THAT COMMITTEE.

Now that the democratic represen-

Intives at Harrisburg have acknowledged their incapacity to legislate for the people by a proposition to delegate to a committee of ten citizens the work for which the extra session ly supported by evidence. "The inwas called there is nothing left for ternal revenues of one hundred and them to do but to resign and allow their employers-the people-to hire somebody else. The resolution certainly implies, if it means anything, that the democratic leaders in the House think the gentlemen named in the resolution would be able to apportion the State into Congressional and legislative districts. The democratic majority have been unable to do this work, although they have kept the legislature in session for two hundred and forty days at a cost to the people of over seven hundred thousand dellars. The people will naturally want to know why two hundred and fifty men are kept at Harrisburg to do the work which they 'acknowledge ten men could do better or why they should continue to pay their representatives while a committee of outsiders we have," said the gentleman," and all do. If ten men can frame apportionment hills better than two hundred and fifty, then why can they not frame all other bills necessary and do all legislating for the State as well? They might also do the work the Governer has shown himself incapable of doing, and thus save to the State another item of ten thousand dollars usuless expense. But our democratic statesman outstep their authority when they propose to name the men who shall compose this committee. Their acknowledged incapacity to do the work assigned them is very poor evidence of their ability to designate the men who can do it. The republican State, too, would have a chance at the resolution, and acting on the example of their democratic brethren in the House would doubtless amend it so as to make two-thirds of the committee republicans. For instance the republican Senators might amend by taking Charles R. Buckalew and A. H. Dill from the democratic end of the committee and putting in their places Philip C. Garrett and Henry M. Hoyt, and adding to the republican end Hon. Matthew S. Quay and Gen. Simon Cameron. The democrats in the House would of course kick against the republicans interfering with their sides of the committee and the result would be in the end a committee that could never agree on apportionment or anything else. This is probably the result aimed at by our democratic reformers, who think they can thus and color to the hair. Purchase only throw the blame for a perpetual extra session on the shoulders of the ten men who are to compose the proposed committee., The idea of referring the matter of apportionment to ten men may be a good one; we have certainly no reason to believe it could be any worse than the present arrangement. The Legislature, however, has not the right Hickory Township, the farm of the nor the power to name the men to late George Sibbald, ueceased; conwhom it shall be referred. Legislators mining about 96 acres. A first class have not the privilege of naming their own successors, and such this committee would be to all intents and purposes. If the statesmen at Harris. good repair. burg think the apportionment business should be referred to a committee of len, let them make provision for the election of such a committee and then adjourn. The people will do the rest. Let the nomination be open to all political parties; let the people have a vote, and we will guarantee our democratic friends a committee will be selected who will settle the apportionment question in a week. Certainly there could be no committee of ten selected who would be less fitted for the duty imposed than the democratic side of the present House,-

THE Republican State Committee has established its headquarters at the St. Cloud Hotel, Philadelphia, where active arrangements are making for the ensuing campaign.

VERMONT was pretty generally visited by severe frost during Monday night. The crops were bably damaged and other injury of a grievous nature found in the wake of the passage of the chilling, biting north wind. All northerners will agree that the summer of 1883 has been as remarkable for its brevity as for its storms and earthquakes.

"THE Government," a Southern journal of Democratic association in politics declares, "is more honestly served than private concerns, cities, counties or States." This is a sweeping statement, and yet it can be strongfifty millions," the same journal adds, "were collected last year without the loss of a single penny by defalcation. "Come here, I want to show you something," said a well known politician to a Democratic Senator in the Senate last night. Then the first mentioned led the Senator to the recess back of the President's chair, and directed his attention across the way to the Treasury department, where sat, hard at work over his books, at ten o'clock at night, Cashier Livsey, the Republican nominee for State Tressurer. "That's the kind of a candidate are doing the work they were sent to you people who are clamoring for civil service reform have a notable application in that gentleman's nomination.
