OUR COUNTY NOMINATIONS.

We have the pleasure to present to-day the complete ticket of the Republican party - National, State and County - and that pleasure is largely increased by the knowledge that, from top to bottom, it is one of the very best it has ever been our fortune to present to the Republicans of Forest county. The struggle for the nomination of the county ticket has through-out its entire progress been free from personal or bitter strife, and the result is accepted with a feeling of acquiescence and heartiness of acceptance which looks well for the harmonious discharge of the future work of the campaign, and the success of our ticket at the general election. The gentlemen whose names have been before the people for the past two months or more, are all excellent men, and no matter what the result of Saturday's elections might have been we could not have had otherwise than a most excellent ticket. The only offices for which there were any contentions were Assembly and Associate Judge. Messrs. Davis and Jamieson are both excellent men, either of whom would have been acceptable to the party, and would carry the full vote of the party in the fall. The same can truthfully be said of Judge Kerr and Mr. Amza Purdy, candidates for Associate Judge. A few comments upon the chosen ones may not be out of place:

Gen. Harry White, the unanimous choice of our county for Congress, has represented this district in that high capacity for two consecutive terms, with eminent ability and fidelity. Two years ago he received the nomination of this district unanimously, and this year the entire district stands ready to accord him a like compliment. It is rarely that such a large and strongly Republican district as the 25th allows its Congressman to retain his honor without a struggle, but Gen. White has proved himself a noble Representative, and the action of his district is a flattering recognition which he fully appreciates. He has the reputation of watching and providing for the wants of his constituents more closely and better than any member of the House. Mark our words: Gen. Harry White will be returned to the halls of Congress with a rousing majority, to which little Forest will contribute her quota manfully.

Hon. Wm. D. Brown, of Warren, Forest's choice for President Judge in the district composed of Warren, Elk, and Forest counties, is a gentleman eminently fitted for the position. He is a man of strictest integrity, and one of the ablest lawyers in the State. He will undoubtedly get the instructions of the other counties, and after the November election will grace the Judicial ermine of this district.

E. L. Davis, Esq., our nominee for Assembly, is well known to every voter in the county, with, perhaps, a very few exceptions, and really needs no eulogy from us. Two years ago he was a candidate for the nomination of the same office, and was defeated by a small majority. He took his defeat manfully; was made Chairman of the county committee, and in that capacity, conducted one of the best and most spirited campaigns ever witnessed in this county. It was conceded by all that to his able and untiring efforts was largely due the success of the entire ticket. Since then he has labored incessantly and done noble and telling work for the party. Every true Republican in Forest county will take infinite pleasure in working for the election of Mr. Davis, because they feel that they owe him a debt of gratitude for his excellent services for the party in a time when others were deserting its ranks, and the prospects for success looked gloomy. His course has been one to challenge the admiration of his most bitter opposers. Of Mr. Davis' fitness for the position there is not a question. An old citizen of the county, thoroughly posted in National affairs, as well as the needs and wants of his constituents, he will be just the man Forest county wants to look after her in the Legislature of the State.

Mr. Amza Purdy, of Green township, our candidate for Associate Judge is a man against whom no one can say aught, and we doubt if he has an enemy in the world. He came to this section with his parents and settled on Tionesta creek over fifty years ago. He was then but a child. With the exception of about a year and a half he has lived here ever since. Mr. Purdy has always lived in peace with his neighbors who have learned to love and respect him like a father. He has always been a great reader and has kept himself posted on the affairs of the day. His judgment could be relied upon on all matters that would naturally come before him in the capacity of Associate Judge. He has been a true Republican ever since the party was organized, and has never been known to go back on the ticket. Let us hope that the party will stick to him as he has stuck to it.

The nomination of Mr. N. S. Foreman, for County Treasurer, is conceded on all hands to be one of the wisest and best that could possibly have been made. He has been a citizen of the county for many years, but owing to his quiet and unassuming manner has not become as extensively acquainted as might be wished, yet where he is known he needs not the slightest recommendation. Mr. Foreman is a carpenter by trade, and during all our acquaintance with him we have never known him to be idle an hour, unless on account of sickness or disability. By his energy and thrift he has accumulated enough to build him a neat home in town, with perhaps a little laid by for a rainy day. Smith Foreman is one of the squarest men it is our pleasure to know; owes no man a dollar, and meets every obligation promptly. He will make a trusty and most efficient Treasurer, and the funds of the county will be secure in his hands. He will sweep the board wherever he is known.

Prof. F. F. Whitekin, the nominee for County Surveyor, is a young man of undoubted ability, and an A. No. 1 Surveyor, as can be fully attested by those versed in the profession. S. D. Irwin, Esq., gives him the credit of passing a most excellent examination, and says that few young men of his age can be found to excel him. He has taught school in our county for several years, and, we believe, has given good satisfaction as a teacher in every instance. If elected Mr. Whitekin will discharge his duties with fidelity and accuracy, and will, without doubt, give perfect satisfaction to all parties.

Mr. N. Thompson, the choice of the party for Coroner, is well known in the county as an unflinching Republican, and a square man in every respect. The office is of very little account so far as the pay is concerned, and it will make little difference to Mr. Thompson whether he gets it or not, but for all that we're going to elect him, and that with a good round majority.

For the present we will let these few introductory remarks suffice. We are secure in asserting that the nominations reflect the honest preferences of the party, and are constituted of men chosen with especial regard to their fitness and integrity, and with confidence in their influence and ability to carry the party strength to its highest possibility of achievement in the struggle through which it will pass in the ensuing campaign. The candidates are men who bear names well and honorably known to the party, and who can lay claim to the gratitude of partisan support for their fidelity to its principles.

The Cincinnati Convention.

The great Democratic circus, which pitched its tents in Cincinnati on Tuesday of last week, got through with its performance on Thursday, and contrary to the expectations of the most sanguine Democrats placed a very fair ticket in the field, Gen. W. S. Hancock, of Pennsylvania, for President, on the second ballot, and Wm. H. English, of Indiana, for Vice President. Of the nomination the Pittsburgh Com. Gazette has the following to say, which is about the way everybody looks on the matter. The Democrats have a brilliant soldier at the head of their ticket, and that is all. The Republicans have one equally brilliant as a soldier, and as brilliant a statesman as the country ever produced - tried in every way and never found wanting:

The nomination of Hancock at Cincinnati yesterday closed up the ranks on both sides, and now the struggle begins. The contest is to be between Garfield and Hancock, and never were two parties marshaled under better or braver leaders. Hancock was as gallant and courageous a soldier as Garfield, but no whit more so. He has no political record, beyond the fact that he is and always has been a Democrat, and his personal character, like Garfield's, is above reproach, so that we start out, as to men, on equal ground, and the contest is to be one purely of principle, and upon the inherent and essential differences between the two parties.

Hancock, although a good soldier, goes into the fight weighted down with the disloyalty of the solid South, and with the well-known and long-cherished purposes of the rebel element in his party. He fought them during the war; but in leading them, now, it is he who has changed position. They have not and will not. He does not believe in states rights; they do. He may not favor the payment of southern claims, but they will overrule him in that, and all else that he may differ from them. On all the issues that divide the parties, no matter what his individual opinions may be, they will compel him to lead where they choose to go, and to occupy the ground from which they choose to fight. It is not Hancock, the man or the soldier, that the people are asked to vote for, but for Hancock, the representative of Democratic principles, which are the same under him as they would have been under Tilden or Payne, or any of the other representative men of that party.

The nomination of a Pennsylvania man as the Democratic candidate for President, transfers the fight, in a large measure, from New York and Ohio to this State. We do not believe that Hancock is any stronger in Pennsylvania than any other candidate would have been; but the very fact that he is from this State will compel the Democrats to concentrate the fight around the home of their candidate. This is a fact which Pennsylvania Republicans may as well take into earnest consideration at once. It is one that calls upon them to forget their silly local fights, and to buckle on their armor for the hardest political struggle they have had since 1872. The time for local jealousies and bickerings is over. Henceforth we are to muster, shoulder to shoulder, in defence of the great principles it has been given to us to maintain, and present an impregnable barrier against the effort of the enemy to capture this heretofore stronghold of Republican principles.

The July number of Ballou's Monthly Magazine is so good an issue that we hardly know which article to read first, - the illustrated one or the stories which are so prominent and so good withal. It is a superior number with a piece of music that is worth more than the price of the magazine. Published by Thomas & Talbot, 23 Hawley Street, Boston, Mass., at $1.50 per annum, postpaid, and for sale at all the news depots in the country.

STATE CAPITAL JOTTINGS.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 26, 80.

The "unterrified" celebrated the nomination of Hancock on Thursday evening by a mass meeting at the Bolton Hotel, which was followed by a street parade of several hundred of the select (?) of the party, which was headed by the State Capital Band. After burning several pounds of red fire, shooting off two roman candles and shouting themselves hoarse they went home satisfied that Hancock would be the next President and they would all be fixed. The Republicans seem about as well satisfied as the Democrats. The one thinking they have a strong man, the other that they have an easy man to beat. While in Hancock they have a soldier, in Garfield we have both the soldier and the statesman. The hanging of Mrs. Suratt and the fact that he has lately married a catholic lady will not assist their nominee perceptibly, while all the imputations against our candidate have been cleared up. Our outlook now is good. Pennsylvania will give her usual Republican majority for the Republicans, without a doubt. Ohio, we are sure of, and have a good chance of carrying New York and Indiana, and several other of the doubtful western states are ours with a little work, while we have hopes of two or three of the southern states. Both parties are going into the fight with their sleeves rolled up, so there will be a hot contest, but from the way the horizon looks I don't think it will be necessary to have another electoral commission. Both men are good, but there has been a slight difference in the way they have been brought up which will cause the conservative voter some thought before he deposits his ballot. Gen. Hancock, all his life has been fed and clothed by the government, having started as a boy at West Point, while Gen. Garfield started life as a mule driver on a canal, and made himself what he is. Going on the field of battle when it was necessary and leaving the government's employ when she was out of danger, to obey the voice of the people, who recognizing his ability, desired him to serve them in the legislature, where he has continuously advocated their claims ever since, which I think is good evidence of his popularity at home, where, were he not a good man they would have been apt to have found it out long ago and retired him to private life.

Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Electric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence." Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try 'Thomas' Electric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much.
