In a recent note Mr. W. T. Blanford described the distribution of land in the Indian Peninsula and the intervention of a vast plain traversed by the Indus, Ganges and Bramaputra. This plain has been generally considered to have been the basin of a great sea, out in the opinion of the author the evidence advanced does not appear to contain a single fact in favor of the sea having at any geological period occupied the Gangetic or eastern portion of the plain. The tract is evidently a depression area filled up to above the level of the sea through a long period of time.

Severe Droughts.

An interesting record is that of severe droughts as far back as the landing of the Pilgrims. How many thousand times are observations made like the following: "Such a cold season!" "Such a hot season!" "Such dry weather!" or "Such wet weather!" "Such high winds or calm !" etc. Atl those who think the dry spell we have had this year is the longest ever known, will do well to read the following: In the summer of 1621, 24 days in Newspaper Advertising.

The first-class newspaper or periodical possesses very obvious advantages as an advertising medium. It goes into the family, is read by each member, and is frequently so much in demand that while one is reading it another is impatiently awaiting his or her turn. It has features which cause it to be preserved for a day or two, if not longer, shedding Russian blood for the sake of served for a day or two, if not longer, and it is usually taken up several times after the first reading. The advertise ments are looked at as well as the news and if anything mentioned in the advertising columns is especially needed in the household, it is eagerly noticed, and one of the family will be likely to start out to purchase it. Every day a large number of persons who are in need of some article turn to the advertising columns of newspapers in the hope of finding an announcement of what they want. Newspaper advertisements are thus looked at when the reader is in a mood to make a purchase, but the inscriptions on rocks and boards, and the other catchpenny ways of advertising, will only by mere chance meet one's eye when the mind desires what is mentioned. Moreover, the newspaper advertisement is superior to all other forms of advertising in versatility. For instance, the advertisement of a grocery man can be at once altered so as to considerably increase his trade by putting an announcement of some desirable goods just received in the lace of some long-standing announcement of staple articles with which the public are already quite familiar. The public are on the lookout for novelties and special bargains, and there is no other medium than the newspaper through which they can satisfactorily and easily keep posted in these ro-poor mediums for advertising. The country weekly is undoubtedly one of the best papers in which to advertise. Its circulation may be small and mostly confined to one locality, but it goes among families who read it and preserve it more carefully than the city man does his daily paper, and who de-pend on it almost exclusively for what advertising information they need. A large circulation, by the way, although very desirable, cannot make a paper that is deficient in character and literary excellence a valuable advertising medium, while a paper of high standing with but a moderate circulation can command the most valuable patronage. -Paper World.

That on the whole it does not pay like other furnished products—the cake, the cigar, the outer that the cigar, the oyster supper, the ribbon, the laces, the glass of beer-can only be explained on the theory once advanced by the Ens lish philosopher who was asked why the manufacturers of ale were all millionaires, and the authors all poor, "Because," he replied, "for one man who has brains, thirty have bowels."

The Whirling of the Earth.

The earth's eastward rotation, together with the increase in rate from the poles to the equator, has a tendency to throw the waters of streams against their western banks sufficiently to produce quite marked effects in many parts of the world. It is noticeable in large rivers where the deposits are earthy and the pitch of the water is small and in the direction of the master, the bank against which the water strikes the more forcibly being high and steep, while the other is low. The effect has been observed in many steams of Europe and Asia, and on the rivers intersecting the low land of the Atlantic border of the United States.

A short but excellent paper on insomnia and other troubles connected with sleep in persons of gouty disposition has appeared in an English medical journal. The writer, Mr. Dyce Duckworth, deprecates the use of so-called hypnotics as means of relief, and he says that strict attention to diet, a free dilution of the blood with bland fluids, regulated exercise of both mental and bodily faculties, together with occas-ional mercurial purgatives, will com-monly avail to overcome the misdirected tendencies and to secure good nights for sufferers.

Shrewdness that Saved a Newspaper.

The recent suspension for six months of the Golos, writes a correspondent at St. Petersburg, would have brought a loss of no less than 170,000 reubles to its unfortunate editor, but happily precautionary measures had been taken in time, and the authorities have been completely tricked. Soon after the return of General Enroth from his mission in Bulgaria, one or two articles appeared making Bulgaria free only to hand her over a few months later to the despotic rule of a Battenberg. Of course the general was angry, and, thanks to the influence he enjoys in high places, easily secured the suppression of the paper, and, when he had no longer occasion to fear being answered, published a fili-bustering letter, in which he accused the Golos of circulating "impudent and unfounded lies." But for once the bellicose general had reckoned without his host, and the man of the pen proved more cunning than the man of the sword. Among the contributors to the Golos, Professor Modestoff has long occupied a high and honorable place, and some months ago he obtained the necessary permission to establish a daily political paper. The permission, it is generally reported, was applied for in consequence of a fear that before long the Golos might get into trouble, and, therefore, no immediate steps were taken to start the new journal, but when the blow fell Professor Modestoff was ready, and within two days of the suspension the first number of the New Gazetts was published. In form, type, political opinions, everything save the name, it is an exact reproduction of the defunct paper, and is even printed at the same office. All St. Petersburg is laughing at the sly trick, which, for sharp business, reminds us of Alphonso Karr, who, when his paper, La Guepe, was suppressed, continued to publish it without any title at all .- Pall Mall Ga-

Where the Horses Went.

Farmers in the neighborhood of De Witt and Brunswick, Mo., recently have missed great numbers of horses. It was known, of course, that the animals were being stolen; but where the thieves took them the victims had no idea. Roads were guarded all night, horses continued to disappear. A few days ago a hunter penetrated the depth of a forest of willows that grow at the mouth of the Grand river. The forest covers an island of some 5,000 acres, and so thickly interwoven are the limbs of the trees that it is extremely difficult to enter. The sportsman heard the neigh of a horse far in among the willows. It occurred to him that the neigh had some connection with the mystery of the missing animals. A half-hour's hard work brought him to the heart of the forest, and there he saw forty or more horses quietly feeding in a barbed wire inclosure. The thieves had a secret path to the pound. They had been removing the horses at pleasure during night by means of a Mississippi flat boat. On the evening of the discovery they were nabbed.

The offer, certainly a tempting one, was courteously and thankfully declined. It is hardly necessary to suggest that if the proposition had been accepted, the great Crickmore would for the future add new aud brighter luster to the fame and popularity of St. Jacobs Oil.

1215 N. Twelfth street. Mr. W. has devoted the best years of his life to the study and trining of horses, and he is considered an authority in all matters pertaining to horsefiesh. Feeling desirous of hearing what he had to say in propria persona regarding the merits of Sr. Jacons Oil, as a remedy for some of the fils that horsefiesh is heir to, the writer resolved to go direct to Mr. Walton's stables for the purpose of interviewing him on the subject. There are hosts of men and women who, to coin a plirase, are only half alive. That is to say, they have acidom if ever any appetite, are nervous, weak, fidgetty and troubled by numberless small patus and aches. In the presence of vigorous, exuberant vitality they seem mere pigmies. Such persons are usually fond of dosing themselves, swallowing in the course of the year enough drugs to it ak any apothecary's shop of average dimensions. This, of course, defeats instead of furthering the end in view, viz., the recovery of health and vigor. Were they to seek it from an unfailing source of vitality, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, how different would be their case. Then vigor would return to their debilitated frames, the glow of health to their wan cheeks, their trembling, uncertain gait would grow firm and elastic, appetite, that gait would grow firm and elastic, appetite, that grandest of all sauces, would give a relish for the daily food, were it ever so course, and re-freshing sleep would crown the tasks of the day.

WILL CURE CANCER

Proof! Proof! Proof!

H. R. Stevers, Esq.:

Deer Str.—About two years ago a cancer made its appearance on my face, left side of my nose. When I first noticed it, 'twas about the size of a pin-head very small). It increased in size, sind agressed on my face until it became as large as a common cent. I tried all kinds of remedies, and advice from a physician. It was spreading and enting into my firsh very fast. I was very much alarmed. I went to see a physician who cured cancers; he did not give me much encouragement. It pained me very much; I suffered night and day. It would bleed at times very profusely. Everything was done that could be to try to cure the cancer. My brother had a cancer on his lip: he submitted to an operation, being well discouraged. I was one day in Mr. Woodberry's adjoctneeary store, of this town. He gave me your painthlet, containing many cures by the use of Vogetiae. I found on page 19 where Verettine had cured a cancer on a tady's ness. I then bought a bottle of your Vegetine, and it proved a great blessing to me; I could see good effects from it right away. After taking three bottles it stopped the spreading of the cancer about the edges; it checked the cating into my feed. I could see it was gradually healing. I kept on taking Vegetine, the cancer slowly disappearing, until I had taken sixteen bottles and it completely cured it. It has leit a large scar on one side of my nose and I feel it my duty to recommend Vegetine to sell like sufferers, as it is certainly a great "Blood Puriner." I am now sixty-three years of age, and Vegetine has greatly improved my general health. Yours most respectfully.
