Davis, Tionesta, on Tuesday evening of court week, May 17, 1881, and fix a time for holding the Republican Primary Election, and transact such other business of importance as may come before them. It is particularly desired that all be present, as the meeting will be an important one.

QUINTAIN JAMESON, Chairman. Tionesta, Pa., April 19, 1881.

GEN. HOWARD is of opinion that the Indian can be made a hard-worker. Doubtless he can, but it will require a good deal of hard fighting before it can be accomplished.

THE Atlanta Constitution says the Southern people are not anxious for political power, nor are they office seekers. This can go into the other stuff and egotism which the Southern people have been getting off about themselves for a year past. It was the love of office which made bombasts of the Southern people, and the loss of it that resolved them into rebellion.

THE most original of the many proposed laws for the suppression of intemperance is the bill now under consideration in Indiana requiring that any man desiring to drink shall take out a yearly license, price ten dollars, the money to go to the support of inebriate asylums and the license to be cancelled the first time its holder is found drunk.

ONE of the future dodges of the Democratic party will be to fight all its battles on local issues, which will make it in all respect a piebald political combination. It will seek to elect members of Congress, of Legislatures, and State officers generally on these issues, ignoring in all cases, when they can do it, National and State issues. Thus, it will be on the side of liquor selling prohibition, when they can do it and win—on the side of the liquor interest when it is popular—for local improvement or against it, just as popular feeling runs—for railroads, or opposed to them—for any and everything, or against it, to suit the temper of voters, and thereby run men into Congress and the Legislature who will sustain the most radical positions of the Democratic party when their votes in such bodies are necessary to do it. In no contest in which the people will be called to vote will the Democratic party henceforth for years take a fair stand. It cannot uphold the record of its leaders in Congress and hope hereafter to carry a single Northern, Western or Eastern State. It dare not openly proclaim itself and succeed in carrying but a fraction of the Southern States. All that is left, then, for the Democratic party is to conduct its share of a political canvass on subtleties, and win votes by chicanery in local issues.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THE purity of the administration of President Hayes has been admitted by all parties, and freely commented on, by the ex-President's great honor. The developments of the past few days, however, threaten the safety of following the historian to write the record after the actor has passed away. Postmaster General James, although in office, but a few weeks, has found a leak of two million dollars in the star route service, which implicates chiefly the Second Assistant Postmaster General, and many western and southern congressmen. The steal was managed by awarding contracts for carrying the mails, at a competition figure, and then, by changing the service required, add many thousand dollars for compensation for a very little extra service. When the record is fully made up, it will be seen that the economy of the administration was illustrated better around the White House, than in the departments that stood in greatest need of supervision. The corruption is not chargeable to any political party, for General Brady's most ardent defenders are among the Democratic senators and representatives, but rather to a ring of speculators who made out to plunder the government openly and then defended their acts on the plea of necessity, to meet the requirements of the rapidly developing west. Of course not nearly all of this two million dollars was misappropriated for much special service is necessary in remote and growing sections, but there is enough to smelt to heaven, and the present administration will not be justified in taking a vacation, until the atmosphere is cleared in the star route department.—Meadeville Republican.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

HARRISBURG, PA., May 2, '81.

Business has been progressing in the House at a very fair rate for the last week. On Monday the usual racket and debate over resolutions was indulged in; On Tuesday the Flinn bill came up again on third reading and final passage and was killed—lacking seven of a constitutional majority. I am informed they will try to again have it re-considered, hoping to get the eight votes necessary to put it through.

The anti-discrimination bill was badly defeated, and may be said to have received its death blow.

At 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening the special session to consider Davis' Railroad fence bill was a lively one. Davis, Lowing and Wolf speaking in favor, and John E. Faunce, the Democratic leader of the House, and Rev. Neal, of Philadelphia, against it. Faunce offered several amendments but they were killed and the bill passed second reading. Mr. Davis made a rattling speech in favor of the measure, which he said was demanded by the great farming and laboring interest of the State. What the fate of the bill will be on final passage is hard to tell.

Mr. Rodiman, Chairman of the Palmer Motive Committee, made his report on Friday; it is said by all, especially the lawyers, to be an unanswerable refutation, and a complete overthrowing of the position taken by the Attorney General on the Legislative salary question. I am not a lawyer therefore I cannot say, but it reads to me like a very strong and able document, abounding in numerous decisions of the Supreme Court of this and other States, sustaining the position of the committee. Let the best man win.

On Tuesday last Mr. Clark, of Philadelphia, offered an amendment to the revenue bill, taxing oil five cents per barrel. This created a breeze in a moment, flaunting a red flag at a mad bull, would not set him snorting any quicker than the motion did the oil delegation. It was late in the afternoon session and Myers got the floor and held it to the hour of adjournment, carrying the bill over until next Tuesday. The oil men swear that if they cannot vote down the amendment they will kill the revenue bill, even if the State should starve for funds. Look out for fun on Tuesday, as Myers, Davis, Hulings, Mapes, Lowing and Lockwood are determined to occupy Tuesdays session in talking so as to force the bill over for another week, to gain time to get their wits in to defeat the amendment, or the bill itself. The most of the oil delegation are able members, and all have got the saud, as your people say, to fight this iniquitous measure to the bitter end.

REPUBLICAN.

THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Special to the REPUBLICAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 28, '81.

The Republican Senators, before and after the session of the Senate yesterday, devoted several hours to a caucus interchange of views in regard to the suggested advisability of breaking the present deadlock by providing for the transaction of accumulated executive business at an early day. The discussion in which nearly every member present participated developed an entire unanimity of opinion that no action ought to be taken in regard to the deadlock, which would tend to weaken or seem to withdraw the moral support thus far given by the Republicans to the independent movement in the South, or which would place the Republicans in the attitude of retreating from the position taken by them, that the majority is entitled to control the action of the Senate in the election of officers, and all other matters for which they have a constitutional responsibility.

The prevalent sentiment was, that to raise the deadlock sufficiently to admit of immediate action upon matters of special importance, such as nominations to fill existing vacancies, and various pending treaties, would not weaken the Republicans in their contest for the constitutional principle, and the political advantages referred to above, but would, in fact strengthen them thereafter to resume, and indefinitely continue the struggle to a final issue. But with a view of securing entire harmony of feeling and concert of action, it was finally agreed that some further time should be devoted to private consultation, and individual consideration of the whole matter bringing it to the point of caucus action, and the caucus adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

There are no new developments in the "Star" route scandals of last week made public. In the meantime the friends of General Brady were busily engaged in defending him, and too with a good purpose. I think there is a growing sentiment here that the administration has acted hurriedly in this matter and will be glad to recall some of the statements of fraud made last. Postmaster General James should be a little more of an executive officer, and a little less detective.

Several Democratic authorities were greatly disturbed when Mr. Conger was elected to the Senate, lest his free and easy ways in debate should be a shock to the excessive dignity of the Senate. Perhaps it is a respect for his anxiety which keeps Mr. Conger quiet, for he has not uttered a word since he took his seat. A more probable reason, however, is that he is waiting for a debate of some importance to be started, before he consents to take part. At present his regard for the dignity of the Senate compares very favorably with that shown by Senators Hill, Brown, Butler, and the other Democratic leaders.

EARS FOR THE MILLION!

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL, Positively restores the hearing, and is the only absolute cure for deafness known. This oil is extracted from a peculiar species of White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as the Greenland Roundleib. Every Chinese Physician knows its virtues as a restorative of hearing, and it is discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1 per bottle. Only imported by HAYLOCK & CO., 7 Dey St., New York. Sole agents for America.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Among the many readers of the Review in one part and another of the country, it is probable that numbers are afflicted with deafness, and I to such it may be said, "Write at once to Haylock & Co., 7 Dey St., New York, enclosing $1, and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—Editor of the New York Mercantile Review, Sep 25, 1880. dec 21/80.
