The blackberry crop is not the bountiful harvest of 'ye olden time'. In some places berries are middling plenty, but generally the crop will not rate higher than middling. The late Spring frosts and the dry weather of the Summer have been the causes.

Potatoes promise a good crop. There is some slight show of rot.

The citizens of our town and vicinity were awakened-as many of them as were asleep-about midnight of Wednesday, by a terrible explosion that shook some of the houses and caused the glass to rattle in the window sashes. Some think it was the bursting of a meteor, as such a phenomenon some years ago occurred here, while others, more properly it seems to your scribe, attribute the cause to the explosion of a quantity of dynamite by some person for some cause not evident.

AN EPISODE OF YE BLACKBERRY WOODS.

The scene is laid in the edge of the big windfall where the Marienville road crosses Cherry Creek and just below said road. A party headed by our friends Jackson and William and among which there are two "small boys"-the untamed evils of existence -are jogging themselves and tearing their clothes in semi-successful attempt to secure the luscious fruit of the bramble, the while the woods are ringing with sounds from the throats of these same parties rhythmical and somewhat musical. By and by the breaking as of a large limb and a crashing through the bushes. They consult. They hiss the dog. The dog dashes into the jungle and sets up a furious barking. There is more crashing of brush, and in the imagination of the boys the sound assumes tangible and fearful form. Danger appalling lurks amongst the fruit-burdened vines. A chorus of voices calling for aid arose from the bushes and went echoing and re-echoing far and wide. "Bill, Bill, Jack, Jack, come; ry! Bi-Ja-Til-a big-hurry-Balltown has been considered a up!!
