Republican State Convention.

BEDFORD, PA., July 20, 1881 -A ponvention of the Republican party is breby called to meet in the hall of wie House of Representatives in Harsburg, on Thursday, the 8th day of eptember, 1881, at 12 o'clock M., of said day. Delegates, equal to the sumber of Senators and Representawes, to be chosen in the several districts of the Commonwealth. The Convention, when assembled, shall aminate a candidate for the office of Sther legitimate business as may be rought before it. By order of the cepublican State Central Committee. JOHN CESSNA, Chairman, Attest: Lucius Rogers.

JOHN M'CULLOUGH, Sec'ys. WHE PRESIDENT ALARMINGLY WORSE!

SAM'L F. BARR,

C MAGRE.

The President took a most serious dapse on Monday, since which time So has been going gradually down rell. However much it pains us to otve this sad news, it is true neverthepriss, and the people must prepare titorsselves for the worst. The phyforians all along have made the situafon too bright, and the public has men led to believe that the President was beyond danger. We only hope the bit of encouragement given by the thysicians can be relied upon. But the fear that ere this paper reaches all Air subscribers the President we all aive so well will have passed "over the thout as it is:

chWe are pained beyond measure to compelled to say to our readers this norning that the symptoms are worse la the case of our beloved President. mion him. Life is only sostained by inems, his stomach refusing to retain ything whatever. The physicians ntinue to attempt to give some conmlation, painting things as brightly as of saible, as they have mistakenly done at along. They say the stomach is peting and may resume its functions ofain, but as the human stomach inile in a healthy condition never thats, but is continually aiding in dailding up the wasting tissues, this is bry poor consolation indeed, The chtion may as well be prepared for the ab rst, as the dark wing of Azrael may piss over James A. Garfield any moment and lift him from this world eato the next. Judging from all that En be learned, seperating the grains Altruth from the mass of wordy chaff In-ered us, the conclusion is unwillingm arrived at, that nothing but a mirgrie can now save the life so dear to Pi the people of these United States, GAt 7 p. m. last evening the Presitont's pulse' was 120, temperature Et 9.10, respiration 19.

Vice-President Arthur. PiVice President Arthur is in New

lark and says: He has not yet been thmmoned to Washington and will not there until he is called. The memrs of the cabinet were in session arly all yesterday afternoon, but the bult of their deliberations has not dien made known. Probably the nethe White House, ready for any guergency, will be recognized by them gid he will at once be called there. me condition of the President is too locarious and the interests involved cap vital to admit of delay. It will brobably be found, when the whole Pige comes out, that Mr. Garfield has clears the proper instrument calling Young non gether, and that the ma-are much be government will not be ones. medical colleges are remarkably well represented at the budside of the President. Of the four attending and two consulting physicians, three are Pennsylvanians, and five out of the six were educated in Philadelphia medical emption from the payment of other schools, four of them at the University college charges, for incidentals, room of Pennsylvania. Drs. Agnew and rent, fuel, and use of furniture. Hamilton are both graduates of the latter institution, and have been called in consultation because they are at the head of their profession.

WE are in receipt of a pamphletcalling itself an address to the "Civil service reform association of Miesouri.' As the civil service of the State of Missouri is politically submerged under about fifty thousand Democratic majority, it strikes us that any effort at civil service reform by the people of that State should be confined to matters at home, exclusively. The Missouri association, in addressing itself to matters as far off as Washinginate Treasurer, and transact such ton City, is making a great mistake. As long as its own State is in its present political condition, such efforts will be regarded in the light of an attempt to keep Democrats in federal offices under the shadow of a pretended desire to reform something .-Meadville Republican.

SPECULATIVE life insurance has led the foulest blots on the records of the last Legislature is the defeat of the bill abolishing speculative life insurance. Money flowed like water to of the most noted reformers in the Legislature absented themselves when that measure was reached in the House. It passed the Senate without any trouble, but it needed one hundred and one votes to pass the House. Wolf, of Union, happened to be a di rector in a speculative company, and while he did not dare to vote against the bill, refrained from voting for it, conveniently disappeared from the House before the bill was reached. That was the last night of the session. The bill was declared defeated for lack of one vote by Chief Clerk Huhn, and thus the crowning act was put to the infamy of the whole session. Even at gver." The following from the Der- that time a number of murders were another case from Williamsport exactly in point. It is an infamous business and if the Governor should find it necessary to call an extra session be ley hand of death seems to be laid in his proclamation legislation on this subject, in order to as soon as possible put an end to the crimes and fraud growing out of the business .- Commeecial-Gazette.

We, with the Commercial-Gazette, remember how, when the struggle at came on the final passage of this meritorious measure, Rerformers Wolfe, Mapes, McKee, Law, and several others of the same ilk, quietly stole away a few minutes before the vote was taken, while Representative Davis of this county stood manfully up and battled for the passage of the bill: in secret Beneficiary Associations, such as the Masonie, Odd Fellows, &c., and helped to push it through the Committee after a hard battle, occupying the whole afternoon, and against the most powerful and corrupt lobby ever congregated at the Capitol. He also took charge of the bill in the House, settle by cash or note, on or before and at 3 o'clock a. m., of the last Sept. 1st, 1881, otherwise his accounts hours of the session, succeeded in getting the bill in Committee of the Whole, for special amendment, and had an obnoxious section striken out which would have destroyed the efficacy of the measure. Our readers can imagine the disappointment and chagrin of Mr. Davis when the names of the "great reformers" were called, there was no answering response. It is said that hundreds of dollars were offered to members to simply be outside the Hall during roll call. The people will not forget those who stood for the right, even if they did not march under the hypocritical banner of the reformer.
