A City in Two States.

Union City, although called in Indiana, is in two States. As the greater part of the corporation lies in the State of Indiana, Randolph county, and the postoffice is there, Indiana gets the credit of it all. It has two mayors, one on each side of the meridian which forms the boundary between the two States. When they are both good the city has an abundance of good things. When they are bad they can stand on opposite sides of the line, make mouths at each other across it, and dare each other to come over. As a rule the line is strong enough to keep them apart. Two years or more ago Frank Swallow. of Indiana, dared Joe Williamson, of Ohio, to invade the sanctity of the soil | ments of sails and cordage remaining, of Indiana. Joe was unreasonable, and as well as many specimens either perfect refused or neglected to comply so long or incomplete of utensils and instruas Frank stood drawn up in line on the other side to give him a reception suitained by antiquaries. Among other ble to his rank and station. Neither of things are a number of pieces of oak them was mayor, or is ever likely to be. wood, peculiarly shaped, wrought with A boulder about that time suddenly emigrated from Indiana into Ohio. Wil- the center, to admit of ropes being liamson's head was directly in its path, and got the benefit of the full heft of the shields, or bucklers, have also been frantic stone, momentum and all. His head was no match for that, so over he went, assaulted and battered, and entitled to remedy at law. Swallow was tons of three horses were discovered, suspected, in fact charged with assisting that boulder in emigrating. But manner in which they are suspended the assault and battery was an awfully round the interior of the ship is absocompound case. It occurred in two lutely the same as one sees represented States, or the assault occurred in one in the beautiful tapestry of Bayeux, in State and the battery in another; or the complex compound act, considered as eleventh century. The ship is not yet one whole, occurred in two States, considered as two sovereignties, or else in one definite portion of space comprised in limited portion of two States viewed as a theater of the melancholy event.

The situation turned out to be so bewildering, confusing and tangled up generally that all the legal ability, judicial and lay, in that quarter of the two States has been unable to disentangle the case, so that it might be considered open for the action of a court. What court? There arises a question. Well, the stubborn problem remains unsolved. Wnile the assailant escapes punishment the assailed lives on without the satisfaction of having been avenged, and the loyal citizens of two sovereign States every day suffer from the mortifying consciousness of two majesties of the law unsustained.

But the law of compensation holds good here. There is a man on the Ohio side whose stable is within 100 feet of the State line, and for the last six years he hasn't dared to ride his pony over into Indiana except by stealth. That man owes a debt. and his creditor, an Indianian, has an attachment for that pony which he cannot put into practice unless the debtor voluntarily brings the said pony over from Ohio into Indiana, and his aforesain creditor finds it out and can lay hands on the animal. For six years this Ohio man has been watched in vain. Only once did he ride his pony over into Indiana, and then to a funeral, but he got back over the line before the clutches of the law could be applied to his favorite. As a rule the officers of the two corporations work in harmony. Frequently chases occur ludicrous enough. The people not seriously interested enjoy the

A Teacher of Pocket-Picking.

Twenty years ago Chester established a school in London, dedicated to the devotees of St. Nicholas, and he speed-ily obtained many pupils. The most well-known and skillful pickpockets, who have paid the penalty of being enough to evade the clutches of the myrmidons, ot the law, have all been molded according to the Chesterian method. And when it is stated that in twenty years Chester has been able to amass a fortune of 50,000 pounds sterling, the great importance and effi-cacy of his lessons will be thoroughly appreciated. His pupils, on leaving his irstitution, were formed into bands of ten, under the guidance of a "schoolmaster," and it was under the ægis of this ever-watchful guardian that they overran the earth. Two thirds of the "profits" were faithfully and punctually paid to the illustrious professor. Chester demeaned himself but twice in his career by "working" personally; it was at Paris, during the last two exhibitions. In 1878 he was arrested and condemned to six months' imprisonment; and, he was moreover, prohibited from ever entering France again He has since disposed of the good-willof his "business" to two of his best purils and retired to Birmingham, where he has a great deal of property. Having some very urgent affairs to settle in Paris, he applied a few days ago, for permission to pass a week in the Capitol, which has been duly accorded him. But as it was deemed unadvisable to allow a man of his capabity to roam about the city without let or hindrance, two police agents have been told off to act as an escort of surveillance. Chester is 65 years old and is the father of ten children, whom he has educated in a princely manner, and he himself is the master of several languages.

About the Magnetic Needle.

Why the magnetic needle points to the north is thus explained by Professor C. T. Patterson, of the United States coast survey. The earth is itself a magnet, and attracts the needle just as ordinary magnets do, and it is found to be affected by the action of the sun in a manner not yet fully understood. The magnetic poles of the earth are not in line with the geographical poles, but make an angle with them of nearly twenty-three degrees. At the present time the northern magnetic pole is near the arctic circle, on the meridian of Omaha, and, from the nature of the case, the pole may better be described as a region rather than a fixed point. The needle does not everywhere point to the true astronomical north, but varies within certain limits. At San Francisco it points seventeen degrees east of north, and at Calais, Me., as much to the west. At the northern magnetic pole a balauced needle points with its north end downward in a plumb line; at San Francisco it dips about sixty-three degrees, and at the southern magnetic pole the south end points directly down. The action of the earth upon a magnetic needle at its surface is of about the same force as that of a hard steel magnet forty inches long, strongly magnetized, at a distance of one foot. It is very probable that a study of dynamo-electric machines, now so much used in the electric illuminations, will reveal soon some far-reaching truths regarding magnetism in general.

Men are frequently like tea-the real strength and goodness are not properly drawn out until they have been in hot A Viking's War Ship.

An interesting discovery has just been made at Sandeherred, in Norway, of a Scandinavian war vessel: Buried unthe ocean, the Vikings, or Norwegian pirates. It measures about seventy-five feet in length, and is in an almost perfect state of preservation. It is armed and equipped as though it had been abandonec where found when on the point of sailing on some adventurous expedition. All the appartus used by nautical Norsemen are met with in this ancient craft, the most of which is still pretty well intact. There are fragined by antiquaries. Among other wood, peculiarly shaped, wrought with a certain elegance, and hollowed out in passed through them. Spades and found, or rather the iron portion of the bucklers, for the wooden part is entirely gone. Near the rudder the skelelutely the same as one sees represented completely dug out of its present prison near the sea shore. When this has been accomplished the ship—which is thought to be still seaworthy—will be launched and brought to Christiania to be deposited in the University Museum.

Prolonged Stooping-Over Work.

The London Lancet calls attention to the danger incurred in the case of young girls by prolonged stooping-over work and crossing of the legs. Doctor Mal-herbe, with a view of obviating these evils, has invented a plan which consists of fixing to the edge of an ordinary table a sort of cushion, on which the work can be easily fastened or spread out, as on the knee. A framework of the simplest description admits of the raising or lowering of this cushion, so that work may be done sitting or standing, but in either case the vertebral column is maintained perfectly straight, while the facility of change of position greatly lessens fatigue. To test the invention, Doctor Malherbe introduced it at the Communal school of Nantes, and with good effect on two pupils, who had a tendency to malformation.

A Heavy Sleeper.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says Alexander Emerson, a youth living in the west end of this city, has for the past six months been subject to very peculiar and unusual attacks of somnia, The first indication he has of an attack is a severe nervous headache, coming on soon after breakfast. In a short time, usually by nine o'clock, he gets drowsy, lies down, and immediately goes into a deep sleep, which continues for seventy-two hours-three days and nights. He can be aroused with difficulty, and as soon as left undisturbed goes to sleep again. On the third worning his sleep is disturbed by severe nervous chills, and as these pass off in an hour or two, he relapses into a sound sleep which continues until the next morning, when he wak caught, and those who were clever exhausted. During his sleep he has no inclination to eat or drink, but rather an aversion for ei ther when aroused

A Pitiful Case.

Some of the annals of the poor are of a most pitiful nature. Last night, for instance, says a recent issue of a New York paper, a woman was found sit-ting in Union square, with two infants in her arms, crying bitterly. Upon in-quiry it was learned that the children were twins, had been born two montus ago, and that immediately after their birth the woman's husband abandoned her. Then she was unable to pay her rent, and was turned out. For nearly two months she had been tramping the streets, sleeping in the parks and living on the bread of charity. When taken to the station-house it was discovered that she was nearly starved, and that the two children were mere skeletons. It seems almost incredible that suffering such as this should occur in a great city noted for the number and generosity of its charitable institutions, and speaks badly for common humanity that a husband should have so heartlessly deserted a sick and feeble wife.

Feather pillows can be cleaned and purified without removing the feathers, by taking the pillows, laying them in the bathtub, scrubbing them with a scrubbing-brush dipped in a solution of two tablespoonfuls of ammonia to half a pail of warm water and rinse them thoroughly. Lay them out on the grass to dry, turning them frequently; and at the last pin them to the line for a num-ber of days, an t when quite dry beat them with a rod. This is to disentangle and lighten the feathers.

A young woman ran wildly into a St. Louis police station, and said that rats were killing three babies in a cerain house. Officers were dispatched to cave the infants; but a physician, who was called in to see the woman, discovered at once that she was suffering from delirium tremens, as a consequence of celebrating her eighteenth birthday unwisely.

One of the simplest ways to get rid of rats is to place within their reach a pan of flour mixed with unslacked lime, and a pan of water placed beside it. The lime causes thirst, and the rats die al-most directly after they drink.

Aerial Navigation.

The Militar-Wochenblatt prints a description of an aerial machine, designed by a Spanish artillery officer, the conder a hillock a sailing vessel has been struction of which is, in the opinion found, which is thought to have be-longed to those terrible highwaymen of the ocean, the Vikings, or Norwegian considerable extension horizontally, but of very small vertical dimensions, can be made to ascend or descend at pleasure, and can, according to the statement of the inventor, be turned in any required direction. It consists of two air-bags, as they are called by the in-ventor, one of which is filled with hydrogen gas and the other with compressed air. When the latter is so far filled that its weight, together with that of the car and its load, exactly counter-balances the lifting power of the for-mer, the machine will naturally neither rise not fall. It the compressed air is allowed to escape from its bag the weight will be reduced and the machine will rise, the altitude it will attain depending upon the amount of compressed air liberated. If, on the other hand, it is desired to make the machine descend, air can, by a simple mechanical contrivance, be pumped into the compressed air-bag until the total weight of the machine exceeds the buoyancy or lifting power of the hydrogen bag. To change the direction of the machine a rudder is provided, to be worked by a small steam engine, while by a simple arrangement the position of the center gravity of the whole apparatus can be altered so that the resistance of the air shall effect the machine in the most favorable manner possible. The machine, in fact, is designed to act the same way that a bird does. When a bird wishes to change the direction of its flight, it lowers one wing and raises the other, and as it works the latter rapidly and diminishes the speed of its flight, the resistance of the air on the oblique surface presented to it turns the bird around into the required course. In the new acrial machine this principle is applied; but whether it will be possible to overcome the difficulties which may arise remains to be seen.

To remove stains from ivory make s paste of prepared chalk and a small quantity of sweet oil and san volatile. Apply it moist with a piece of wash leather, and let it remain till dry. If discolored yellow place them in alum water previously boiled and cooled. Take out the brush well and wrap them in a linen cloth wet in cold water, and dry gradually. If dried too rapidly out of the alum water they will be injured.

All the authentic writings of Shakespeare that remain are three signatures to his will, preserved in Doctor's Commons, London, and one signature on each of two law documents-one in the British museum and the other in the library of the city of Lov on.
