technique.

He was a long, slim man, with claret colored hair and a superabundance of Moody and Sankey expression. He wandered into the office with a free and easy swagger and said:

"Are you the editor?"

"I am," responded a gray-headed man.

"Well, I want you to listen for a minute while I sing you an ode:

"The leaves are turning scarlet,
The leaves are turning yellow,
The leaves are turning—"

"Help! watch!" yelled the editor lustily, but the fiend kept on:

"The rose is kind of lovely,
The phlox is kind of lovely,
The pansies—"

"Great suffering Hornspon!" screamed the editor so loud that the carpet raised itself and trembled like the herd of an Ohio editor after he has been out all night in the company of New York paragraphers. But the fiend was not to be squelched so easily. He raised his finger and, in response, the editor became silent and he went on:

"The cow is rather dappled,
The hop-tod's rather dappled,
The autumn leaf is dappled,
The—"

"Stop!" yelled the editor, drawing a pistol from his pocket and leveling it at him. "Or I'll rip the top of your head off."

"Don't you want to hear my poem?" inquired the poet, as he folded the manuscript.

"You had better put your poem up. Did I ever run you down in my paper?"

"Did I ever say your grandfather was a horse thief?"

"No, not that I know of."

"Did I ever injure you in any way?"

"No, I don't think you ever did."

"Then why do you attempt to read that poetry to me? Don't you know that I'm square?"

"Yes, but I don't want you to publish it. I merely want you to know that I am a poet, and that I write poetry, so that you can testify if I ever murdered a man, and then I can prove I'm insane. I don't know that I'll ever commit murder, but it's always best to look ahead and be on the safe side."

The editor promised to testify, and he poet walked smugly out.—Wheeling Leader.

Local Advertising.

The virtue of advertising is of more consequence, in a general way, than it is often credited with. A too contracted view is so frequently thrown around its salutary influences that those who read a business card seem to think that its import is of but little consequence to any one besides the advertiser. This, however, is a great mistake, for the community at large is benefitted, according to our way of thinking, by every business card of a town store appearing in the local papers. It needs no very skillful reasoning to elucidate the proposition, for their can be no better method adopted to improve a village, town or city, than that which keeps the bulk of trade at home. By so doing the results of industry are widely diffused in the expenditures made, society becomes co-operative to a considerable extent, material improvements are encouraged, and pride of place is fostered. Our live store-keepers are beginning to understand the value of advertising, and our residents fail not to reward them for their enterprise. A contemporary puts the matter in this wise: "When the business men of a town fail to advertise extensively they diminish the importance and trade of the place, and permit more enterprising localities to take the latter from them." Although done for the individual interest, advertisers should be looked upon by citizens of the town where they reside, as in some sense public benefactors, for they should be encouraged accordingly. One merchant who advertises extensively is worth to his own town and its people more than forty who never show themselves in print, and should be for this reason alone preferred, assuming that he is, of course, a fair business man.—Prattsburg (N. Y.) News.

One hundred thousand Londoners live on canal boats and barges.

A Blockade that should be Raised.

The egress from the system of water material through the natural channels should be rendered free, without loss of time, when a blockade is produced by an attack of constipation, a disorder which, if it becomes chronic, is productive of serious bodily mischief. Jaundice, severe headaches, nausea, dyspepsia, the usual concomitants of the malady mentioned, all indicate that the bodily functions are materially interfered with. Hostetter's Bitters is particularly efficacious in cases of this sort, and renders the habit of body perfectly regular. It is a medicine greatly to be preferred to drastic cathartics, which are well calculated to drench, but unhappily also weaken the intestines. We say unhappily, since such medicines are the favorite recourse of many ill-advised persons, who resort to them upon the most trivial occasion, and greatly to their discomfort and injury.

H. W. Johns' Asbestos Roof Paint forms the most durable and economical protective coating in the world for tin roofs, exposed brick walls, iron work, barns, fences, etc., for which it is in every respect equal to the best white lead, while it costs only half as much. It is made in a variety of beautiful colors, samples of which will be sent free on application to 87 Maiden Lane, N. Y.

The delicate membrane which envelops the lungs, and lines the air passages, is exceedingly sensitive, and a slight irritation of it increases and spreads very rapidly. Remembering this, use, if you are attacked by a cough or cold, that incomparable pulmonary and preventive of consumption, Dr. H. W. Johns' Lung Balm, which invariably gives speedy relief and ultimately effects a complete cure in all cases where the breathing organs are affected. Use it in time and prevent serious bronchial trouble. Sold by all druggists.

Each maker of parlor or cabinet organs advertises his own as best. But the examinations at the great world's exhibitions have but one result. At every one for a dozen years Mason & Hamlin Organs have been found best. They are awarded the gold medal at the Paris exhibition this year.

The genuine Asbestos Steam Pipe and Boiler Coverings are the most durable, effective and economical in use. H. W. Johns Manufacturing Company, 87 Maiden Lane, New York, are the sole manufacturers.

For coughs, colds and throat disorders use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years. Twenty-five cents a box.
