AFTER THE BATTLE.

We re publish the official vote o Forest county this week on account of some slight inacuracies in the count last week. We went to press before the court had canvassed the vote, and were obliged to take the returns as the return judges handed them in. The changes are very slight, in fact hardly worth mentioring, yet we want the table to be absolutely correct, which we think it is now. As will be seen Mr. Warden's vote for Auditor is the largest of any candidate in the field, which is a handsome compliment to him, and shows his popularity) where he is known. We think the vote shows up splendidly for the Republicans. Last fall was an unusually hot campaign and nearly every vote in the county was out, while this fall was comparatively quiet in politics, and it being an "off year" it is reasonable to suppose there were a great many stayat homes, yet with all this the Republicans more than held their own ; taking this view of the case we can safely claim that the Republicans made substantial gains. On the whole the Republicans have reason to feel greatly encouraged at the magnificent result. They have put themselves in splendid fighting trim for the next campaign, and will profit by the handsome victory won on the 8th.

GUITEAU. that President Arthur will supercede /es,of the Legislature are very close with torneyship at once, placing Elihu the Democrats. Root, Esq, of New York, in that position, that he may conduct the prosecution instead of the present incumsome discussion of the course he will pursue. His foundation for the attempt to save the life of this horrible brother in-law is insanity and on that alone he depends. Divesting the mind of natural and inherent prejudices against the villain as much as possible and calmly looking at his act and its motives, there is the lesst evidence of unsound mind which any great criminal case has presented for years. There is no absence of motive, there is no cranky feeling brooled over day after day, until the victim of a too ever present thought becomes a monomaniac. On the contrary there is the fixed scheming of a hard-hearted villain whose vaulting ambition has over lept itself. Who persistently demanding an appointment as soon as he becomes convinced it cannot be obtained, deliberately, with malice aforethought diabolically plots the murder of the head of the untion and seizes upon a wave of excitement to cover the deed and cover himself with a cloud of red fire, committing the fiendish act with theatrical surroundings. with Mr. Scoville, has been that of a maliguant demon, justifying the deed, with blasphemy added to his other crimes, denying any insanity and giving a horribly minute statement of his object in the vile assassination. Since he saw his counsel he has acted more like a mounte-bank than anyting else, evidently simulating unsoundness of mind, his effort in court being that of a fool more than a madman, and that he certainly is not. Many of the witnesses summonad by Mr. Scoville to prove Guiteau's insanity have refused to be present on the ground that they writes, "that he is all devil but not crazy." While we would not for one instant, assist by word or deed, in the hanging of a demented person, the malignancy, wickedness, cupning, cowardliness and plotting of Guiteau, before and since the murder of James

THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Special to the REPUBLICAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12, '81. Within a few days the preliminary skirmish for the Speakership of the House of Representatives will begin, A week hence members will begin to arrive to settle themselves for the winter, and the candidates will have their headquarters open for business. There is scarcely a doubt that the Republicans will control the organization. They have a majority of one over all, according to the latest figures, counting the vacancies filled by the election just held. Yet there are contingencies which may render the situation doubtful enough to be interesting.

It is expected here that the appointment of a New Yorker as Secretary of the Treasury will have considerable influence upon the Speakership contest. Mr. Hiscock, of New York, has been regarded as baving the inside track, but now it is thought the West His whole conduct since the shooting, will come to the front, with a positive up to the time of his first interview demand that New York shall not have all the big things, and it will do no good to recall Ohio. They say, by the way, that all office seekers who come here now register from New York just as they quite recently all came from Ohio. This may do for a joke, but New York, in spite of her size and importance, is not likely to carry off as much as Ohio did when she had the swing. Mr. Hiscock has been here working up his canvass, catching such members as have straggled in. Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, is also here, hard at work. Not many members have been here yet, but the candidates do believe him to be so and one in are carrying on a lively corresponparticular, the head of the Oneida dence. Mr. Kiefer, of Ohio, has been community who certainly had every here and will soon return again. He opportunity to know him thoroughly, still has faith in Ohio's star, and hopes to capture the prize. Mr. Kasson, of Iowa, has not yet put in an appear ance. His chances and qualifications are equal to any candidate mentioned, but there are some objections to his pronounced tariff views. Mr. Davis, A. Garfield, put him beyond the pale of Illinois, second Chicago district, is of those entitled to consideration and also mentioned for the position, though place him on a level with those foul he is not seeking it. This latter fact anxious that he should receive the compliment of the Democratic caucus nomination, and it may be that he will get it. But there are many of the Democratic members, particularly from the South, who are determined Gives a Republican majority of over that Mr. Randall shall receive no more honors at the hands of the Democratic party of the House, either of a substantial or of a complimentary character.

The new Secretary of the Treasury has taken rooms at the Arlington, where he will reside this winter. He has assumed charge of his effice and is credited with a purpose to stir things up considerably in that Department. Jersey indicate that the Legislature It is said we are to have a number of will stand as follows: Senate, Republimportant changes in the personnel of the Department. Assistant Secretaries Upton and French and all the old ring will, if the reports are correct, be called upon to make room for new Goes Republican by about 8,000 men. There are changes in the atmajority. In the States of Mississippi mosphere all round, and we shall hear of them when Congress meets. The ocratic majorities were cut down to contrast between the action of Attoralmost nothing, the Republicans ney General McVeagh, who is determmaking large gains in both these ined to get out of the Cabinet, and Secretary of the Navy Hunt, who seems equally determined to stay in. excites much comment here. The President is more anxious to get rid of Hunt than any other member of the old Cabinet, but the latter sticks to him like a leech and follows him wherever he goes; in fact does everything but get down on his knees and beg to be retained.

President Arthur will occupy the White House in a few days. Before hours inspecting and directing. The its interior appearance.
