LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Condensed Time Table Tionesta Station.

Table with columns for NORTH and SOUTH directions, listing train numbers and times.

—Preaching in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning and evening, by Rev. Hickling.

—Preaching in the M. E. Church next Sunday evening by F. M. Small.

—Presbyterian Sabbath School at 9:45 a. m.; M. E. Sabbath School at 10 a. m.

—The roads every where are simply awful just now.

—To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bonner a daughter was born on Sunday night last.

—Christmas five weeks from next Friday. Now's your time to plant holiday advertisements.

—The Hunter Sifter Mfg. Co. want a live, active agent in every county in the U. S. See their ad. in this issue.

—Mr. D. W. Clark departed Monday on a trip to Macksburg, Ohio, to look after his business there for a few days.

—Parties ordering nursery stock of G. W. Osgood will have it delivered at their residence at the company's own risk. This is a special advantage to farmers and others.

—Hon. N. P. Wheeler paid us a pleasant call on Saturday last. Although now a resident of Tidouche, Mr. Wheeler spends about four-fifths of his time in Forest county.

—Mrs. Allison, wife of Dr. F. E. Allison, died at her home at East Hickory Saturday night last. She had been very ill for a considerable length of time preceding her death.

—The wife of Mr. H. E. Smith and two of his children have been confined for several days with malarial fever, but are now improving slowly and will recover unless taken with a bacset.

—The F. M. Church at Hickory is holding a revival under the ministrations of Rev. Sager. The meetings have been in progress nearly two weeks. The seekers already number eight or more.

—Our young friend Charlie Partridge, we are sorry to learn, is suffering a serious attack of asthma. We hope his ailment may take a turn for the better and that we may see him out again soon.

—Thanksgiving one week from tomorrow. We've got the bread, pepper, salt, sage, etc., and will hustle around for the cranberry sauce, now who'll furnish the turkey? One hand up at a time, please.

—The little skiff of snow started about 15 of our local Nimrods out on the hills last Monday morning, but they all got back safely in the evening without being run down by anything in the shape of a deer.

—A suit to test the constitutionality of the revenue bill, by which every citizen in this State must make a sworn statement of his personal property subject to taxation, is being tried in Pittsburg.—Clarion Jacksonian.

—Ben. W. May of Chicago spent a few days of last week with his mother, returning to the Western metropolis on Saturday. He was looking exceedingly well. Geo. Park accompanied him on his return and will remain his guest for a few days.

—Mr. A. J. Heibel was down from Warren and spent the Sabbath with his brother Ed. Dolph is engaged in cigar manufacturing and turns out the finest goods to be had in the market. We hope our dealers will "catch onto" his cigars and keep them in stock.

—Some pretty bad things have been said of old Boss Buck, the noted counterfeiter, but the climax is reached when some of our exchanges try to palm off cuts that would damage the reputation of an escaped lunatic, for a correct likeness of the keen old con-acker.

—The Franklin Evening News has spread itself considerably within the past week. The columns have been lengthened and four more added, making it longer up-and-down and wider-out, and handsome new body type has taken place of the old. This swelling-out was made necessary on account of the increasing demand for advertising space, an evidence of prosperity which it does us good to note in our delightful exchange.

—The friends and acquaintances in this section of Mr. Will Corwell, will be grieved to learn of the death of his wife on the 25th ult., at her home in Morgan, Texas, where Mr. C. had located for the benefit of his health. The cause of her death was puerperal fever.

—A petition is being numerously signed asking the Council to clean up and abate some of the nuisances in the shape of open sewers, ditches, and veritable frog ponds, that exist along the principal streets of the town. Although a trifle late for such work it had perhaps better be done late than never.

—The portable part of Mr. Carpenter's late photo gallery has been moved to a lot just below 'Gus Carson's' jewelry store, by Moses Hepler. The rear of the defunct gallery was yesterday yanked off its pins and snailed up Hiland St. a short distance, where it will be attached to Eagles' livery stable and serve as an office.

—Dr. Jas. B. Siggins of Tidouche has become a citizen among us. He is moving his drug store to this place and for the present will occupy a part of R. M. Herman's store, and will attend all professional calls made upon him in the future. The Doctor has built up a good reputation as a physician and as to his citizenship there's no question.

—Eli Strain lost one of his finest team horses one day last week while attempting to ford the creek near the "big eddy." The noble beast seems to have become weary before reaching the shore and laid down for a rest; before Eli could "get there," as it were, and extricate the horse he had died, either from strangulation or old age, our informant couldn't tell which.

—By an act of the Legislature, approved by Governor Pattison July 3, 1885, the pay of witnesses in all civil and criminal cases before Justices of the Peace and Aldermen in this Commonwealth is fixed at fifty cents per day for each day they are necessarily in attendance and three cents mileage traveled in going to and returning from the magistrate's office from which the subpoena issues.—Ex.

—The following from the Clarion Jacksonian might be applied to more places than Clarion: Diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, putrid sore throat, and other malarial diseases are reported from every section of the town, and still the open drains vomit forth their death-dealing poison. Will nothing arouse our citizens to a sense of their duty to themselves and their families? Who will dare to deny that a system of drainage is absolutely necessary, and who will declare themselves so wedded to the almighty dollar as to allow it to weigh against health and precious lives?

—James Q. Sweeney, a prominent young lawyer of this city, died last night of heart disease. His death was rather sudden, as he was in his office doing business on Saturday. He was only 35 years of age and gave promise of becoming one of Pittsburgh's leading lawyers. He was born in Westmoreland county near Latrobe and was the son of Jas. Sweeney, a well-known farmer there. Deceased began his law studies under the tuition of Judge Corbett, of Clarion county, and finished them under the late Marshal Swartzwelder. He was admitted to the Allegheny bar three years ago and was unmarried.—Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette, 11th inst.

—Many of our readers will remember Mr. Sweeney as having at one time taught school in this county, and afterwards being a student at law in the office of W. E. Lathy Esq.

—Peterson's Magazine for December is received, surpassing in beauty even what we had expected. It contains two costly steel engravings; a moth colored steel fashion-plate; a superb colored pattern, such as would sell at retail for fifty cents; and more than half a hundred wood-cuts of fashions, embroidery, etc. The literary contents are even better than usual. This number ends the volume. Great improvements for 1886 are promised, though "Peterson" seems to us already as nearly perfect as a lady's book can be. Every woman ought to take it. It is exceedingly cheap; only two dollars a year. Now is the time to get up clubs. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for in good faith. Address Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

—When the Cogley Run oil pool extended to the South-west it took in the Fern farm, which was leased for oil purposes by D. O. White and others. In former years a three-quarter acre lot had been sold by Fern to Ashland township school district. It was in the new town of Fern and on the line of the test wells. Several attempts at leasing the school lot were made but always abandoned for the reason that it would cause litigation. Some time last summer Wade Framp-ton took a lease from the school board and began operating. The lessees of the Fern farm sought to restrain him by a bill in equity asking an injunction. The suit was brought, "The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania ex-relacione, Lewis C. Cassidy, Attorney General, vs. J. W. A. Frampton, and the School Directors of the township." The grounds laid for an injunction were, no power in the directors of the school district to lease lands bought for school purposes and that the well and operations thereon would be a nuisance. Judge Corbett after hearing the argument of both sides on November 4th refused to grant the injunction prayed for.—Clarion Democrat. Mr. S. J. Wolcott had contracted to put down a well on the above mentioned lease, but was obliged to suspend operations for the time being.

—Ballou's Magazine for December contains the final chapter of "Lewey and I; or, Sailor Boys' Wanderings," by Wm. H. Thome. In addition the December number of Ballou's has an unusually large assortment of short stories, engravings, poetry, wit and humor, adventure, etc. The January number will appear in new type, with new features, illustrated stories, heavy white paper, and will be the leading magazine so far as brightness and good looks are concerned, yet the price will remain the same—only $1.50 per year, or 15 cents single copy. For sale at all news depots. Published at 23 Hawley Street, Boston.

—"Golden Days," published by James Elverson, Philadelphia, is a first-class paper for boys and girls. Its readers are not treated with trashy matter, but with useful knowledge; and it is most interesting and entertaining. It should be in every household.

Kellettville Krumbs.

School began about two weeks ago, with Miss May Sloan of Tionesta as teacher. Number of scholars enrolled, 26. The new school house is a structure of grandeur, compared with the old one, with the exception of the black-board which is in bad condition. Miss Mary Shaw is on the sick list. E. Goodwin has returned from a prolonged stay in Ohio, and is now rustivating in this place.

Judge Arner lost a valuable horse a few days since. We sympathize with him, as he had recently agreed upon a pine job at Mudlick.

J. M. Kepler is repairing his mill at Salmon Creek.

Prayer meetings at Judge Arner's every Wednesday and Sabbath evening.

F. Puffenberg, a brother of Uncle Billy's, began house keeping at Salmon Creek not long since.

Mrs. Hartman and her sister, having the sore throat, were confined to their beds for a few days.

A. Burdick has moved in the old school house at Minister. Suppose he will attach his attention to the establishment of a grocery, as is very common in the old and forsaken school houses of this locality.

Mrs. Shunk, of Whig Hill, is lying in a weak condition with heart disease, and it is said will only recover with the best of care.

W. C. Wilson has moved in the house formerly occupied by David Liak. He feels very proud of his new abode.

Miss Alice Lusher is on the sick list, having an attack of asthma. Nov. 14, 1886. BUMKRAZ.

Thanks.

In our late sickness and bereavement we have received many favors and kindnesses; some very unexpectedly. We have been treated very kindly by the people, all of whom will be as kindly remembered by me and my family. J. W. MORROW.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Morrow.

Our community was severely shocked on Saturday evening last, 14th inst., to learn that Mrs. Morrow, wife of Dr. J. W. Morrow had died at about five o'clock. She was taken down about three weeks ago with what was pronounced malarial fever, but until Sunday night previous to her death had not been considered in a dangerous condition. In fact few of our people supposed at any time that she was so near death's door.

To say that the community is deeply moved by this sad affair but feebly portrays the true feeling. No death has occurred here for a long time that seemed to touch the hearts of our people as has this one. A tender-hearted mother and affectionate wife to be called away in the prime of life from a fond husband and a family of seven children ranging in age from an infant of six months to young womanhood, just the time when a mother's tender care and Christian guidance is so indispensable, seems too sad a thought to dwell upon. And to add to the sadness of this occasion the Doctor was himself too much prostrated with sickness to be with her in her dying hour. It would seem that the strongest heart must break down under such a strain. Mrs. Morrow was a most exemplary christian lady, being a devout member for many years of the United Presbyterian Church, and as such she was held in the highest esteem by all our citizens. To the sad household, now motherless, the sympathy of the community goes out with tenderest feelings in their irreparable loss.

The deceased was aged 43 years. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. M. M. Pollock officiating, and was largely attended considering the very inclement weather.

MRS. HENRY SIBBLE DEAD.

The death of Mrs. Henry Sibble occurred at her home on Dutch Hill on Monday evening, 16th inst. She had been a sufferer for many years, and on several occasions was at the point of death. She has been a widow for many years, and at the time of her husband's death was left with a large family of children to care for, some of whom were quite young; her remarkable energy seems to have been quite equal to the task. Mrs. Sibble was a consistent member of the Evangelical Church, in the faith of which she died, a respected and honorable woman. The funeral will take place today. She was aged about 65 years.

MRS. T. J. PAYNE.

Mrs. Lodema L. Payne, nee Lewis, was born in Broome county N. Y., Dec. 29, 1835, and died in Clarion county, Pa., Oct. 21, 1885.

Mrs. Payne was the wife of Mr. T. J. Payne. They were married May 13, 1855, and lived together 30 years, 5 months and 8 days when death separated them. Mrs. Payne was a christian lady. She sought and found Christ as a personal savior about twelve years ago at a meeting conducted by Rev. Hiram Payne. She then gave her name to the M. E. church and from that time until her death lived a consistent christian life. Sister Payne was afflicted for several years and consequently was a great sufferer. A significant fact, confirmatory of her christian character, was that she endured all her suffering with a most remarkable patience and resignation. I think I never saw a more uncomplaining and resigned sufferer than she was. In last March she contracted a severe cold. From that time until her death she became worse and worse, notwithstanding all that could be done for her recovery. Her testimonies and exhortations were a benediction to all who heard them. A short time before she died she called her near relatives into her room and gave to them words of advice and exhortations such as seldom falls from the lips of mortals. She seemed to have special inspirations for the occasion. She told them she loved the savior and how he sustained her in sickness and as she neared the grave. She praised God and showed to all about her that she was as happy as mortal could be in this world. She said "I first learned of the savior in my little trundle-bed when my mother taught me about Jesus and to say my prayers." Bless God for christian mothers. Henry Giles says, "The visitings of early home thoughts are the last to quit us." Also, "What is put into the first life is put into the whole of life." So it is. So it was with sister Payne. She talked freely and touchingly about the impressions which she received in childhood from her mother. Sister Payne died triumphantly and her pure spirit is evidently in the Paradise of God where there is no suffering, anguish or death but where all is joy, peace and praise.

A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral. The services were conducted by the writer. The preliminary services were at the house of Mr. Wm. Lewis. We then proceeded to the Tylersburg M. E. church where the services were continued and the final leave was taken of the remains. Many tears were shed for we all felt that a relative and a friend had fallen. The long and sad procession followed the remains to the M. E. burying ground in the village of Tylersburg, where we laid all that was mortal of sister Payne to await the resurrection morn. "And I heard a voice from heaven saying, Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." Rev. 14-13.
