Republican State Convention.

BEDFORD, PA., July 20, 1881.—A convention of the Republican party is hereby called to meet in the hall of the House of Representatives in Harrisburg, on Thursday, the 8th day of September, 1881, at 12 o'clock m., of said day. Delegates, equal to the number of Senators and Representatives, to be chosen in the several districts of the Commonwealth. The convention, when assembled, shall nominate a candidate for the office of State Treasurer, and transact such other legitimate business as may be brought before it. By order of the Republican State Central Committee, JOHN CESSNA, Chairman.

Attest: LUCIUS ROGERS, SAM'L F. BARR, C. MAGEE, JOHN McCULLOUGH, Sec'ys.

SERIOUS RELAPSE.

The President takes a Relapse, but is now Mending Again.

When we issued our paper last week the symptoms of the President's condition were so favorable and had been up to that time that we hoped to be able to say the physicians had pronounced him out of danger. And indeed, from the daily reports received, the people had a right to entertain reasonable hopes of his ultimate and speedy recovery. Notwithstanding this hope, a decided fear was ever present in the minds of all that a relapse might take place at any time. The relapse has come, and the bulletins which had in a measure grown stale are again looked for and scanned with eagerness; we are supremely happy to say they show a more favorable aspect every hour, and while the illustrious patient is in a most critical condition at this writing there are good reasons to hope that his magnificent constitution will pull him through. The sudden relapse has taught the people that they must look for the worst, and prepare themselves to receive the dreadful news should it come at last. Let us hope and pray for the best, but be ever ready to receive the worst. We give below such dispatches as will best explain the cause of the relapse and the President's condition up to the hour of going to press:

WASHINGTON, July 23.—At seven o'clock this morning the President showed the usual morning symptoms of recovery, but about eight o'clock he was attacked with something like a chill. He shook all over and his muscles all became rigid with what the surgeons call a rigor. This chilly, shivery sensation lasted until about nine o'clock, when fever set in and his pulse rose rapidly. It went up to 130, and temperature above 101. In an hour or so the fever declined some. The doctors are not able to define the change. The flow of the pus from the wound stopped this morning and the surgeons say this may have caused the change in the President's condition. A large drainage tube was substituted and the doctors pressed on the stomach and bowels, but very little pus exuded. Whether this means that the wound is healing between where the ball is and the mouth of the wound, or that an abscess is forming, is not known. Dr. Bliss said just now that he could not tell the cause of the change. The surgeons feel somewhat uneasy.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—An examination which was made in the presence of Drs. Agnew and Hamilton this morning, showed that a pus cavity had formed in the track of the ball near and beyond the point where it glanced from the rib, and that this cavity could be reached by a direct incision three inches below the mouth of the wound. It was decided at once to perform the operation. No anesthetics were used, but the part to be operated upon was benumbed by a spray of ether and a wide cut was made into the pus cavity, which was reached at a depth of a little more than an inch. With the aid of a probe and a pair of forceps a drainage tube, which is a small, flexible tube of rubber, perforated with holes, was then introduced into the wound made by the ball, and after being carried through the pus cavity, was brought out through the newly made incision. One end of the tube then projected from the cut made by the surgeon's knife and the other from the mouth of the original wound. As the pus oozed into the tube through the perforation it could escape from either end, and was repeatedly washed out with a weak solution of carbolic acid and water, which was thrown through the tube in a stream. The discharge which followed the opening of the pus cavity was entirely satisfactory to the surgeons, and was soon followed by relief to the patient. The drainage tube has been left as it was originally placed and will remain there for the present. If the wound discharges freely through the new opening, the tube may perhaps be withdrawn from the old one in order to allow the latter to heal. The incision made to-day is in a direct line with the deeper parts of the wound, and it is thought the pus will escape through it without any of the obstructions which impeded its outflow along the track of the ball, and which caused the pus cavity.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The President has got through to-day admirably and everybody feels greatly encouraged about him to-night. He has rested well all day, and the beneficial effects of yesterday's operation are plainly visible. To-night's bulletin showed fever, and this caused a feeling of uneasiness outside, but the surgeons said they anticipated a return of fever, and that it had really not gone as high as they expected; that it was the same surgical fever which has all along attended the case and will continue with it, and was not significant of any danger whatever.

THE LATEST. The latest news from Washington in this (Wednesday) morning's papers is much more encouraging and cheering. The President's pulse, temperature and respiration are going down gradually, and altogether the reports are decidedly more comforting. The President has odds against him yet, but his physicians are becoming more hopeful every day. He passed a better day yesterday than any time since Saturday. It will be a satisfaction to the people to learn that one or the other of the two consulting physicians—Drs. Hamilton and Agnew—will be in constant attendance upon the President from now on. The latest bulletin, which was issued at seven o'clock last evening, gives his pulse at 104, temperature 100, respiration 22; at noon yesterday his pulse was 106, temperature 98, respiration 19. The patient always has a little more fever in the evening which accounts for rising of his temperature, pulse and respiration. The doctors assure the Nation that there is no cause for serious or immediate alarm. Let us hope for the best.

ALBANY. The protracted agency at Albany, over the New York Senatorial conflict is ended at last. The Legislature on last Friday, elected Elbridge G. Lapham as successor to Roscoe Conkling in the U. S. Senate by a vote of 92 to 42 for Potter, the Democratic candidate. Mr. Lapham received the support of all the Republicans. General handshaking and congratulations followed the election, and everybody was happy. Now if the people could feel confident of the recovery of their beloved President the relief would be great indeed. May it be so soon.

The deadlock is partially broken at Albany. Miller takes the place abandoned by Platt and the State of New York takes her place in part in the Senate to support the administration of President Garfield. The culmination of the attempted coup d'etat of Conkling and "me too" is thus coming to a most inglorious ending. The men who went back to their constituents for a vindication of their opposition to a Republican administration, have been retired, and more worthy men will take their places. At first it was their intention to go to their homes, thinking the Republicans of New York would rise en masse and demand their return to the Senate. They didn't rise for that purpose, but they arose in indignation; they demanded that the recreants should be abandoned and new men sent in their places. Conkling and Platt were then forced to plead like beggars for a reelection, and to secure it went to Albany, surrounded themselves with blowers and strikers and employed all the arts of corruption at their disposal to regain their abandoned places. They even made bargains with the political enemy and proposed if they could not be elected, to vote with the Democrats for an adjournment and throw the Senate of the United States under Democratic control. But the true Republicans of New York have bravely met them, and have so conducted the contest that we are able to give the good news this morning that Miller has been elected to succeed Platt, and that the election of Lapham or some other staunch Republican as the successor to Conkling is a question of a very short time. To this good news is added the fact that Garfield grows better; and that he will yet be able to live through his administration and make it illustrious, despite the assaults of tongue and pistol.—Meadville Republican, July 22.

THE public debt on the 1st of October will be about $1,580,000,000. It is estimated that the annual saving of interest by Secretary Windom's operations are over $14,000,000.

ACCORDING to Bob Toombs, Virginia went out of the Union to secure the command of the Confederate armies for Gen. Robert E. Lee. Jeff Davis did not want Lee, but to get Virginia he gave way.

ONE of the direct results of the unearthing of the Star route mail contract frauds is the stoppage of many leaks in the service in all parts of the country, which were a drain on the general Postoffice Department without being perceptible to those at its head. Fear of detection and exposure put an end to these frauds, the effect of which will be to save much money.

SOME very absurd legislation may be expected from State Legislatures on the subject of pistols. All over the country, as far as our exchanges are made, we notice suggestions of all kinds for laws to regulate the sale and the carrying of pistols, which will be swollen in number and provisions to an indefinite extent before the alarm occasioned by the careless handling of such weapons is over.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

ALEXANDER III. of Russia, is pronounced of unsound mind. He certainly has had pressure enough since his coronation to produce mental decay; and before he ascended the throne of all the Russians he lived in an isolation and terror sufficient to warp the soundest mind. His present position is one of ever-abiding peril, isolation and gloom. Like all the Czars, he has no friends; does not trust any one, is supposed to be too exalted to have a confidant, and consequently must exist by himself. Why should not a human being so situated become of unsound mind? And the condition ought not to elicit surprise.

HON. JOHN CESSNA's nomination for Judge of the Bedford and Somerset Judicial district, by the Republican conference, is very warmly commended by his friends outside his district, and will of course be ardently supported by the Republicans of the two counties, and command many votes from the opposing party. He is one of the best known men in the State. In politics, from his earliest manhood, no man participating in the partisan contests of the past forty years has displayed more sagacity, exhibited more ability, or borne himself with a more manly spirit, than he has done on all occasions. A ripe scholar and a rarely endowed lawyer, he has won much fame at the bar of the highest courts of the State as well as those of the Nation. As a law-maker he has been equally successful, alike on the floor of legislative bodies as in the chair of the presiding officer thereof. Indeed, few men have been nominated for the same position who were able to carry into it the same experience, training and requirements which Mr. Cessna will bear with him into the judicial chair, and we predict that the judicial emprise on his shoulders will remain untarnished to the end of his term, for his election is a certainty.—Harrisburg Telegraph.
