BLAINE AND LOGAN!

HURRAH FOR BLAINE! HURRAH FOR LOGAN!

The great Chicago Convention closed its grand work on Friday evening last, and the result has set the country wild with enthusiasm. The nomination of that grandest of all American statesmen, James G. Blaine has satisfied more Republicans than the nomination of any other man could have done. Four-fifths of the Republicans of the United States have been clamorous for the nomination of Blaine ever since the convention of 1876, and the reason is plain. More than any other one man in the country, Mr. Blaine is the embodiment of the purpose, the courage, the determination, of the Republican masses. In his nomination the party has spoken its honest determination, that the revolution began by the victory over rebellion shall not recede. His record in public life is a guarantee that that purpose will be pressed with the vigor and clear cut resolution, that hesitates at no obstacle but pushes on to its conclusion regardless of opposition. The name of James G. Blaine will fire the heart of Republicans every where as none other could. From every town and city of the United States comes the cheering news of ratification meetings such as were never heard before. Cannon roaring, bon-fires looming, people cheering themselves hoarse, and Democrats hanging their heads with gloom and disappointment.

Of the nomination of Vice President the Philadelphia Press truly says: The nomination of John A. Logan for Vice-President, rounds out to grand proportions the ticket so grandly led by Blaine. Patriot, congressman, soldier, senator, and always bold, brave and aggressive, John A. Logan's name is inseparably associated with the history of the heroic period of the Republican party; and his appearance at the front of the campaign of 1884 will be a bugle call to the impulses which found their fruition in a reconstructed union and an emancipated republic. It is a happy circumstance and one full of good omen that the two states which put forth the ticket which lifted the Republican party to power in 1860, are again to be front in 1884, with the order of honors reversed, it is true, but with a combination worthy in all true senses of the succession to Lincoln and Hamilton.

The triumphant election of this grand, glorious ticket in November is beyond a doubt. Thousands of Democrats will rally to its standard; and Republicans will travel from one end of the continent to the other to vote for that grand pair, Blaine and Logan.

The democratic papers will now proceed to stir up their guano stories and resurrect the Mulligan epistles. While about it they might also prepare a few Morey letters.—Blizzard. There isn't any doubt but that all the Democratic gutter-snipes in the country will be at it, the same as when Garfield ran.

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

As will be seen by the returns published in this issue a rousing vote was polled at the Republican Primary Election on Saturday last. The Return Judges met in Convention at the Court House yesterday afternoon to canvass the vote, when it appeared that every voting precinct was represented. The Convention was called to order and presided over by Chairman Irwin, with P. M. Clark and J. F. Proper Secretaries. Everything passed off quietly and harmoniously, there not being a discordant voice raised. The next thing in order after votes were counted and the result declared, was the election of a chairman of the County Committee. C. A. Randall and S. D. Irwin were placed in nomination; ballot was had which resulted, Randall 9, Irwin 6. The convention then adjourned after three rousing cheers for Blaine, Logan and the whole ticket.

The ticket as nominated is a first-class one in all respects, and did time permit we would single it out and speak of each individual on the ticket separately, but shall take pleasure in giving a review in our next. Suffice it to say, that we predict its triumphant election in the November by a large majority. The candidates nominated received decisive majorities, and as every man came squarely before the people, worked up their individual cases in a straight forward way there ought to be no cause for complaints. As is usual in primary elections there may be some soreness left just at present; it would be a strange thing if there wasn't, as those things may always be looked for, but where the will of the people is so clearly expressed, and where all have the right to work for their friends, all defeated ones should accept the situation the same as they would have others to do had they been the successful ones, and we have every reason to believe they will.

It was a surprise to many to see so many votes polled. It hadn't ought to be, and the reasons are plain: It shows, in the first place a large natural increase of Republican votes; secondly, that the nomination of Blaine has enthused many of the indifferent voters, and thirdly, that scores of voters, disgusted with the machinations of a few who set themselves up as party bosses, have flocked to our ranks where such a wholesale system of bossism has never been and can never be inaugurated; where every candidate has the right to announce his name before the public and take his chances with the rest. This we believe to be one of the main reasons why our vote received such a magnificent increase. Of course our opponents are now and will be around assigning all sorts of reasons, and try to create dissensions in our ranks; that is to be expected. No good Republican would be happy if he didn't see more or less of this kind of work going on, and it is one thing that will strengthen our ranks, so we say to them "go in, if it affords you any comfort; you can't affect us."

The winning ticket is in the field, gentlemen, and it behooves all loyal voters to take off their dry goods and work for its success. With that glorious statesman, James G. Blaine, and that every gallant soldier, John A. Logan to lead us, who wouldn't enlist under the glorious banner on which is inscribed in bold relief, "Victory!" Hurrah for Blaine, Logan and all on the ticket.

SINCE the fusion dogs of the Commonwealth and Democrat did no biting last week—only barked—it would be cruel for us to kick them this time. A "thing" that dare not call his puny soul his own, and that has never risen above the dignity (?) of doing the dirty work and playing the tool for Kepler has no claim on the attention of a respectable editor anyway. For the present we will allow these curs to crawl into their holes and brood over the magnificent vote of the Republican primaries last Saturday. That will furnish them food for reflection for some time to come, and will show them that the people are fully awake to the deep laid scheme of the ring-leaders of their parties. The stunning rebuke must be humiliating indeed.

The Republican primaries occur next Saturday. They are making an effort to poll a large vote and thereby make a big showing.—Commonwealth. Well, how do you like the showing? Isn't it a daisy? The trouble is, it don't leave any show for you.

The Republican Platform.

The platform adopted by the Republican Convention at Chicago yesterday is a well considered, comprehensive statement of the position of the Republican party on the live issues now before the country. Of the past it has little to say. The record is made and the people can judge it for themselves. What policy the party will pursue in the future and what its endorsement by the people would mean are practical living issues, and to these the Convention very wisely addressed and confined itself.

First and foremost is the great ruling question on which, before all others, issue will be joined between the parties, and for a decision of which they put themselves upon the country. On the ground that the largest diversity of industry is most productive of general prosperity and of the comfort and independence of the people, the Republicans demand that "the imposition of duties on foreign imports shall be made, not for 'revenue only,' but that, in raising the requisite revenues for the Government, such duties shall be so levied as to afford security to our diversified industries and protection to the rights and wages of the laborer." No incidental Protection or other uncertain sound about this, but Protection pure and simple to the end that "active and intelligent labor, as well as capital, may have its just reward, and the laboring man his full share in the national prosperity."

The process of horizontal reduction is condemned as vicious and indiscriminate, while the Republican party is pledged to correct the inequalities of the tariff and reduce the surplus by "such methods as will relieve the taxpayers without injury to the great productive interests of the country." The restoration of the duty on wool is promised. * * * * * The platform on the whole is a strong and admirable presentation of Republican doctrine. The party can well afford to go before the country as the aggressive and uncompromising champion of the principles yesterday enunciated, and, with Mr. Blaine as its chief standard bearer, the man who represents these principles more perfectly and completely than any other, the Republican party may count with confidence on an overwhelming verdict in its favor next November.—Phila. Press.

A SPECIAL to the Pittsburgh Commonwealth from Kittanning is very significant, and indicates about the feeling all over the country: "Everybody seems to be in ecstasies about James G. Blaine's nomination. The feeling is universal and J. E. O'Shea, Chairman of the County Greenback Executive Committee, has publicly announced his determination to resign his position and vote for Blaine. The citizens will hold a rousing ratification meeting this evening. The leading Democrats seem very much depressed and act as men without hope."

D. LANCELL'S ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY. Having struggled 29 years between life and death with Asthma or Phthisis, treated by eminent physicians, and receiving no benefit, I was compelled during the last five years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath; my suffering was beyond description. Publish this for the benefit of the afflicted." C. S. Clark, Wakarusa, O., writes: "I certainly believe your remedy to be the best Asthma and Catarrh cure in the world. I have tried everything else, and all failed but yours. I wish you worlds success." C. A. Hall, Bashaw, Wis., writes: "I received your trial package and find it invaluable, doing just what you claim for it. It is truly a God-send to humanity. No one can afford to do without it, who is suffering with Asthma or Catarrh.
