THE FOREST COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

At 2 o'clock P. M. Sept. 3d, at the Presbyterian Church in Tionesta, the third Annual Meeting of the Forest Co., S. S. Association was called to order by the President, A. B. Kelly.

Singing. Bible reading. Prayer. The President, A. B. Kelly, in well chosen words, extended to the delegates a welcome. Rev. S. E. Ryan of Fagundus responded in an able address holding out aright.

Reading Minutes of and their adoption. Reports from delegates.

E. Harvey of Oil City sang, "It is Well with My Soul."

"The Object of S. S. Conventions;" opened by J. E. Hillard, Secretary. Some of the points from the discussion of this question are: The S. S. Convention increases interest in S. S. work by emphasizing the idea of personal effort; united, intelligent action; we are encouraged in our works by knowing that others are working in the same field, under the same difficulties, for the same ends, stimulated by the same incentives; by affording opcie Turner, Maggie Waddell, Pearly portunity for counsel; the fact that a cause is of sufficient importance to call together in convention the persons engaged Edwin Lithgow, Theodore Lithgow, in that work for the purpose of conference

MORRING SESSION, Sept. 4th. President in chair, Singing, Bible ad, Prayer,

Minutes read and approved. T. J. VanGieson freing absent G. G. Butterfield opened the discussian of question, God's Call to Children. He said that we the belief, that God does call the children, and that thirty years from to-day the church with all its responsibilities will be resting upon the shoulders of the children of to-day, and that the moral training of the children is the basis of our future nacalls us early, and that it is the duty of the church to have a care that this call is heard and understood, and helped to be obeyed. God calls us all early in life, Other members of the Convention said : God's call is adapted to the understanding of the one called. The lives of nearly all our great men disclosed the fact that in early life S. S. training has had an influence in shaping and fitting their lives. The question, How should the tobacco question be treated in the S. S., was discussed with considerable fervency. By precept and example, said the Convention, let your influence be against tobacco. speak of it as a filthy, slovenly, expensive, dangerous habit. Let love of the child's welfare be the prime motive. Speak of it as you would of any other

The discussion of the question, How to Manage a Wayward S. S. scholar, was opened by Mr. Dingman. By the exercise of a knowledge of human pature and a use of the right means of getting on the winning side of human nature. Make the S. S. attractive, and that the pupil will love, admire, and respect. Adjournment. AFTERNOON SESSION.

Singing, bible read, prayer, singing.

An election of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following results: President, J. H. Dingman; Secretary, J. E. Hillard; Treasurer, A. B. Kelly. Rev. Small introduced an amendment to the Constitution, which being amended so as finally to read, "That the Constitution be so amended that there be included in the Executive Committee the President. Secretary and Treasurer of the Association, and the members of the Program Committee, and that any three members of the Executive Committee thus composed shall constitute a quorum to do business," Carried.

A Committee on Program was elected, consisting of Messrs. Ritchey, Morrow, and Gillespie.

Dr. Towler not being present to open the discussion on S. S. Literature, W. Y. Siggins opened the question. He was followed by other members. Mrs. Bromley read an excellent paper, brief, but right to the point, on the subject. "There has been an improvement in S. S. literature,' said one of the speakers, "Papers are better than books, because cheaper, better adapted to the end to be secured, and more closely read." "Each sectarian the importance of starting the children school should use its own church publications," said another, "Unless for the gravest of reasons " The Convention to be strongly in favor of papers though not objecting to good books.

The Convention next discussed The Re lation of the S. S. to Temperance, Dr. lation of the S. S. to Temperance. Dr. Morrow opened the discussion by reading a good paper on the subject. One member thought the same relation it bears to any other evil, which seemed to be the sentiment of the Convention, qualified by the sentiment as well that it is the great evil of the hour. Some of the members thought that temperance should first be taught at home, but not neglected in S S. and that each class should be organized into a Cold Water Seciety to drink not even eider.

Singing. Class drill conducted by Mr. Ritchey who did it excellently. Adjourn-

S. teacher should possess ability and a good character. The end of the S. S. is the conversion of souls, and he who has religion teaches it best. We are made better more by what we see and feel than by what we simply understand. The differences in men come from development. Some men can be driven; most men must be led. The teacher should be a leader. In the children we see ourselves as we were, and are stimulated to lead these children to better things than we have attained to.

S. D. Irwin read an excellent written address. We note some points: The best days of one's life are those of the time when we are living for others. True worth always labors.
