LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Condensed Time Table Tionesta Station.

Table with columns for NORTH and SOUTH, listing train numbers and times.

—Rev. G. W. Scott, a native Hindoo, of the United Presbyterian Church will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church next Sabbath at the usual hours.

—Rev. Hicks will occupy the pulpit of the M. E. Church next Sunday evening.

—Services in M. E. Church next Sabbath evening.

—Presbyterian Sabbath School at 3 p. m.; M. E. Sabbath School at 10 a. m.

—Next Saturday is the last day for paying State and County taxes in order to secure your vote. DON'T FORGET IT.

—Mr. Porter Haskel, of Clarion, was on our streets yesterday.

—Clark Kepler has resumed his studies at Allegheny College, Meadville.

—The Clarendon, Warren county Record says "Miss Laura Ittel is lying very sick with the fever."

—Miss Kate Pease returned home Monday evening from a four months visit to her sister at Bolivar, N. Y.

—Otto Raisig went to his home in Plumerville, Pa., a couple of weeks ago and has been on the sick list ever since.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Robinson, drove to Reynoldsville, Jefferson county, where they will spend a couple of days at the home of Mr. R.'s mother.

—Mr. J. B. Siggins returned to his medical studies at Ann Arbor University, Mich., last week. We are pleased to state that when James returns home he will bear with him the title of M. D.

—Yesterday Mrs. W. E. Morgan sprained her right ankle very severely. She recovered but a short time ago from a sprain of the same ankle, and this last accident makes her injury doubly painful.

—Now slay the festive "drummer"—we mean the pheasant, not the "commercial tourist"—because the season opened the first inst. They are not very plenty this year, according to all reports. Deer are also in season now.

—Mrs. W. E. Lathy departed for her western home, Newton, Kansas, yesterday, after a most pleasant visit with Tionesta friends and relatives. Before leaving for the west, however, she will visit friends in some of the eastern cities.

—The teachers' institute for this county will commence this year on the 18th of December. Prof. Hillard hopes to be able to offer still greater attractions than last year, and we hope the teachers and all others will heartily second his efforts.

—Justice Shawkey has made several material changes in his store at Salmon Creek, and is now stocking up with a full line of groceries and fall goods. The natives up the creek thus have an opportunity of securing their necessities at home hereafter.

—Republican voter! have you examined your tax receipt? If not, don't delay another minute. You want to vote next November and help swell the Republican majority, but you can't do it unless your State and County taxes are paid. See to it NOW.

—A letter from Mr. R. D. Hoskins in this issue will be read with interest by his many friends in Forest county; Mr. H. seems delighted with his new location, and promises us another letter descriptive of the town, county and country in general, which we hope he will hurry along.

—Dan Walters is having a nice (?) time with the neuralgia in his left jaw these days. It has got to be sort of an old-rag now as Dan has had it for the past three weeks. He offers to dispose of it on very reasonable terms to the first customer.

—About a hundred and fifty of our people took the special train to Oil City last Friday to see Jumbo and the rest of Barnum's great show. They are universal in their praise of the entire affair, and think that Barnum shows all he advertises. Those who did not go to Oil City, went to Titusville on Saturday and took in the show.

—Mr. W. W. Hulings, one of the representative men of Louisville, Ky., paid a flying visit to his brother J. D. this week, and gave us a pleasant call yesterday. He reports his family all quite well, especially Grandmother Hulings, whom he says, although past 88, is physically quite active, and always anxious to get the news from her many old Tionesta friends.

—Sides are chosen for the hunt to take place next Saturday, and from present appearances it will be a success. Game is considerably plentier than a month ago, besides pheasants and deer will be included in the count, while chipmunks will be stricken off. Same rules and count as on last hunt to govern. Let all those chosen turn out and the hunt will be more satisfactory all round.

—And old and valued New York subscriber encloses us a $2.00 greenback wherewith to renew his subscription, and in his letter makes the following quotation from the N. Y. Herald: "This paper has the largest circulation in the United States." Our friend thinks the Herald is a little "off," and says that this paper (the greenback) has a much larger circulation, although it is not nearly so old, and he is right.

—A fire broke out in the Elk Democrat office, Ridgway, early last Friday morning, and despite the efforts of the people, the flames soon spread to other buildings, and in a short time the best portion of the business blocks of the town were entirely destroyed. The loss is roughly estimated at over $100,000, with about $50,000 insurance. Poor facilities for fighting fire was the cause of so much property being destroyed.

—Mr. W. W. Thomas, is putting up a new mill for the manufacture of lumber, in connection with his shingle mill on the headwaters of Little Conon. He expects to have it ready for sawing in ten days or two weeks. We are glad to state that Mr. Thomas has made a success of his shingle mill, and we predict for him much greater success in his new undertaking. He is a practical lumberman, and will drive the business for all there is in it. Success, William.

—Mr. C. J. Gansel, of Tylersburg, Pa., has bought a farm in Caro, Michigan, and left for there with his family on Monday. He intends to make it his future home, and follow farming for a livelihood. Mr. Gansel has always been an industrious, hardworking, honest citizen, and will, without doubt, make a success of it in Michigan, where farming is done on a much larger scale than in this country. We take pleasure in recommending Mr. Gansel to the good citizens of Caro, who will find him an A. No. 1 man in every respect.

—Chas. Raisig, our enterprising wagon maker, has commenced the erection of a carriage and blacksmith shop on his newly purchased lot on the corner of Hiland and Race Sts. When finished his establishment will be large and commodious, and Charlie will be prepared to turn out wagons, carriages, buggies, &c., of the most approved patterns and styles. He has associated with him an experienced blacksmith, who takes a back seat for no one in ironing off a carriage or vehicle of any description. The new firm has our best wishes for success.

—A slight change in the time of passenger trains on the River Division of the B. P. & W. R. R. took effect yesterday. The trains now run as follows: Up river—7:48 a. m. mail, 9:24 accommodation, and 3:59 p. m. express; Down river—11:05 a. m. accommodation, 1:45 p. m. mail, and 8:20 p. m. express. The additional train at 11:05 will please our people very much, as during its suspension it was next to impossible to go to Oil City and transact any business and get back the same day. We shall endeavor to have full corrections next week, as the above is the schedule only for Tionesta station.

Oil News.

The oil report for the month of September shows a great falling off in production during the latter part of the month; in fact it is estimated that the production is now several thousand barrels less than the consumption, which means that oil, which has been booming of late will soon be selling at a bigger figure than it has reached for many months.

The developments in Forest county have not been very active of late, but promise to live up before long. News from the different wildcats are hard to obtain, that is anything of a reliable nature. Mr. Cornwell at his well at Root & Watson's has got down somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,500 feet, and we presume expects to reach the sand at about 1750 feet. With no bad luck he will probably reach that depth the first of next week.

Grove, Hart & Co., at their new well on Beaver, will doubtless commence drilling this week. As will also Hancock & Kennedy, on the Watson farm, Whig Hill. We learn, also that Mr. Eli Berlin and others are getting ready to sink a well on the Widow Berlin farm on Whig Hill.

The Wolcott well, one mile from Tionesta, is down about 1200 feet and plugged, so it is said. They have some gas, and very slight signs of oil, but will give no information concerning the venture. The rig is not boarded up, and any one with sufficient smelling capacity might find out easily if they have oil. We hope they have. P. S.—The well is dry, and there is a movement on foot to have it sunk a few hundred feet deeper.

The Derrick of Monday contains the following relative to Forest county developments: "Within the next thirty days the number of wildcat ventures which should be completed in Forest county, will either open a new pool or determine the barrenness of a wide extent of territory. Four wildcat wells are drilling in the vicinity of the Cooper tract and Blue Jay district; three are starting near the Grace duster on 5211, and two are going down in the vicinity of Balltown. Besides these John Cornwell has one all by himself, east of the Tionesta, on Bear Creek. The eastern edge of the county will be partly tested by the Hallock Bros., & Johnston wildcat near the line of Elk county, while the Tylersburg well in Clarion county is not far from the south line of Forest."

Minnesota Letter.

CROOKSTON, MINN., Sept. 20, '82. ED. REPUBLICAN:—I believe one of the many promises I made when leaving Forest county, about a month ago, was to give you my ideas of this Mecca towards which so many eyes are turned at the present time. I would have done so before were it not for the fact of being so overwhelmed by the greatness of the place into which I have been placed. I was, as I supposed, prepared for seeing things done on a large scale and everything under the most improved methods known. But the reality is so much greater than my fancy had made it that I was like a stranger in the big woods—at a loss to know which way to turn. But things are gradually clearing up and perhaps I can venture a few lines, though it will probably be disconnected.

From the mountains of the Allegheny valley to the fruitful Western Reserve was a change, but not one so very noticeable. Unfortunately I passed through this portion of Ohio during the night and all the opinion I have of this far famed section was gathered by traveling at a forty mile per hour rate and under the light of a full moon. Enough was visible to satisfy one that it has its reputation justly and that the praises are rightly sounded. Mansfield is reached and the fast passing objects lose themselves in one and we know no more until the porter arouses us and says we are within site of Chicago. The breeze, fresh from Lake Michigan, tells the same story and in a few minutes the train comes to a stand in the magnificent Union depot of this city. After breakfast we have two hours for sight seeing and we devote it to a trip along the docks, past the vast lumber yards, and on the streets where the jobbing houses, from eight to ten stories high, are located. Eleven o'clock Sunday morning we take the train, on the Chicago and St. Paul road, for the latter city. Eighteen car loads of humanity are carried along with scarcely a stop until two p. m., when dinner and Milwaukee are announced. Leaving the city celebrated for Ph. B. our direction is across the State and amounts to nothing out of the usual routine until eleven that night when La Crosse is reached and all the new travelers crowd the platforms to view the Mighty Mississippi by moonlight. Early Monday morning St. Paul, white, clean and pretty, perched upon a bluff, is before us and "change cars" the order. Two hours before the train for Manitoba leaves and the choice is given of staying where we are or going on to Minneapolis, the city of mighty flouring mills. We choose the latter and in fifteen minutes have crossed the intervening ten miles, passed the wonderful falls of Minnehaha, or "laughing water," and find ourselves in one of the most bustling places of the North-West. "This train for Crookston and Winnepeg" comes in a short time and now we are on our way through the prairie, heretofore known to us only through the medium of geographies, and their pictures. All the day and nothing but what is called "rolling" prairie meets our gaze. In the aggregate this is level, but the billowy appearance of the land gives it the name. Southern Minnesota is one vast system of small lakes and the sight of flock after flock of wild ducks and geese made us ache for a shot gun for a few minutes. The water is said to be full of fish and if so, what a paradise for sportsmen. To have big, broad, canvas-backs stare at us not ten feet from the car window was sort of aggravating to a person who had been used to seeing one poor h—liver the target of all the shot in a neighborhood. About dark Fergus Falls appears and then we receive a taste of level prairie, as far as the eye can reach unbroken and unvarying. One hundred miles farther north do we push and over the Red Lake river we go and our destination is reached.

How can I describe Crookston? First we have the river, about as wide as Tionesta creek, but very deep and swift. We miss the clearness of Pennsylvania streams in it, as at all seasons the color is that of the clay over which it flows. The large pike and catfish that it contains are free from spears, as the muddy waters never place them in view. The stream is the outlet of a lake of the same name as itself, and is about ninety miles long, emptying into the Red River of the North twenty miles west. I will give it the credit of being the most crooked thing I know of. To get around Crookston it must flow fully twenty miles. It approaches the east side of the city and then takes a circle to the south of five miles, coming back within a short distance of its starting point, and then doing the same thing on the west. Hold to pairs together by the stem and their outline will represent the course pretty near. C. is a place of about 4000 inhabitants and growing so rapidly that it is hard to keep track of the increase. All the modern inventions find use—the telephone connects every section of the city; a company is organized to furnish the electric light; very powerful water works will be running this fall, &c. The majority of the business places are white or cream colored brick, and are put up in a very substantial manner. All classes are represented and it is as easy to obtain the staples and luxuries as in the East. In short it will compare in activity and magnitude with eastern places of thrice its number of people. But I have spun this out too much now and will leave a description of the country in particular and its wonderful crop raising capacity, its Indiana, banana farms, and so on, until some future day. R. D. Hoskins.

—Republicans! we admonish you to look after the payment of your State and County taxes. The time is drawing near and the first thing you know you will forget about it until it is too late. See to it right now.

Heroes of the Plains.

In American history there are no more interesting figures than the Heroes of the border. Bold, dashing, adventurous and patriotic; loyal to friends, to country and to the interests of society, their work was singularly effective in the advancement of western civilization. With seeming recklessness, their efforts were in the interest of law and order, and the people owe them a debt of gratitude they do not forget. Their page in history is as fascinating as it is honorable, and there is a peculiar pleasure in reading the narrative of their wonderful exploits. Among those, whose careers were singularly adventurous, are Kit Carson, Wild Bill, Buffalo Bill, Capt. Payne, Texas Jack, California Jee, Capt. Jack and others, whose achievements have made them justly and widely famous. They have a warm place in the hearts of the people, and a prominent one in their admiration. It is appropriate that their achievements should be recorded, and we note with pleasure the forthcoming of a new book from the press of N. D. Thompson & Co., New York and St. Louis, called "The Heroes of the Plains," covering the ground of border history. It is profusely illustrated with 100 engravings and 16 colored lithograph plates. It is sold by subscription through canvassing agents, and presents an opportunity to agents to make money especially inviting. We advertise it in another column.

—Pay your State and County taxes. Don't put it off till to-morrow, but do it right away.

—Dyspepsia, the bug-bear of epicurians, will be relieved by Brown's Iron Bitters.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which Sulphur, Sugar of Lead, and Nitrate of Silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggist for it. Each bottle is warranted. SMITH, KLINE & CO., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. CRITENTON, New York. July 14-82.

MARRIED.

WATSON—KINCH—At the Rural House Tionesta, Pa., October 1, 1882, by D. L. Knox, J. P., Mr. Harvey B. Watson, and Miss A. M. Kinch, both of Kingsley township, this county.
