THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

General James A. Garfield for President-and Hon. Chester A. Arthur for Vice President.

For nearly a week, or ever since last Wednesday, all eyes have been turned toward Chicago, and the country has awaited in breathless sipolitical conventions ever held in the United States. Every item of news almost fever heat. The general sentiment in this section, and we might say all over the Union was, as four years ago, for Blaine, but the experience of that convention taught the people not to build too much on his nomination, and as the convention progressed his friends became more and more doubtful as to his chances, and in fact had about given up the hope of his being nominated, and had begun to think that Senator Ddmunds would be the successful "dark borse." But the action of a political convention is getting of late to be as much of a conundrum as the verdict of a jury, and this one was no exception to the general rule.

The first ballot stood: Grant 304, Blaine 284, Sherman 91, Washburne 31, Edmunds 32, Windom 10. Not Fifth, We reaffirm the ballet expressed in 1875, that duties levied for the purpose of revenue should so discriminate as to until the 7th ballot did Garfield receive a vote. The balloting resulted about this way until the 36th ballot was reached, when Blaine's friends made a rush, at it were, for Garfield, nominating him. The vote stood on American submitted to any railroad or other corporation. That slavery, having perished in the states, its twin barbarity, polygamy. must die in the territories. That everywhere the same rights as those of a citizen by American submitted to citizens by American submitted. about this way until the 36th ballot this ballot: Garfield 399, Grant 306, Blaine 42, Sherman 3, Washburne 5. On motion the nomination was made unanimous. Whoever may feel disappointed in the result, the country may well be congratulated upon it. The Convention could not have selected a better candidate from the whole list of contestants. Gen. James A. Garfield has been in public life for the last twenty years, and he has stood in the front ranks of the prominent statesman of our times, and he has versely criticised. Such a nomination reasonable provisions as will produce the challenges the admiration of the whole country, and will receive the united support of the whole Republican party. We have no time to comment farther

Gen. Chester A. Arthur, of New York, was nominated for Vice President on first ballot. The Convention did not complete its work until late last evening, so we are unable to give but the mere facts this morning.

The Platform.

The Republican party, or the National Convention assembled at the end of twenty years since the federal government was first committed to its charge, submits to the people of the United States this brief report of its administration. It suppressed a rebellion, which had armed nearly a million of men to subvert the national authority. It reconstructed the union of the states with freedom instead of slavery as its corner stone; it transformed four million human beings from the likeness of things to the rank of citizens; it relieved congress from the infamous work af hunting fugative slaves and charged it to see that slavery does not exist. It has raised the value of our paper currency from thirty-eight per centum to the par of gold. It has restored upon a solid basis payment in coin for all the national obligations and has given us a currency absolutely good and equal in every part of our extended country. It has lifted the credit of the nation from the point where six per centum bonds sold at eighty-six to that where four per cent. bonds are eagerly sought at a premium. Under its administration the railways have increased from thirty-one thousand miles in 1860 to more than eighty-two thousand miles in 1879. Our foreign trade has increased from seven hundred millions to eleven hundred and fifty millions in the same time and our exports which were twenty millions less than our imports in 1860, were $264,000,000 more than our imports in 1879. Without resorting to loans it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of government besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and disbursed annually more than thirty millions of soldiers pensions. It has paid $188,000,000 of the public debt and by refunding the balance at lower rates has reduced the annual interest charge from nearly $151,000 000 to less than 89,000,000. All the industries of the country have revived, labor is in demand, wages have in-creased and throughout the entire country there is evidence of a coming prosperity greater than we have ever enjoyed. Upon this record the Re-We are authorized to announce N. S. publican party asks for the continued confidence and support of the people and this convention submits for their approval the following statements of the principals and purposes which will

RESOLUTIONS.

First, We affirm that the work of the last twenty-one years has been such as to commend itself to the favor of the nation, and that the fruits of the costly victories which we have achieved through immense difficulty should be preserved. That the peace regained should be cherished, the dissevered Union now happily restored lence the result of one of the greatest should be perpetuated, and that the libtransmitted undiminished to future generations. That the order established and the credit acquired should never be imfrom headquarters was greedily picked up, digested and commented upon until everybody was worked up to promoted, and the commerce already so great should be steadily encouraged. Second, The constitution of the United States is a supreme law and not a mere contract out of confederated states. .t made a sovereign nation. That some powers are denied to the nation while others are denied to the states, but the boundry between the powers delegated and those reserved are to be determined by the national and not the state tribunals.

Third, The work of popular education is one left to the care of the several states. It is the duty of the national government to aid that work to the extent of its con-stitutional ability. The intelligence of the nation is but the aggregate of the intelligence of the several states, and the destiny of the nation must be guided not by the genius of any one state, but by the average genius at all.

Fourth, The constitution wisely forbids congress to make any law respecting an establishment of religion, but it is idle to hope that the nation can be protected a ainst the influence of sectarianism while each state is opposed to domination. We therefore recommend that the constitution be so amended as to lay the same prohiof revenue should so discriminate as to favor American labor. That no further grant of the public domain should be made to any railroad or other corporation. American adoption. That we esteem it the duty of congress to develop and im-prove our water courses and harbors, but but insist that further subsidies to private persons and corporations must cease. That the obligations of the republic to the men who preserved its integrity in the days of battle are undiminished by the lapse of fifteen years since their final victory, and that their perpetual honor is and shall forever be the grateful privilege and sacred duty of the American people.

Sixth, Since the authority to regulate immigration and intercourse between the United States and foreign nations rests.

United States and foreign nations rests with the congress of the United States and its treaty-making powers, the Republican party regarding the unrestricted immigration of Chinese as an evil of great magnitude invoke their exercise of that power to restrain and limit that immigration by made a record that cannot be ad-result.

Seventh, That the purity and patriotism which characterizes the earlier career of Rutherford B. Hayes in peace and war, and which guided the thought of our im-mediate predecessor to him for a presiden-tial candidate, have continued to inspire him in his career as chief executive and that history will accord to his administra-tion the honors which are due to an effi-cient, just and courageous execution of the public business and will honor his inter ositions between the people and proposed artisan laws.

Eighth, We charge upon the Democratic arty the habitual sacrifice of patriotism and justice to a supreme and unsatiable lust of office and patronage at that time, To obtain possession of the national and state governments and the control of place, they have obstructed all efforts to promote the purity of conscience, the free-dom of suffrage, having devised fraudu-lent certifications and returns, have labored to unseat lawfully elected members of congress; to secure at all hazards the vote of the majority of the states in the house of representatives; have endeav-ored to occupy by force and fraud the places of trust given to others by the people of Maine, and rescued by the coura-geous action of Maine's patriotic sons, have by methods vicious in principal and tyranical in practice attached partisan legislation to appropriation bills upon whose passage the very movements of the government depend; have crushed the rights of the individual; have advocated the principles and sought the favor of relellion against the nation and have endeavored to obliterate the sacred memories of the war and have overcome its inestimably valuable result of nationality, personal freedom and individual equality and the equal steady and complete enforcement of the laws. The protection of all our cit-izens in the enjoyment of all privileges and immunities guaranteed by the constitution is the first duty of the nation, and the dangers of a solid south can only be averted by a faithful performance of every promise which the nation has made to the citizens, and the execution of the laws and the punishment of all those who violate them, are the only safe methods by which prosperity established throughout the outh and whatever promises the nation makes the nation must perform; and the nation cannot with safety relegate this duty to the states, and a solid south must be divided by the peacetal agencies of the ballot, and all opinions must there find free expression, and to this end the honest voter must be protected against terror-ism, violence or fraud. Ninth, And we affirm it to be the duty and purpose of the Republican party to use all legitimate means to restore all the states of this union to the most perfect harmony which may be possible, and we submit to the practical and sensible peo-ple of the United States to say whether it would not be dangerous to the dearest interests of our country at this time to surrender the administration of the national government to a party which seeks to verthrow the existing policy under which we are so prosperous and thus bring distrust and confusion where there is now order, confidence and hope. Republican party adhering to the principle affirme i by its last national convention of respect for the constitutional rules governing appointments to office, adopts the declaration of President Hayes, that the reform of the civil service should be thorough, radical and complete. To this end it demands the co-operation of the legislative with the executive department of the government and that congress shall so legislate that fitness ascertained by the HARRISBURG, PA., June 5, '80. We are having rather a quiet time of it this week, all the interest centreing in and all the talk being about continue to guide and inspire its the Chicago convention. Las week I spent in Washington and being very busy could not find time to send my usual letter. There, as well as here the thermometer for several days mounted to and remained at 95° in the shade, which coming on as it did so suddenly, was almost insufferable. 7 o'clock p. m. Each election pre-Since the first of this week, however, the temperature here has been decidedly cooler making heavy clothing feel quite comfortable, and straw hats look out of place, so to speak. had quite a long talk with the famous 29th day of June, at 2 o'clock p. m. Dr. Mary Walker. She is the same quaint figure that we have seen around the large cities for years, seeming never to change. Were she to dress in female attire she would make quite a nice quiet little woman, being of medium height with dark brown hair, which she wears short, however, and pleasant blue eyes. Attired as she is in a long, badly fitting frock coat, with pants and vest to match, white shirt and collar with a little blue bow, and on her head a small brown straw hat, she presents the appearance of an effeminate young countryman of about 22 years of age. She holds her age well, as I can remember her when I was quite young. During our conversation, which lasted for over an hour, and which, though she is a little "cracked," was quite interesting, she assured me that she had seen Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, soon after he had committed the deed, that she met him at Evansville, Ind., and that as she had known him before she could not be mistaken, and that to-day he was in Europe. She also stated that she had seen Charlie Ross, the child that was abducted from Philad's, and that the parents of the child would may2tf not own him, and that she knew where he was to-day, and could put her hand on him at any moment. Did you not know her to be "a little off" you could not help believing her as she tells her story in such a plausable manner and has so many proofs to back up her assertions. The authorities knowing the course don't pay any attention to her stories, and she thinks she is a much wronged man, or woman,-I don't know which she calls herself. Although laughed at by everybody you could not help but sympathise with her, and after having a few minutes chat you would go away not deriding but pitying her. She is quite poor, and gains a livelihood, I presume, by book canvassing and the generosity of some of the charitable citizens.

Although the Susquehanna being rather shallow and filled with rocks, is not a very good stream for aquatic sports, yet nightly it is covered with pleasure boats of all descriptions. A number of our young men have formed a club and now own five shells, valued at about $500, together with a boat house. From the practicing going on portunity of witnessing the sublime and you may hear of them in a contest ated by some of these days.

Yesterday (Friday) some little excitement was occasioned by the burn- THE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP ing of a wall paper store house owned by A. B. Teck. The building, a frame structure, two stories high, was completely gutted, together with its contents, which will involve a loss of several thousand dollars, the store being the finest in the city.
