WASHINGTON LET	TER.

From our regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31, '85. First Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson has been very busy since his return from the West. His office is the mecca about which the political pilgrims gather for solace. His desk is piled up with papers concerning the fourth-class post offices so high that he is almost hid, and his room is crowded continually. Thus far there have been about 7,500 fourth-class offices filled, leaving 44,000 yet to deal with. Of the presidential offices about 550 have been filled and about 1,800 are left.

Treasurer Jordan is going to make a savage attack upon the Bland silver dollar in his annual report. He has about half a dozen clerks hard at work collecting matter for the report now, and he is himself at work night and day. He is going over all the old records, and is having a document compiled, showing how much it has cost the government annually for the transportation of silver. The figures mount up astoundingly. He is accumulating many other facts detrimental to the daddy dollar with which he expects to surprise Congress, and he will sum up the whole with an exhaustive argument to prove it impracticable as currency and detrimental to the financial welfare of the country.

The correspondence accompanying Judge Thoman's resignation as a member of the civil service commission is not very effusive on the President's part. The resignation is accepted and is to take effect at once. Mr. Eaton's place also becomes vacant in a few days, so that there must be an immemediate reorganization of the commission. Dr. Gregory will stay awhile to induct the new members into their functions, but he, too, will leave the service when this duty has been performed.

It has been said that the President will find difficulty in getting acceptable men to fill the vacancies, but such a claim is born of a wish to see the failure of the commission and has no substantial basis in fact. At the proper time the names will be announced, and it is not likely that they will prove to be culled from among the small group to which it is said the choice is restricted. The positions to he filled are among the most honorable in the public service and the President will not be unable to find good men to take them. At the conference Tuesday afternoon between Secretary Whitney, the assignees of John Roach, and the members of the advisory board, the Secretary called for a report from the assignees concerning the organization of the yards where the work is to be Judge Proper gets there Nothwithdone, the compensation of the workmen, etc. This report will be made in a few days, and the order to proceed with the work will probably then be given. The accounting officers of the Treasnry department have consented to de-amount expended by Admiral Jouett in entertaining visitors to the Tennessee at the New Orleans exposition, according to the decision of the second The amount in question is only $400, but it is desired to have some definite this morning, said he knew nothing give the official vote in the county. on the subject, as it was in the hands of the Secretary, but he was satisfied that Congress would have something to say about it this winter. He added "I have yet to find the man in the United States who is not opposed to a position in which naval officers are placed when brought into relations with naval representatives of foreign oountries." OVER 30,000 MAJOR-ITY FOR HIM.

THAT SAME OLD COON ! COMES UP SMILING! York State Close with the Democrats in the Lead! OTHER STATES.

The news from Pennsylvania is grand. The old Keystone rolls up over 30,000 majority for State Treasurer, Matthew S. Quay. This is a gain of more than 10,000 over the vote on State Treasurer two years ago, and is a most glorious victory. NEW YORK.

The news from New York would indicate that Hill, Democrat, was elected Governor by a small majority. These claims all come from a Democratic source, and consequently are not strictly reliable.

VIRGINIA. The indications are that the Democrats have as usual carried Virginia, but by a greatly reduced majority-Fitzbugh Lee, of very unsavory memory, will domineer the State in the Governor's chair.

MASSACHUSETTS. Massachusetts remains loyal to the Republicans, electing her Governor by 18,000 majority.

Death of General McClellan.

Major General George B. McClellan died at his home in Orange, N. J. ou the morning of Oct. 29, at 2 o'clock, of neuralgia of the heart, after a very brief illness,

General G. B. McClellan was born in Philadelphia, December 3, 1826, being the third child of Dr. George McClellan. After a short private course of study he was sent to the University of Pennsylvania. In 1842 he entered the military academy at West Point, and whilst there was most proficient in his studies. He graduated in 1846. He entered the United States service as second lieutenant ; in September of the same year was sent to Mexico and remained there until 1848. Upon his return he was stationed at West Point. In 1855 Mc-Clellan was sent by the United States government to the Crimen to observe and study the tactics of that great campaign. In 1859 he resigned his commission in the army. Upon the outbreak of the "late unpleasantness" he was one of the first to respond to the call for troops, his first command being in West Virginia. In July 1861 he was called to Washington, and there began to drill and instruct the raw troops. In 1862 he conducted the celebrated peninsular campaign and advanced to a position before Richmond, but in 1863 was compelled to retreat from before that city. This movement, conducted as it was in the face of a superior force, was executed in the most masterly manner. In August 1862 he was practically relieved of his command by the withdrawal of the most of his troops; then came the battle of Bull Run, August 30, 1862, in which the union forces were almost annihilated. The result of this battle was to place McClellan again in command and he distinguished himself by the success at South Mountain and Antietam. On November 5th, 1862, iu consequence of difficulties between himself and the government, he was relieved of his command and ordered to report at Trenton. He received the democratic nomination for the presidency in 1864, but carried only the states of New Jersey, Kentucky and Delaware. Upon the day of the election he resigned his position in the army and soon after made an extended tour of Europe. Upon his return he engaged in various engineering enterprises, and wrote several books on engineering and military matters. He was elected governor of New Jersey and served for one term.

standing the National's Lies.

The result in Forest county on the State ticket couldn't be improved on, and on the county ticket it was uncomfortably close yet the Republicans win a signal victory. It was a campaign of mud-slinging on the part of the Forest National, against a decent and honorable canvass on the part of Republicans in which the former came out as usual-covered with mud withcontroller, until the matter has been out the slightest glory. After awhile brought to the attention of Congress. that editor ought to learn, if his skull is not too thick, that when he wants to best a man for office he should action taken which may serve as a champion his cause.
