It is amazing how smart the very poorest lady who has any pretentions to being such will turn out on occasions, however dilapidated her home attire. Two young ladies belonging to an old but utterly ruined family, whose parents were too poor to keep a servant, would dress themselves for their even- advantage over his less fortunate oppoing walk in the most fashionable hats and costumes, with their fans, smelling bottles, lace handkerchiefs and gloves, all complete. In order to obtain these dresses the young ladies had to condescend so far as to work for the peasants, who paid them for the manufacture of the smart stays and chemises they wear on feast days. The attempts at being highly fashionable, combined with an entire ignorance of the ways of the fashionable world, produce sometimes the strangest incongruities. The lacs veil is now almost confined to the class called "artisti"-that is, shopkeepers and skilled workpeople; but a few of the old-fashioned ladies still keep to it. Curious specimens of decayed nobility are to be found in these remote villages -people bearing grand names and retaining considerable pride in their ancient lineage, whom generations of idleness and unthriftiness have reduced to extreme poverty. They are not educated for any profession, and when starvation stares them in third blind husband. The marriage the face they have no resource was not wanting in the elements of but to earn their bread by manual labor. romance, for in their young days they One noble count of my acquaintance is a carpenter; another a bricklayer. I have seen the granddaughters of countess working in the fields. With their fortunes, their manners deteriorate, until nothing but a remnant of pride remains to distinguish them from the peasants between whose class and theirs so great a gulf was once fixed. I remember nothing more melancholy than the assemblage of these povertystricken nobles I once met at the house of the rich man of a village. We were at supper; and as one ragged and dirty old man after another came shambling in, each in turn was, to my great sur-prise, introduced as the descendant of an ancient and noble family, but fallen -"caduto"-added my host, with a gesture of compassion. The old man would then bow his head in melancholy acquiescence, and casting a rueful glance at his shabby cloak with the faded green lining, would slink into a chair at the far end of the table. One of these fallen nobles, who had taken to house-painting, we thought it only charitable to employ for the decoration of our ceiling. I was prepared to feel quite a romantic interest in this unfortunate nobleman, and to be enchanted with his artistic genius; but was so uncommonly dirty, and his manners were so little removed from those of a peasant, that my illusions were dispelled at once.— Neither did his style of decoration exactly come up to my ideal, although it was ambitious enough. A basket of flowers soon adorned each corner of our ceiling, and in the center, from amid clouds and wreaths of roses, a rather shapeless Cupid began to be delineated. In the middle of the work the artist, whose temper was short and whose feelings were sensitive, took offense (as we supposed) at some unintentional slight on our part. Without the slight-

The fortunate owners of petroleum lands in the Luneberg district of Prussia bad scarcely recovered from their astonishment at the possession of un-expected wealth, when the peasant farmers about Munster awoke to find themselves rich in deposits of strontianite, for which there is a great demand in all the German sugar refining centers, particularly at Madgeburg, Dessau, Attenburg and Wagnausel, where it is now permanently used in the extraction of the sugar from the molasses. Some of these sugar refineries are said to date from, the sixteenth century. The mineral which is now found so abundantly in Westphalia, and which promises to be the source of immense wealth to that part of Prussia, owes its recognized scientific name to the village of Strontian, in Scotland, where it was first found. It occurs, though only in small quantities, in other parts of Germany, on the Hartz mountains, also in Salzburg in Poland, and at Tavetsch, in the Grisons, the place which boasts of producing the very finest honey in Europe. The capital of the growing strontianite trade is Hamm, in Westphalia. More than 800 mines are now engaged in working it in that neighborhood.

Esteems.

Many persons who earnestly crave for approval are forever disappointed, because they fall into the common mistake of thinking that they ought to have what they intensely desire. Nothing is ever gained in this way. No one ever grew rich or famous or superior in any act or achievement; so no one ever gained the esteem of his fellowmen by merely wishing for it, even ever so ardently, He must acquire his right to be esteemed before he can reasonably hope to be so. He must cultivate qualities worthy of admiration; he must form a character that shall command respect; he must pursue a line of conduct at once honorable and self-respecting. This alone is the road to the esteem of those whose esteem is worth having. The direct efforts which weak-minded persons make to gain favor, by suppressing their real selves and pretending to be what they suppose will be admired by those whom they flatter, are worse than futile; they merely earn the contempt and failure which all deceit and hypocrisy deserve.

It's easy finding reasons why other people should be good-natured.

Stories About Blind Men.

Three men, two of them blind, were drinking together one night in the room of a public house. And as is too often the result of such convivial meetings, one of the blind men quareled and came to blows with the man who could see. Here was likely to be a battle not by any means on equal terms. But the other blind man was equal to the occasion. That the man who could see should have no undue nent, up jumped the blind friend and turned off the gas, and so they pummeled each other in a harmless way for a time. We have given an illustration of the warlike passion. As an offset we could give many illustrations of that gentler passion, love, for the blind are eminent disciples of Cupid and Hymen. As a rule a respectable blind man has no difficulty in obtaining a seeing wife, and very often with good looks to boot. And when we consider the delicacy of touch in the finger-tips of the blind the latter is not to be wondered at. Blind men, however, do not always marry wives who see. We know of many instances in which both husband and wife are blind and have managed to raise families without the occurence of any serious mishap either to themselves or to the children. And the cases are rare in which the latter are defective in sight. Only lately the marriage took place of a blind couple somewhat advanced in years, she being his second wife, and he, her had courted and parted, blind in a double sense. We will conclude with a courtship, but in this case will not "That is a strange statement, Doctor."

"But it is a true one. The medical profe vouch for its truth. A blind man on several occasions met a widow, who was not, however, like himself, blind, and latterly concluded that she would make him a good wife. He resolved that he would "pop the question" without loss of time. Accordingly, one evening found him at the widow's house for that purpose, when his suit was entirely successful. But so elated was he with his success that, on leaving her door, he forgot he was up a flight of stairs, The staircase window being very low. and happening to be open, he felt the air on his heated brow, stepped out without thinking where he was, and so fell into the court below. The widow, hearing the noise, ran down, greatly elarmed, but was fully reassured that no bones were broken by his remark: "Maggie, ye hae a big step to your door!"-Chambers' Journal.

A Remarkable Gun.

In the late war between Chili and Peru a curious accident befell an eightinch Armstrong gun on board the Chilian warship Angamos. The last time it was fired, the gun which was on deck slipped out of the trunnion ring, flew backward across the ship and flew backward across the ship and subject. If you want to know more about it leaped into the sea. This was the singu- go and see Mr. Warner himself. He was sick lar end of a rather remarkable history. The gun was supplied to the Chilians before the war by Sir William Armstrong's firm, and proved a formidable terror to Peru. The Angamos was previously an Irish pig-boat, and was acquired by Chili for the purpose of carcying this one gun, which, standing off at long ranges of 10,000 yards or so, she could do with impunity. The Peruday and called on Mr. Warner at his establishment on Exchange street. At first Mr. Warner vians at length sent out their fleet of gunboats to destroy this waspish antagonist, when the other Chilian ships, ing increase of Bright's disease, his manner with their short rangers, came into action and drew off the gunboats, all but one, which was sent to engage the Angamos at close quarters. The Armstrong gun, however, sent a shower of Shrspnel bullets on to her decks and the gunboat retreated. As she was nearing port, a pot shot from the eightinch gun, fired at long range and high elevation, managed to hit and sink her. The gun therefore did plenty of hard work and valuable service before it finally gave way and was lost in the

Regret.

Ah, how sad and vain a thing is regret. When too late some past wrongdoing will burden the memory, and the bitter trath we tried to veil, even from our own hearts, is revealed in all its undisguise. Who has not to repent some slight, thoughtless omission of duty or kindness toward those whom they love? What even are regrets compared with the anguish of feeling of having parted from a friend-perhaps from our best beloved - with unkind and cruel words? It may have been those words were uttered carelessly, lightly, as the light and wanton breeze sweeps by, but they leave some scattered rose leaves to mark its tract. Or it may have been they were purposely spoken, prompted by pride and passion and imagined wrong. Such has been an episode in many a life. The cause we know not, any more than that of the little fragment from which I quote, whose actors and whose story are alike unknown. But what a fitting place and time was that for such a part-

EXCITEMENT IN BOCHESTER.

The Commetion Cansed by the Statemen An unusual article from the Rochester, N. Y., Dehocrat and Chronicle, was republished in this paper recently, and has been the subject of much conversation both in professional circles and on the street. Apparently it caused even more commotion in Rochester, as the fel-lowing from the same paper shows: Dr. J. B. Henion, who is well known not only in Rochester but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days since which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to commerste the personal inquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have to the validity of the article, but they have en so numerous that further investigation of the subject was deemed an editorial necessity.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion, at his residence on St. Paul street, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sus-tain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones. Few people ever get so near the grave as I did and then return, and I am not surprised that the public think it marvelous. It was marvelous.

'How in the world did you, a physician, "By neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; left tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull indefinite pains and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious."

"But have these common ailments anything to do with the fearful Bright's disease which took so firm a hold on you?"

"Anything? Why, they are the sure indications of the first stages of that dreadful malady. The fact is, iew people know or realize what ails them, and I am sorry to say that too sion have been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. We doctors have been clipping off the twigs when we should strike at the root. The symp toms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of Bright's disease ever more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, stomach, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it, Doctor "Precisely. Thousands of so-called diseases are torturing people to-day, when in reality it is Bright's disease in some one of its many forms. It is a Hydra-headed monster, and the slightest symptom should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall hundreds of deaths which physicians at the time declared were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common complaints, which I see now were caused by Bright's disease."
"And did all these cases have simple symptoms at first ?" Every one of them, and might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy—Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I am getting my eyes thoroughly opened in this matter, and think I am helping others to see the facts and their possible danger also. Why, there are no end of truths bearing on this subject. If you want to know more about it the same as I, and is the healthiest man in Rochester to-day. He has made a study of this subject and can give you more facts than I can. Go, too, and see Dr. Lattimore, the chemist, at the University. If you want facts there are any quantity of them showing the alarming increase of Bright's disease, its simple and deceptive symptoms, and that there is but one way in which it can be escaped." ment on Exchange street. At first Mr. Warner was inclined to be reticent, but learning that changed instantly and he spoke very earnestly:

"It is true that Bright's disease has increased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that in the past ten years its growth has been 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off: Everett, Sumner, Chase, Wilson, Carpenter, Bishop Haven and others. This is terrible and shows a greater growth than that of any other known plaint. It must be plain to every one that something must be done to check this increase or there is no knowing where it may end."

"Do you think many people are afflicted with it to-day who do not realize it, Mr. Warner?"
"Hundreds of thousands. I have a striking example of this truth which has just come to my notice. A prominent professor in a New Or-leans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis, and was showing the students what the indicas tions of this terrible malady were. In order to draw the contrast between healthy and unhealthy fluids he had provided a vial, the con-tents of which were drawn from his own person. 'And now, gentlemen,' he said, 'as we have seen the unhealthy indications, I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health,' and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him, and in a trembling voice he said: 'Gentlemen, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kinneys,' and in less than a year he was dead.'

ful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys,' and in less than a year he was dead."

"You be leve, then, that it has no symptoms of its own, and is frequently unknown even by the person who is afflicted with it?"

"It has no symptoms of its own and very often none at all. Usually no two people have the same symptoms, r'd frequently death is the first symptom. The slightest indications of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike turror to any one. I know what I am talking about, for I have been through all the stages of kidney disease."

about, for I have been through all the stages of kidney disease."

"You know of Dr. Hen lon's case?"

"Yes, I have both real and heard of it."

"It is very wounderful, is it not?"

"A very prominent case, but no more so than a great many others that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means."

"You hallows then the Bright's disease." "You believe, then, that Bright's disease can

"I know it can. I know it from the experi-ence of hundreds of prominent persons who were given up to die by both their physicians and friends." You speak of your own experience, what

"A fearful one. I had felt languid and un-"A fearful one. I had left langing and the fitted for business for years. But I did not know what alled me. When, however, I found it was kidney difficulty I thought there was little hope, and so did the doctors. I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city regulated was out to a gentleman on the city pointed me out to a gentleman on the street one day, saying: 'There goes a man who will be dead within a year.' I believe his words would have proven true if I had not for tunately secured and used the remedy now known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver

"And this caused you to manufacture it?"

"No, it caused me to investigate. I went to the principal cities with Dr. Craig, the discoverer, and saw the physicians prescribing and using it, and saw that Dr. Craig was unable, with his facilities, to supply the medicine to thousands who wanted it. I therefore determined, as a duty I owed humanity and the suffering, to bring it within their reach, and now it is known in every part of America, is said in every drug store and has become a household necessity."

The reporter left Mr. Warner, much impressed with the earnestness and soncerity of his statements, and next paid a wisit to Dr. S.

A. Lattimore, although busily engaged on some matters connected with the State Board of Health, of which he is one of the analysts, sourteonaly answared the questions that were propounded to him:

'Did you make a chemical analysis of the case of Mr. H. H. Warner some three years

"What did the analysis show you?"
"The presence of albumen and tube casts in eat abundance."

"And what did the symptoms indicate?"

"A serious disease of the kidneys."

"Did you think Mr. Warner could recover

"No, sir; I did not think it possible. It was seldom, indeed, that so pronounced a case had, up to that time, ever been cured."

"Do you know anything about the young." "Do you know anything about the remedy which cured him?"

"Yes. I have chemically analyzed it, and upon critical examination find it entirely free room any poisonous or deleterious substances."

We publish the foregoing statements in view of the commotion which the publicity of Dr. Henion's article has caused and to meet the protestations which have been made. The standing of Dr. Henion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question, and the statements they make cannot for a moment be doubted. They conclusively show that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all dis-mases, that it is exceedingly common, alarming-ly increasing, and that it can be cured.

HEALTH HINTS.

Bodily toil and manual labor can be best supported by a vegetable diet, as bread, porridge, etc , with the addition of milk, oggs, butter and cheese; meat is much inferior to these as a supplyer of strength.

Variety of diet is of importance to health; the stomach gets weary of a repetition of the same diet every day. Hurry at meals is to be avoided—eat slowly and chew it well,

A small cup of warm milk containing a teaspoonful of lime water may be given frequently in cases of "bowel complaint."-Dr. Foote's Health Monthly,

The practice of drinking stimulants as aids to work is a serious mistake; it checks the desire for wholesome food, leads to excess, and sooner or later injures the health.

The majority of people, says Dr. Foote's Health Monthly, are apt to neglect the feet. Frequent bathing of the feet in water in which a small quantity of borax has been placed is conducive to health and comfort, Ammonia and bay rum, though cleausing, have a tendency to dry the skin and close the pores. Hosiery should be frequently changed, and the feet, ankles and calves of the legs annointed with healing oil or salve. Never use cheap or highlyperfumed soap, as it has a tendency to dry and parch the skin, and so close the pores as to prove very injurious to health. Castile, olive-oil and other vegetable-oil soaps are the best for the flesh.

Diphtheria.

We may clash with many a preconceived opinion in stating our view of the treatment of this disease, says an exchange. Formerly caustics were mach employed to the throat, but such measures are no longer advocated, and eliminating and tonic medicines, detorgent gurgles and applications, together with a nourishing diet are approved of

To us it appears that fresh air is the first necessity; we should allow a diphtherial patient to be near an open window. Next, we should use hot malt vinegar for flannel wraps round the throat, gargles of the same diluted with water, and the most tonic diet possible. Neither quiuine or mineral tonics, but hot, strong wines. yolks of eggs beaten up in strong beef tea; warm baths made of camomile flowers; feet placed in mustard and water, and flannel wraps sosked in hot vinegar around the stomach.

The juice pressed from raw beef, heated in a farina boiler and given coastantly, but above all hot red wine. Inhalations of the fumes of hot vinegar with open mouth and pencilings of the same within the mouth. The use of lemons is also to be recommended.

Diphtheria is a preventable disease, and when we know more of the conditions under which the health of human life can exist, and are inclined to listen to it and act according to it, we shall have fewer epidemics such as those of diphtheria.

Strength of the Egyptian Moth.

You are sitting at dinner with all your doors open, and suddenly you hear a familiar sound, and a beetle is wheeling "his droning flight" around the room. Flop! he falls on the table half stunned. You seize him and are amazed at the strength of his struggles, and still further at the squeak he utters, showing that he must have vocal organs -like the death's-head moth, which squeaks loudly when touched. Examine him, and you will find that he is the Egyptian scarab, varying in size from half an inch to an inch and a half long, and relatively, I believe, the most powerful animal in the world. Take an inch specimen and place him on the tablecloth under a full quart bottle of wine or beer. Presently you will see the bottle move, and if unchecked it will slide mysteriously across the table, pushed by the gaint beneath in its efforts to escape .-Chambers' Journal.
