They were good citizens and pleasant neighbors, and the many friends they leave behind much pride to our citizens, and the will wish them abundant success in the future.

-While riding a horse in Forest county nearly two weeks ago, James I. Manross, of LeBoeuf, was badly injured. The horse stumbled, fell, and the young man was terribly crushed fore Constable Black got around the beneath the animal. Mr. I. W. Manross, a brother of the injured man went to Forest county and had him brought home Saturday. He is not likely to ever entirely recover from the accident .- Mill Village Herald.

-The Balltown well was finished last week, being down something over 1300 feet. At this depth 27 feet of sand was passed through but the well was a duster. Jas. Welsh, the con tractor was down on Thursday last and had an interview with the owners, and they instructed him to go on with the well and put it down 2000 feet, if oil was not found at a less depth. He will resume drilling immediately.

-Pigeons are said to be increasing in numbers in Jenks and Howe townships, and already a large number of "pigeoners" is there preparing to catch them. The birds will probably commence pesting in a week or two, and then look out for fun. They are worth from $2.00 to $2.50 per dozen in market, and when one man catches 25 or 30 dozen in a day, which is not an unusual catch, why that's paying business. ain't it.

--Dr. Steadman has sold his dental material and implements to Dr. J. W. Morrow, and will shortly leave Tioweek, having business at his stave mill nesta. Dr. Morrow will carry on the business bereafter, and would respectfully inform the people that, having had over six years experience in the business, he considers himself competeut to perform all work coming in the line of dentistry. He will, however, always give the medical practice calls as heretofore.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. Calvin Arner, of Whig Hill, his county, desires, through the medium of our paper, to express his heartfelt thanks to those citizens and friends of our county, who made such liberal donations to himself and family since his great misfortune in the loss of his leg. Although the money was abundant, and has afforded him great relief in a time of need, the spirit in which it was given is even more highly appreciated by him. Mr. Arner will ever cherish in his heart a high regard for these kind friends.

Something Concerning its Boute and Prospects.

[Under the above caption a well-posted Tionesta centleman writes to the Frank lin Press the following very sensible and accurate account of the new road we have had occasion to speak of frequently of late. What the correspondent says is true in every instance .- ED. REPUBLICAN.]

TIONESTA, PA., March 14, 1882. ED. PRESS :- In your last issue some general reference was made to the Tionesta & Allegheny River Railroad, The Philadelphia Ledger of a recent date gives an encouraging and satisfactory account of this road, the building of which is in contemplation for this season. The route is from Sheffield, on the Philadelphia & Erie road; thence along the Tionesta Creek to its mouth at Tionesta, thence down the the preference, and will strend all Allegheny on the east bank to Oil City, a total distance of 58 miles. The grades on this road are remarkably easy not exceeding ten feet to the mile, it is said. If built it will be more important than might appear at first sight, shortening the distance between the lower oil region and Phila-

-Au exchange gives the following advice : "Keep your movey and business at home. It helps the place and helps you. There is competition enough at home to keep prizes down without going outside for your goods." -Mrs. J. W. J. Armstrong, of Clarington, Pa., and Miss Hattie A. Bell were married on Wednesday morning, by the Rev. Dr. Cushing, of Bradford, at the residence of Mrs. Coldon, the bride's sister. The newly married young people received many beautiful gifts. They left on the afternoon train for Clarington, where they will reside in and the oil in southern Warren and norththe future."

-The latest concerning new railroads is a well founded rumor that a narrow guage will be built from Stratterville, in Clerion Co., to Tylersburg, thence down Big Coon and Tionesta creeks to this place. It is said the parties having this projectt in view have obtained permission from the B P. & W. R'y Co. to lay a third rail to Oil City from Tionesta. The projectors are Oil City capitalists who own a large body of coal laud near Strattanville, and consider this to be the cheapest and most feasibly way of getting the coal to market. It will not be long until something definite can be said regarding the project, and if carried through at all, it will be done this summer.

interests in Forest and Warren counties, and to the coal interests of Venango and adjoining counties.

The dense forests of hemlock and pine that lie along its route are a matter of great commercial importance. The hemlock itself is a vast item. After passing Tionesta a few miles the hemlock timber is reached, which spreads west to the branches of the Susquehanaa and north into Warren and the edge of McKean, and is the largest and most continuous body of hemlock on the globe. There is nothing like it in British America, or Russia or anywhere between hare and the North Pole.

This road has been surveyed by an able corps of engineers under the direction of T. H. Wilson, late SuperIntendent of the P. T. & B. Railway, who took great interest in this project, and carried on the surveys and explorations at a large cost of time and money. He had the wisdom to see the vast coal interests that would be subserved, the timber, the hemlock bark, the tanneries, the South American hides that would be carried to and from them, ers Forest oil fields. Seeing through his spectacles these and many other advantages it is not surprising that this read is a favorite enterprise with him and that he has enlisted others in it. Mr. F. F. Whittekin, formerly of President, Venango county, but now of Forest, made the preliminary surveys and reports, and spent months with a corps investigating the route, being as much of an euthusiast in the work as Wilson himself. You may set the road down among the cartainties of the near future.
