

SELECT SIFTINGS.

The Indian Territory is as large as the six New England States.

A silver dime was found in the yolk of an egg recently broken at the Plankinton house, Milwaukee.

An eight-day clock that had been given to the wife of Douglas Ottinger, of Erie, Penn., as a wedding present by her husband, stopped at the very moment she died, and cannot be started again.

In a certain part of Texas, many miles from the coast, lie the remains of a ship, high and dry in the prairie grass. She is of Spanish build and supposed to have been driven inland by a tidal wave.

Silver spring, in Georgia, is said to be the largest spring in the world. It is the source of the Oklawaha river, which is sixty feet wide at the start, ten feet deep and with a current flowing two miles an hour.

The oldest son of Farmer Saunders of Richardson county, Neb., cut out the tongue of his younger brother because he had threatened to tell their father of some offense that the elder brother had committed.

A well-to-do farmer, living near Reading, Penn., created a sensation by bringing his three young and handsome daughters into court as the plaintiffs in three separate actions for breach of promise of marriage.

Seven inches from the outside of a log in a Pennsylvania mill, the saw passed through a walnut which was imbedded in the solid wood. The shell and kernel of the nut was sound. The growth of the tree shows that the nut is at least fifty years old.

A man living near Lake Louise, in Manitoba, picked up an armful of sticks, and, carrying them home, threw them under the stove. In a few moments two of the sticks began crawling away, having developed into good-sized moccasin snakes.

A railroad train in Virginia ran into a cow and cut the animal in two, the forequarters falling on one side of the railroad track and the hindquarters on the other side. The cow was with calf at the time, and the calf was left on the outside of the roadbed alive. The owner of the cow raised the calf, which grew to be a cow, and was killed near the spot where her mother was killed in 1853.

WISE WORDS.

Doubt indulged becomes doubt realized. Thinking is the talking of the soul with itself.

We are shaped and fashioned by what we love. Children have more need of models than of critics.

Wherever affection can spring, it is like the green leaf and the blossom—pure, and breathing purity, whatever soil it may grow in.

Mankind has been learning for six thousand years, and yet how few have learned that their fellow beings are as good as themselves.

In all life's doings there are circuitous paths; and nine times out of ten, when a man seems to be doing one thing, he is doing another.

Charity toward the weakness of human nature is a virtue which we demand in others, but which we find very hard to practice ourselves.

Old age is the night of life, as night is the old age of the day. Still, night is full of magnificence; and for many it is more brilliant than the day.

Man is greater than a world, than systems of worlds; there is more mystery in the union of souls with the physical than in the creation of a universe.

A Musical Bed.

The latest freak of a foreign visitor to Paris, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, is, without doubt, the order for a musical bed. Such an article of domestic comfort was thought to be a myth, but an Indian rajah has just ordered one from the celebrated firm of Christopher Brothers. The bed is made of mahogany, embossed with silver plates, artistically carved to represent Venus and Cupid. The ornamentation is principally in the Indian style, but the carved roses and intertwined flowers are planned on the delicate French style that is so attractive. The value of the material alone that has been used in the construction of this novel piece of furniture is 18,000 francs and before it is completed it will be worth 60,000 francs.

The mattress is covered with light-blue damask satin, and embroidered with gold filigree silk. The act of reclining upon this beautiful work starts the musical box, which plays selections from Gounod, "The Funeral March of a Marionette" being the most attractive.

The greatest piece of mechanism yet remains to be told. The spring that sets the musical box in motion connects also with each corner of the bedstead, where four figures of women stand, carved life-size and painted to represent living creatures. On being started they gently wave the plumed fans that are placed in their hands and move their eyes so naturally that a casual observer might mistake them for animated beings.

This is somewhat a strange bed, even for an Indian prince, but as the world grows to appreciate the sight of wealth more and more in everyday life, it is to be presumed that many innovations of this nature will find their way into the mansions of the wealthy.

Chicago has had sixty-nine un doubted murders since the beginning of the year 1881, and of all the murders only one has been hanged.

THE "BLACK HAND" SOCIETY.

RISE AND FALL OF A MYSTERIOUS ORDER IN SPAIN.

An Organization With 50,000 Members. Charged With Strange Crimes—More Than 1,000 Arrested.

The London Telegraph, speaking of the arrest of 1,000 members of the "Black Hand" Society, gives this account of an extraordinary organization which sprang up recently in Spain: Never since the prisons of the French Revolution sent its victims in tumblers to the guillotine has so motley a crowd been gathered within the walls of a jail. Ordinarily noisome enough, the Andalusian prisons have now a close resemblance to the Black Hole of Calcutta. Penned together in the foul cells, the floor covered with dirty straw, with a loaf of hard bread in one corner and a jug of muddy water in the other, lie, now moodily silent, now swearing and jesting, forbidden to throw dice or play cards, these wild-eyed peasants, some of them old and white-haired, with a blanket thrown over them, others of them young and stalwart, with a cloak thrown jauntily over their shoulder. Friends they had outside, for letters and food found their way into their midst; and sympathetic crowds gathered at the gates howling for the release of the prisoners.

There is no more lovely valley in the world than that in which the city of Xeres is placed. Luxuriant vegetation fringes the rivers which traverse it majestically. Vast herds feed on the slopes. Wealth untold and still unsuspected lies hidden in the rocky soil. A patient population, accustomed to poverty, till the fields in patience, paying to others the fruit of their labor, earning for themselves a scanty subsistence. Middlemen of the class best known in Ireland and in Egypt gather their rent or serve them with notices of eviction. Their landlords are grantees who live in Madrid, buzzing round the court of the young King Alfonso, never moved to visit their territories in the South.

But there came a time when the peasants refused to recognize the claim of the land-owners—refused to pay rent to the middlemen. Civil guards and soldiers were sent against them. Then began a carnival of crime. Robbery on the highway, cattle-stealing, incendiary destruction of vineyards, moonlight attacks—these were for months the burden of the newspapers. Threatening letters were received by the authorities; land-owners fled from the rural districts. Among the wine-growers of Xeres the socialist propaganda had been spread. Many murders were reported in lonely parts of the country; dozens of people mysteriously disappeared. Judges came down with extraordinary powers; civil guards conducted the most rigid investigations, but nothing of importance could be learned. At last a servant called on his master, told him that he was deputed by a secret society to kill him, and gave information where the leaders of the society might be found. On the following night an attack was made on a lonely farm; the assailants, driven off, left one of their number behind, and he, being at the point of death, made a confession attributing the deed to the instigation of a secret society.

This was discovered the organization of "The Black Hand." Its leaders were a schoolmaster, a smuggler and a brigand. His inspiration came from the defunct "Internationale." Its plan of action was to tempt the discontented operatives and farm laborers into its ranks, offering them relief in sickness or old age, and promising that their material condition should be improved. Within the circle of casual recruits was formed an inner circle, which gave itself the name of "The Black Hand," and printed a black hand on every warning missive which it sent out. It held its sessions by torchlight, the members wearing masks. It decoyed its victims into lonely glens, slew and buried them there. It established secret juntas over the entire region, and partly by persuasion, partly by force, compelled 50,000 persons to join its ranks. It boasts that it had branches in Murcia, Estremadura and Portugal, and allies in every socialist society in the world. But as soon as the civil guards were on its track, and the wholesale arrests that were made proved the law to be in earnest, it vanished as suddenly as it arose.

"Captain John's" Way.

"Captain John," of the Bodie (Nev.) Plutes, has hit upon a happy way of curing the Indians of his tribe of getting drunk. The Free Press says that he keeps a long rope in his private office, and when the drunk reels to the wickiup he is captured. John calls on two of his lieutenants and they march the prisoner to a deserted shaft forty feet deep and lower him to the boom. He is kept there forty-eight hours. During the Indian's imprisonment he is fed on bread and water. Captain John says that this system of treatment will be thoroughly tested, and if it fails to have the desired effect some other plan will be devised for destroying the taste for Bodie whiskey.

A granger whose name is Bob Shield. Was mowing the grass in his field. By a snake he was bitten. And he has just written, "St. Jacobs Oil has the bite healed." A lame Chinaman on the Pacific. Of pains and aches was prolix; He limped all around. Until he had found St. Jacobs Oil, the great specific.

A JOYFUL GREETING.

Hello! How are you? I am glad to see your eyes have fallen upon me. Now that we have met, pray cultivate the acquaintance, for it is my purpose to interest and serve you. Between you and I, though only a newspaper article, I am ambitious. Having a portentous message for all mankind, if it is cordially received, its import truly realized and acted upon, I shall be considered a world's benefactor. I could have no higher ambition but to do good.

A misanthrope of ample means determined to end his life by drowning himself. Going to the banks of the canal, found the time not favorable for the purpose, a number of persons being in the vicinity, and daylight still present. He concluded to wait along the towpath until it was dark. While doing so, he heard piteous cries issuing from the door of a hovel near by, and unconsciously walked over to the place, and found a poor family consisting of a mother and seven children, all dying of starvation, and such a pleasurable character, that he changed his suicidal intent, and decided to live for others. His future life became replete with good deeds—many a dark home and heart were made bright by his presence. Well may an unlearned man be commended, springs simply from a desire on the part of those I represent, to benefit your new-devoing race. My province is to help you, your friends, your relations, aye, even your mother-in-law, if that interesting lady be not already far beyond the pale of good influences.

I am sent among men to bear tidings of a discovery that marks an epoch as important to the health of mankind as Newton's apple and Franklin's kite were to natural science. The sick, the disabled, the desponding, who now find a cure, certain as the Jordan proved to the Syrian leper. It is only necessary, as in the case of that sufferer of old, to follow directions.

The agent which I herald builds up the system, sweeps the cobwebs from the brain, and sends pure, invigorating blood dancing through the arteries to the music of happy laughter.

The gloomy, worn-out man of business, by proper use of this wonderful medicine, will be enabled to meet trouble and reverse like a man. Then, in perfect health, he will not have abnormal visions of the "Vicissitudes of fortune, which spares neither man, nor the proudest of his works, which buries empires and nations in a common grave." The weak and nervous woman, just able to drag herself, in "moping melancholy" through duties of the day, may steal the bloom from bluish roses, and have eyes as bright and sparkling as the dewdrops nesting in the leaves of the morning glory. Her skin, now disfigured with pimples and scabby sores, may be made sweet, cool and wholesome as—"that youngster of Mrs. Blank's, across the way, whose family is always in a glow of health." Don't you know the reason? Then, if you will, get this for your years your neighbor has never been without Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

This remedy is a medicine, not a beverage, and is to be taken according to full and perfectly plain directions accompanying each bottle. It is a specific, but not a narcotic, and contains no vile narcotics or vile liquor. It is a prescription used for years by the well-known physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose name is a household word in innumerable homes all over our country. The Golden Medical Discovery is prepared and offered to the public by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, a body corporate, existing by and under the laws of the State of New York; its president is Dr. Pierce, the great specialist in chronic diseases. The doctor has devoted the best years of a very busy and wonderfully successful life to the relief and cure of his suffering fellow men—and at a time when high political honors lay broadly open before him, Dr. Pierce resigned a seat in the senate of the United States, simply from a sense of duty toward others. His associates in the great sanitarium represented to the doctor that the immense business of their association should be paid to the greatest specialist in chronic diseases in the United States, and he, being at the point of death, made a confession attributing the deed to the instigation of a secret society.

The Golden Medical Discovery will not make drunkards or opium eaters, on the contrary, any intoxication, driven by its invigorating and healthy influence, to the use of insidious stimulants, will find the Discovery of great assistance in efforts to break the chains binding him to a shameful and miserable existence.

Those feeling only "out of sorts," with no predominant symptoms, and who, it is asked, would find it difficult to explain their sensations, would find a sovereign remedy in the Golden Medical Discovery.

Those who are irritable, peevish, or fretful, ever seeing the gloomy side of life, who imagine "the time is out of joint," to whom life is a heavy burden, not a blessing, who think the whole world is arrayed against them, and anticipate calamity at every turn; to all such let this message be full of encouragement and joy—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will radically cure them, when it will be found, to their lasting benefit, that life and the world have not changed, but that disease had thrown clouds of misery and woe about them, through which all things were seen, as "through a glass darkly." Let no sufferer be discouraged because he or she has tried other medicines without benefit. In fact, these are the cases the World's Dispensary Medical Association particularly desire to reach through their "Golden Medical Discovery."

The Golden Medical Discovery is a prescription of a physician with a wide-awake reputation and an honorable position to maintain. It is in fact, a discovery. When others have failed, let this be the remedy, and no one will be doomed to further disappointment. The most astonishing claim yet made in behalf of electricity is that it has been proven possible to convey by its vibrations of light, so that it is practicable not only to speak with a distant friend, but to see him. According to the Otogo Times, Dr. Guiraud, of Victoria, has invented an apparatus, called by him the electroscope, which accomplishes this. The paper in question says that a public test of this instrument was made in Melbourne in the presence of some forty scientific and public men. "Sitting in a dark room, they saw projected on a large disk of white burnished metal the race-course at Flemington, with its myriad hosts of active beings. Each minute detail stood out with perfect fidelity to the original, and as they looked at the wonderful picture through binocular glasses it was difficult to imagine that they were not actually on the course itself, and moving among those whose actions they could so completely scan."

Dear When One Member of the Profession Testifies Regarding the Scientific Preparation of a Brother Member.

Dr. H. says: "For many years I have suffered, intensely at times, with what is generally called rheumatism. When first attacked I was confined to my bed and could not walk a step. I could not bear the weight of the bedclothes, and, according to the theory I favored, I always noticed that before these attacks came on my kidneys were affected. I before there would be any twain in my limbs or any swelling of joints or limbs, the color of the secretions from the kidneys would be very dark and the color strong and feverish. The last attack was very severe, about five years ago, and I was confined to the house several weeks, and was unable to attend to my business in three months. During the time I was confined at home I was given the most liberal medical treatment, but the best doctor that I could obtain, I do not get to work at the cause of the trouble, having been acquainted with the proprietor of Hunt's Remedy a long time I was induced by him to give it a trial, and after taking one bottle I found myself very much improved, and after taking the second I was feeling better than I had after any previous attack. During many months previous to taking the Remedy my hands and arms were very much swollen and stiff, every morning, my left side, in the region of stomach and spleen, was very lame and sensitive; at times I would be taken with severe cramps over the spleen, and be obliged to apply mustard or clove oil for temporary relief; I was very nervous and could not sleep; I was obliged to wear particular diet and my physical system was sadly deteriorated. Since I have taken Hunt's Remedy systematically all these things have ceased; I have no swollen hands or limbs, no pains or cramps, no spasms, no temporary relief; I was very nervous and could not sleep; I was obliged to wear particular diet and my physical system was sadly deteriorated.
