One little incident was noticed which was calculated to strike an outsider as rather odd, and which shows that even so great a friend and champion of the laboring men as the Bold Benjamin pretends to be, is likely to forget his role: When passing the Oil Exchange, where the brokers and millionaires came out to salute him, the General raised his hat in recognition of the honor; but a few rods further up the street, when a score of horny-handed sons of toil stopped their work and came out with sleeves rolled up and cheered him lustily, he never so much as raised the lid of his left eye; and ner. keenly. The General boarded his palace car for Pittsburgh shortly after three o'clock.

Triumph Tattle.

Chestnuts are plenty in the woods surrounding our quiet villiage, and every one, from the school urchin up to the one who has to take his "cooked," is busy gathering and cronching. On Friday evening we had the pleasure of hearing a brilliant speech by C. W. Mackey, and some excellent music rendered by the Hickory Cornet Band. Hickory may well feel proud of her boys; though, so to speak, just recently organized, their music is first-class.

On Saturday evening the South Hickory martial band furnished the music for the Democratic meeting, with James Burns at the head. This band did as usual, acquit themselves with honor, winning the respect and many compliments from the citizens of Tidioute.

Maud Swalley, whose accident it will be remembered was chronicled a few weeks since, is again able to attend school.

Mr. Peter Berry with his pleasant smile and kind word to every one passed through here a few days since.

Our modern Babylon, like the Babylen of old, is nearly a thing of the past. The school has consolidated with the Triumph school.

The other day, during one of my usual wanderings in search of chestnuts, apples,&c., I happened into the stock-yard of Hill & Allen, and there saw some of the finest specimens for the slaughter house I ever had the pleasure of seeing. Two yearlings which they had just brought in from Neilltown weighed respectively 960 and 1140 pounds. These are specimens of the many this company disposes of, and the patrons rest assured that they do not get meat dealt out to them that will kick after a day's

The gentleman, closed with a strong appeal to the workingmen to vote the Republican for Mr. Berry he arouse and made a fifteen minute's speech which was well received. After Mr. Berry had taken his seat, Mr. Agnew was called on to address the meeting; the gentleman remarked that owing to the lateness of the hour, and also to the fact that the other speakers had gone over the ground so carefully that there was nothing left for him to say, he would refrain from talking at present. Three rousing cheers were then given for the visiting candidates, after which the meeting adjourned.

BLAINE boldly declaring his principles and bearing them aloft as the supreme issue of this canvass and Cleveland timid, silent and afraid to express his opinion, present a contrast which must strike the public mind with tremendous force. It is bravery against cowardice, intelligence against stupidity, honesty against hypocrisy and ideas against idiocy.

IT is proposed that William C. Whitney shall run for mayor of New York against John Kelly's man. William won't run; This would be a bad year for him. Tammany is on the war path; the cheis have paint on their faces and the little tomahawks in their hands. No, William won't run.

What a refreshing thing it would be if our deductive statisticans would try the effect of a little plain truth after they have made their deductions from facts falsely stated. Instance: They are making a great parade of sympathy for the workingman, because he depression of the times has forced a ten per cent reduction in the wages of iron workers. Suppose they add the following truths: First the depression was caused by the Democratic attack upon protection in Congress the last session, and the dread that their party might succeed in electing a President. Second, even with this ten per cent off, the wages in this country are double what they are in England. Third, if they succeed in electing a President they will continue the de-pression, and if they have the power will not stop until wages in this country are seduced to the level of those in England.
