The transportation of monoliths of large size on rollers is by no means new, as Lieutenant-Colonel Woodthrope has told the London Anthropological institute, on March 8, in a very interesting paper on the Nangami Negas, one of the tribes inhabiting Assam, on the north-east frontier of India. These people erect long blocks of stone, which are drawn up to the heights on which they stand, to commemorate the dead or some notable event, "on sledges running on rollers." In some respects the Angami differ from the other hill tribes of the district. They are better looking than their neighbors; they build their houses on the ground and not on piles of wood-the Khasias alone besides themselves adopt this practice- and they wear a kilt adorned with white couries, while all 'the other tribes of Nagas wear only a flap of cloth in front and behind, or discard the behind part entirely.

Capturing a Bear, It will be remembered that a sad and fatal accident occurred at Madison a few years ago, by a team being frightened at a performing Frenchman and a grizzly bear, and that it cost the city a good deal of money to settle the costs. Other towns resolved that they would not have any more bear performances in the streets. There was no town that was loaded for bears, after that accident, any heavier than La Crosse. The Mayor, Joe Clark, was red hot, and he told the Chief of Police. Hatch, never Ganadian Frenchman get up a bear dance in that town, as long as he walked the streets. When the new Mayor, Smiley, took the office, he had only over the streets of the str Smiley, took the office, he had only one order to give the police, and that was to keep an eye out for bears. There was consternation in La Crosse on Tuesday, when a boy came up to the police office and said there was a man down town with a performing bear, and Hatch spit on his hands and told Pernue Clark to follow him. The bear was hitched to the hind axle of a wagon, and the owner was in a saloon taking a drink. Hatch said he would go in the saloon and capture the man, and told Pernue to bring the bear right up to the stat on. Pernue didn't exactly like the way the thing was divided up, and he suggested that maybe he had better go in after the man, and let Hatch take the bear, as he was an old bear hunter, but Hatch said the man was a desperado, and he'd better surround him. So Hatch went in and got the unresisting Frenchman, and started off, telling Pernue to hurry up with the bear. Pernue is a man that, if he wanted a bear, had rather hire a man to go after it, but the eye of the chief was on him, and he walked up to the bear and took hold of the chain and said, "Come along, Mr. Bear." The bear reached up one claw and took hold of Pernue's clothes about the small of the back and closed his claws and twisted a little and there was about a pound of coat tail and pantaloons cloth and shirt that all came off together in a wad, and with a pale face Pernne started up towards the lockup to help Hatch hold the man. He overtook them as they arrived at the calaboose, and Hatch asked him why he didn't bring the bear, and he said he came up to find out of the Frenchman what the bear's name was. He said he never could take a bear if he didn't know its name. He put on a rubber coat to cover the place where the bear stepped on him and by this time Sam Campbell and Dave Littlejohn, the other policemen, had arrived, and they all went down after the bear. The boys made a good deal of fun of Pernue's clothes, and Sam said the way to handle a bear was to look him right in the eye and paralyze him. Pernue said he would let Sam paralyze the bear, but before he got him paralyzed on more than one side the bear would rip all the clothes off him. Arriving at the wagon, Hatch discontinue it on the ground that she said he would stand on the wagon didn't know Mr. Tilden and he had tongue, and hold it down, and they could surround the bear. The bear was flirting wi h an actor belonging to an laying in the sand asleep, and they got all around him, and were just going to story exchanged letters and photo-pounce on him, when he rose up and graphs with him. Finally they all got hold of the wagon and hauled it to the lockup, the bear following, and then they gave the Frenchman his liberty and three dollars if he would take his bear and get out of town, and the last they saw of him he was going towards Winona, locked arms with the bear, laugh! ing, and the police went to a tailor shop o see if it would cost more to mend heir clothes than it would to get a new aided by the presence of citric acid, Hatch asks them why they did not chloroform the bear, and use some judgment. -Peck's Sun.

A letter from Battle Creek, Mich., to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, says: George Andrus, an extensive farmer of Gogoac prairie, and one who has had much success in stock raisin , recently stated to the Inter-Ocean correspondent as a most singular fact that his drove of cows always knew on what days they were to be salted. It has been his custom to give them salt at the barnyard every Sunday morning during the spring, and once in two weeks, or every other Sun-day morning during the hot weather. This the cattle have well learned, and during the spring they will come up the lane regularly every Sunday morning, and stand there bellowing and making a great noise until they are salted; when they will return to their pasture lot, which is some distance away. This they do regularly every Sunday morning, and never make the mistake of coming on any other day. The same fact is still more strange in summer, when they only come up once in two weeks, and not oftener.

The Grewth of Disease.

Diseases multiply—beget one another. For tatance, in companionable with dyspepsia are smally found biliousness and constipation. A trivial (so-called) indisposition, if disregarded, grows space, and growing gives rise to others. Thus the whole body gets out of order, the nervous system is shattered, and strength and flush rapidly wans. Prompt meditation, therefore, is of the utmost importance. Among medicinal means of arresting disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stands pre-eminent. It checks the further progress of all disorders of the atomach, liver and bowels, revives the vital stamins, prevents and remedies chills and fever, increases the activity of the kidneys, countertrivial (so-called) indisposition, if disregards increases the activity of the kidneys counter-increases the activity of the kidneys, counter-acts a tendency to rhounatism, and is a gen-uine stay and solace to aged, infirm and nerv-cus persons.
