TOM THUMB AND WIFE.

An Interesting Interview with These

Well-Rnown Dwarts, The New York correspondent of the Ciucinnati Commercial had an interview with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb, the lilliputians, while exhibiting in a museum in the metropolis. He writes: Down stairs rushed the crowd, and in a few moments the curtain that concealed a small stage was drawn up, and a particularly long and lean man cantered out to announce Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stratton. A man at the piano struck up, "See! the conquering hero comes!" and the tiny couple entered. Tiny, did I say? Then let me take it back, as far as the general is concerned, for he has grown fearfully and wonderfully fat, rather yellow and very wrinkled. looked, in fact, like an orange that had been sat upon, and his gray goatee and hair added to his evident accumulation of years. He must weigh at least 110 pounds, which considering his height to the square inch, is doing very well.

His little wife looks careworn, and is hardly stouter than when she first appeared, but she wore a charming toilet of pink satin and pearls, and smiled the same five for a cent little smiles as of She sang in a voice fine as 100 thread a song about the shamrock, and then the general appeared in his favorite character of Napoleon. I think the spectacle would have made the great, warrior wriggle in his grave even more than Mme. Remusats "memoirs;" and when the plump exhibitor went to strike the attitude of meditation he lost 9.000.00 Bottles. his briance and to the audience. Then to the amusement of the audience. Then a tall, slim young man came out as a Chinaman and danced and sung and slid round on parlor skates and the matinee was over.

Atter the people had dispersed I had a little chat with the famous small couple.

"How long have you been before the public, general?" was asked.

Over forty years," said he, folding his arms and striking an attitude.

"People seem to have an idea that I have retired, but the truth is I can't do without the excitement of public life, though my wife is getting rather tired of it "Yes," said Mrs. Thumb. with a weary little sigh; "we have been married seventeen years to-day, and I think it's about time we stayed at home. You see, I am domestic in my tastes, and love housekeeping, but the general wants to be on the go all the time."

"Well, well," said the husband, with an imperial wave of his short fat hand. "In summer I have my yacht and fast horses, and that passes the time away, but the winter season is pretty dull in Middleborough." "Yes," said Mme. Thumb, with an expressive look, "if it were not for so much yachting and fast driving our bank account would be a little bigger to day "My dear!" said the general, and an awkward pause ensued, broken by our correspondent remarking: "People were very sorry to hear of your sister's (Miss Minnie Warren) death."

"Yes," said the wee woman, with tears in her eyes and as much feeling as a six-footer. "It was a great blow to me, and then came the loss of my dear little son. A good many people thought he was nothing but an advertisement," she continued, growing a trifle inco-herent; "but if they had known how I felt they wouldn't."

"And what has become of little Major Newell, your brother-in-law?" "Why, didn't you see him in the Chinese song-and-dance?"

That tall young man? Impossible!" body else. Of course it ruined his business, and he had to go into the varieties.

"And where is Commodore Nutt nowadayspin "Oh, he is making his money fly out in San Francisco." Here the carriage was announced, and with a "Come along, my dear," the general led his wife and helped her in the coupe, and filled up one seat himself. The colored driver whipped up the dap-ple gray ponies, and off they went, smiling and bowing.

Referring to the recent arrest in St. Petersburg of Vera Sassulitch, who shot General Trepoff, prefect of the Russian capital, in February, 1878, the New York World gives the following sketch of her career: Few things which of late have occurred in Russia, where stirring events succeed one another with startling rapidity, created so great a sensation as the Vera Sassulitch episode. The woman was born in 1850, and at seventeen years of age felt the justice-or suspicion-with which the "Empire of Discontent" is swayed. She was the school friend of the sister of Netchaieff, the conspirator whom Switzerland refused to extradite. Miss Netchaieff was thrown into prison for the offense of being her brother's sister, and Vera Sassulitch was likewise imprisoned for being the triend of the conspirator's sister. For nine years she was a prisener, and as such was subjected to brutal indignities. In 1876 she was liberated. A little over a year later all liberal-minded people in Russia were shocked by the brutality of General Trepoff, who had ordered the severe punishment of a political prisoner, Bogolinhoff who was guilty of the grievous offense of not having uncovered in Trepoff's au-gust presence. Vera Sassulitch, it is said had never heard of Bogolinhoff, but she felt that by attracting attention to Trepoff she might end his tyrannies. Accordingly she sought an interview and shot him in the side. The wound was not fatal, but the woman was tried for her life. The jury embraced six members of the civil service, two merchants, a school inspector, a nobleman, a student and an artist. The audience of six hundred persons was a splendid one, admitted by ticket, and was com-posed of people in high station. Though the offense was admitted the sympathy of the audience and the general public was so great that she was acquitted. The audience greeted the verdict with cheers, and there was an attempt at a Nihilist demonstration, but the police interfered and promptly killed several persons. Vera's brother-in-law fired on he police and then blew out his own brains. The woman escaped and several months later was at a banquet in Geneva, where sitting at Henri Rechefort's right hand, she made so violent a speech that the Swiss authorities politely asked her to move on. From then until now her movements have not been a matter of public record.

Who Took the Money ? Over in the State of California, in the house keeper does not own an iron safe he has been in the habit of hiding his bag of money under a barrel in the cellar. One day recently he went to the cellar to make some change and at that moment noticed that the buckskin money bag contained two hundred and eighty dollars in gold and silver. An hour or so later he again had occasion to make change, for on that afternoon his boarders were settling their bills, and down he went for the money bog. Lo and behold! the bag was gone. There was not a trace of it-not even a penny left. Mr. Haast was troubled. Two hundred and eighty dollars was a big sum to him, as it is to many other persons, and it almost broke his heart to think that it had taken wings and flown. Mr. Haast tapped his forehead with his finger. "Aha!" he said, "Brampton, the butcher, is the only body who's been in the cellar. I must arrest Brampton." But he held his head down and thought for awhile. Mr. Brampton was said by every one to be an honest man; he had a cheery laugh, a happy "good morning" for all, and was never known to give bad weight in making a sale. Could it be Brampton? Thus our boarding house keeper reflected and at last sadly shaking his head made up his mind that Mr. Brampton should go to jail. Meanwhile Mrs. Haast had entered the cellar. began to look around-boxes were removed, barrels rolled away and things wife got a long stick and shoved away. "I feel something funny in there," she exclaimed. "If we only had a stick with a hook on the end." So they got a stick with a piece of bent wire fastened to the end and pulled out the object. It was an empty ginger bottle. That was discouraging, but the two reasoned that if a rat could carry off a ginger bottle he could carry off a little bag of money also. Again the stick was worked around in the rat-hole and again a hard object was feit. "That's the money, said Mrs Haast, and sure enough it was, for a bad old rat and not good Brampton, the butcher, was the thief. Mr. Haast got all his coin back as the bag had not been torn.

A Man's Mouth Sewed Up. The Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald says: There is one of our city physicians who is sometimes in the habit of imbibing too freely, and when the trials and tribulations of the busy world bear down heavily upon him he drowns his griefs and drives dull care away in the flowing bowl. It was while in this condition that one day he was called to one of the suburban villages of Syracuse to attend a man who had received severe gashes on his face. The patient was put under the influence of ether, and after a fashion the doctor proceeded to sew up the man's wounds. When he had completed the operation, as he supposed, he observed a large opening in the face just below the nose, from which the blood was oozing. After swallowing another potation from his now nearly empty flask, the doctor proceeded with renewed vigor to the task of sewing up the man's mouth! and after he had finished, ban-"Oh, yes; that was the major. You daged the man's face and departed. Not see, about the time that Minnie died the many minutes elapsed before the man poor fellow began to grow (this very recovered his consciousness, and "Um! mournfully), and he kept on growing um! um!" was heard from underneath and growing until he was just like any-the bandage, and "Um! um! was repeated as emphati ally as it was possible for the man to ejaculate under the circumstances. Another physician was called and the bandages and stitches were removed.

> Physicians say that there is no remedy for consumption, and possibly in some cases the assertion may be correct. We know however of many cures made by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and will guarantee positive reliet to the sufferer in every instance.

A Funny Mistake.

The other day an old country woman drove up in her wagon to a well-known shoe store, and entering the same, thus accosted the urbane proprietor: "I want to see them 'ere 'Ninety-five' Rubber Boots advertised in all the papers. I'm thinking they must be cheap at ninety-five cents, and I'll just take home two pair to the old man."

It was difficult at first to convince the old lady that the figures "95" referred to quality, not price, and that the boots were 95 per cent. sterling pure; but when she was shown a sample cut open to display the interior, and saw that the soles were half an inch thick of solid rubber, and that the upper and legs were double thick, she was contented to pay, not ninety-five cents, but several dollars, for a single pair of the "Candee 95 Per Cent. Boots," believing they would be the cheap-est in the end for the "old man" The storekeeper punched the date of sale in the legs so as to fix the expiration of the three months' warrant, and assured her in case they did not stand the warrant, he wou'd give a new pair free of charge.

Some New York Fits. NATURE'S REMEDY. THE CREAT BLOOD PURIFIER,

The New York police the other day found a young fellow in a dreadful fit and took him to the station house, where s hospital ambulance was at once sent for. It came, as such things do, in , hurry, bringing two doctors. "Epil-epsy,"said one; "Sham,"said the other, and they proceeded to test the case. The fellow was foaming at the mouth, with eyes set, fists clenched, and limbs rigid. lee-water was poured on him, and he showed no sign. It was about to be admitted a case of epilepsy, when hot water was dropped, just a little upon his skin. The patient at once jumped up all right. Both doctors were then aroused, and they threw him down and ooured all the ice-water they had over him till he begged them to stop. Then he owned up that he was shamming, and had recently shammed his way into Bellevue for a month and then into St Luke's. "Whenever I want a new suit of clothes and to feed up, I go out and have a fit," he said. The doctors say this sort of thing is not rare, and that these well fellows in hospitals make danger, us thieves there.

Learning to Write. The London Spectator says: We beanique for writing, and that a child beonging to the educated classes would be taught much better and more easily if, after being once enabled to make and recognize written letters, it were let alone, and praised or chidden not for its method, but for the result. Let the boy hold the pen as he likes, and make his strokes as he likes, and write at the pace he likes-hurry, of course, being discouraged-but insist strenuously and "Look around, Neil," she said, "per-haps you dropped the bag and didn't ble, shall be clean, and shall approach know it." The husband and wife then the good copy set before him, namely, a persistently that his copy shall be legi-ble, shall be clean, and shall approach well-written letter, not a rubbishy text on a singlelise, written as nobody but a be found. "Let's poke a stick into that big rat hole," said Mrs. Haast. "Oh. it's no use," replied Mr. Haast; but the a passable imitation of his copy and ula passable imitation of his copy and ultimately develop a characteristic and strong hand, which may be bad or good, but will not be either meaningless, undecided, or illegible. This hand will alter, of course, very greatly as he grows older. It may alter at eleven, because it is at that age that the range of the eyes is fixed, and short sight be-trays itself; and it will alter at seventeen, because then the system of taking notes at lectures, which ruins most hands will have cramped and temporarily spoiled the writing, but the character will form itself again, and will never be deficient in clearness or de-cision. The idea that it is to be clear will have stamped itself, and confidence will not have been destroyed by worrying little rules about attitude, and angle and slope, which the very irritation of the pupils ought to convince the teachers are, from some personal peculiarity, inapplicable. The lad will write as he does anything else that he cares to do, as well as he can, and with a certain efficiency and speed. Almost every letter he gets will give him some assistance, and the master's remonstrance on his illegibility will be attended to, like any other caution given in the curriculum.

Is it Possible That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, etc., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.-Post.
