John followed har every movement. Then the child was asleep, and she was leaving the room. He stood before her, all his scal in his face. "You will come back, Elizabeth? I want to speak to you." It was the first time he had ever called her Elizabeth. She knew what he wanted to siy, and yet she answered, almost in-a whisper, "I will come back." He was awalting her return with the greatest impatience. Now that he wanted no longer withhold speech, he was emper for his oppartunity. He met her as also entered and drawing her passionately toward him, said: "Oh, Elizabeth, you must not leave me now. I have loved you, darling, loved you and sought you, for eleven years." "Oh, John, I love you, too! But you must know the truth: I have loved some one else the greater part of those eleven years—some one who hasely won my childish heart, and then left me to such hopeless clinery as makes me tremble yet
