—Rev. Hicks will occupy the pulpit of the M. E. Church next Sunday evening, at 7:30.

—Presbyterian Sabbath School at 12:30 p. m.; M. E. Sabbath School at 10 a. m.

—These are the dog days. —Adjourned court to-day.

—Dr. Steadman has returned to Tionesta.

—Chestnuts promise an abundant crop this season.

—What's the reason with the Tionesta base ball club.

—Tom Corah of bustling Balltown was in town yesterday.

—The oil market is laboriously climbing up a little these days.

—Oil market closed yesterday at 72c. Opened this morning at 72c.

—Fruit Cans and Sealing Wax in abundance at H. J. Hopkins & Co's.

—The blackberry campaign will soon take shape. It's said they'll be plenty.

—Frank Whittekin is farming it these fine days at his mother's homestead near Lineville, Pa.

—The young folks of town enjoyed another pleasant dancing party at Partridge Hall Friday night last.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Clark departed for Macksburg, Ohio, last Saturday, to be gone a couple of weeks.

—The REPUBLICAN acknowledges a pleasant visit yesterday morning from Rev. F. M. Small, of Fagundus.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Southworth, of Newtown, visited Tionesta last Wednesday, and made our office a pleasant call.

—The REPUBLICAN office is receiving a coat of paint at the hands of Artist Dault, and the expense of Smearbaugh & Co.

—Capt. Knex is clearing off a piece of land on the hill back of town and proposes to furnish the burg with fire-wood this winter.

—Geo. Hunter has several acres of buckwheat on the island in full blossom, and expects to have fresh buckwheat flour by the last of August.

—Yesterday's rain was a welcome one to the farmers, who have been kept back with their plowing for fall grain on account of the dryness of the soil.

—Another excursion from Oil City to Glade last Sunday. The dreuching rain in the morning deterred a good many from taking passage at this place.

—Anthony Walters has a nice garden on the old Tionesta House ground, from which he supplies a good many tables with fresh vegetables, cheap for cash.

—National Guard of Pa., will go into camp next week at Gettysburg. Henry Shoemaker of this place, a member of the Oil City Gray, departed on Monday evening.

—Excavating for the basement of the new school house has begun. The contract stipulates that the building must be finished within five months, which will be about December 10th.

—The Council Run oil well is down, or ought to be by this time, about 700 feet. Nothing definite has yet developed itself, but all the signs have been favorable thus far. A pretty strong gas vein has been struck, we learn. Should they succeed in getting a good gas well thus near the town, we don't know but the owners would be fully as well repaid as though they should get a 15 barrel well.

—Hatching and other bird cages received at Wm. Smearbaugh & Co's.

—Mr. G. Wilmot Walker has arranged to give a concert at the Tidoute Opera House next Friday evening. He will be assisted by local talent of that place, and has a well arranged program for the occasion.

—A team belonging to W. W. Thomas backed over the bank near the creek bridge last Friday, smashing the wagon, which was loaded with lumber, into smithereens. No serious damage was done to the horse.

—"Golden Days" for August is issued, and is received with the usual welcome by its many admiring readers. Subscribe for it and make the young folks of your household happy.

Balltown Etchings.

Mr. Henry Chadwick's new livery sign helps the looks of Front street considerably.

Miss Mins Berry has returned from Buffalo, where she has been visiting her sick niece, whom she left much better.

Mr. Mattocks intends removing his family to Erie in the near future. Jack we are sorry to see you go!

Mr. J. B. Agnew and wife and Mr. D. W. Agnew and wife of Tionesta, were the guests of Mr. L. Agnew's family last week.

Mr. A. Wiese and son, and Mr. Glendening, of Pittsburgh, have been in town for the past few days.

Mrs. Ed. Sanner of Bobbs Creek, formerly a resident of Tionesta, has been very ill, but at present writing is much better.

We humbly ask the pardon of the public for a mistake made in last week's letter. We made the assertion that Mr. Hank Chadwick had opened a livery stable here; that is all a mistake; it was not "Hank" Chadwick at all, but Mr. Henry Chadwick.

Will the gentleman in question please accept our apologies?

A stranger in town might have been surprised, Friday evening, at seeing so many ladies flying around town in carriages with their drivers.

But had he taken pains to inquire, would have been informed the ladies were having a Leap Year party. The gentlemen report that they were highly entertained, and the ladies know how to play their part.

Balltown, July 28, 1884.

Making Meal.

The following narrative, told by the Oil City Blizzard, will be appreciated by the first settlers of this section, who have endured some of the same hardships and inconveniences mentioned:

"The early settlers of this section labored under many disadvantages, not the least of which was experienced in procuring corn meal and flour. Some of them lived a long distance from the mills and it sometimes became necessary to pound up the corn by hand.

This was necessarily a slow and tedious process. One ingeniously inclined individual finally set to work to make a contrivance for milling by water power.

First he hollowed out a basin in a large rock. Then he put up a pole, something after the manner in which a walking beam is suspended. It very closely resembled the old fashioned "well sweep."

On one end was the pounder, while the other end was attached to a water wheel. The whole thing was so arranged that when he went to bed he could put a few bushels of corn in the stone, turn on the water and find a good stock of corn meal in the morning.

"One evening he arranged the machine and put it to work. During the night his flock of sheep escaped from the enclosure where they were kept and being in the vicinity of the mill, of course commenced sampling the corn.

As fast as one would stick his head into the mill of course the pounder would descend on it and knock him silly. When the farmer awoke in the morning he found thirteen of the sheep lying around the stone, cold in death, while the contents of the "mill" presented a startling combination of meal, blood, wool, etc."
