THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The Message of the President gives yout the usual showing as to the relaons of the United States with forign countries, notes the extension of plomatic intercourse with some with hom we have heretofore had none id the widening of the same with hers with (whom they have been ght. It is a subject of congratulaon that there are no complications kely to disturb our peace with any. e treats of the importance of our sheries, and recommends the creation 'a commission to examine and reort on the "whole subject. He disasses at some length the relations of osolute necessity of intimate relations ith that country, owing to the vast ne of frontier between us, reviews te complications in the South Ameran States, and hopes for the early shabilitation of Peru, sadly broken y the war with Chili. After going ver in considerable detail the quesons pending between us and other coples, he comes down to matters f more especial interest to ourselves, eing the internal affairs of the counry. Its finaucial affairs are in a resperous condition. He notes the xcess of receipts over expenditures, nd the necessity of reducing the first n the near future but declines to ecommend provision for sweeping eductions at this session of Congress. le rather prefers that the surplus hould be used in improving the conlition of the navy. He allubes to the probable early necessity for some new basis of the Natioal bank circulation ; ecommends the abolishment of all of he internal taxation except that on listilled spirits. Without very maerial reductions in the receipts of the freasury, it will become necessary sither to substitute some other form of currency for the natioal bank notes, or make important changes in the laws by which their government is now controlled. He approves the objections of the Socretary of the Treasury, to the acceptance of any other securities as the basis of circulation than those of Government itself. He recommends that the trade dollar be received at the mints as bullion at a small advance over the current mar-

Among the other troubles threatening "Veto Bob," as a consequence of his ground and lofty tumbling, the Legislature by vetoing his veto yes-terday saved him from a visitation of angry scrub women. For four mouths and more, these poor women have been working without any part of scribed real estate to-wit: their paltry pay, except such advances as the chief clerk of the Senate and the librarian could afford to make | torney. out of their own resources, narrowed by the cutting off of the appropriations for these expenses by the veto of the former appropriation bill, and when they learned yesterday morning that the new bill was vetoed, they held an indignation meeting, and resolved to wait on him in a body this morning if the bill failed of passage over his head. Of course, the new Andy Joenson will not thank the Legislature for getting him out of the scrape; but he ought to. Think of some seventy-five or eighty poor women, with their toes out and be dragte United States and Mexico and the gled skirts, and brooms in their hands appearing to the esthetic ex-recorder, all talking at once and brandishing their weapons. What a glorious finale it would have been, to be sure, to this first year of this administration.-Harrisbury Telegraph.

"THANK God for the opportunity to knife the Pennsylvania iron men!" shouts Frank Hurd, the notorious free-trader. And all the rebel brigadiers give the same old rebel yell, and shout : "Yon 'uns is right, sab, fo' a fact."

A CHANGE of venue . was granted in the Nutt case last week, and the trial will now take place in Allegheny county. Out of eighty or more names only three jurors were found. The change is said to be for Nutt's good.

LIFE'S LABORS.

Either a Source of Pain or Happiness.

What a great thing it is to live and to do good to others! How few there are who appreciate their blessed opportunities, and improve them accordingly. Life means earnestness, and active work. One should love his lffe work, and labor intelligently with some good end in view. Each day should see some noble action performed, and its evening find each traveler one day's journey near home. He should enter upon the race with a brave heart, and keep up his courage until the end. Yet how many there are who fail in this world either through laziness, inattention or ill health. An unwell man or woman can never love life or its work. At heart they cannot do as much as the one possessed of a daring soul and a healthy body, who loves his work. This was true of Mr. J. W. Reynolds, of New Lisbon, Columbiana county, Ohio. Through hard and incessant toll, and close application in business, his health had become greatly impaired. He had become a confirmed invalid, and the general debility of his system was alarming. He could not sleep well; nor could he work. A friend recommended that he would try the famous Peruna. At first no great change was noticeable, but he persevered. He took eight bottles, and as a result was completely restored to his former vigor and strength. He says he now feels like a new man, and is daily seen about the streets of his city. He enjoys the best of health, and says it is all owing to Peruna. He loves his labor, and takes pride in his work, and is un-ceasing in his praise of the great remedy which restored him.

He treats of the navy at length, and urges the neccessity of its complete rehabilitation. He also urges upon the attention of Congress the wisdom of the completion of the coast defense, and, as part of the system, of the opening of internal water ways across the pecinsula of Florida, up the coast from Herida, to Hampton Roads, between the Chesapeake and Delaware bays, and across Cape Cod. He discusses postoffice matters at length. Approves the reduction of local postage to one cent, but declines to approve the Postmaster General's recommendations as to the postal telegraph system. After discussing the law department, agricultural interests, public domains and civil service reform he calls particular attention to the wisdom of providing some more definite regulation of the Presidential succession.

A VERY curious effect of the election of an avowed free trader to the Speakership for the avowed reason that he is an avowed free-trader, is that it has set all the Democratic papersin Pennsylvania to proving that he is not a free trader at all.
