Not the Kind He Wanted,

There was an individual roving up and down Griswold street yesterday in search of a lawyer who would prosecute a claim for him and take half the damages as pay. When asked by some one what his claim was he replied:

"I propose to sue the police court for $20,000 damages."

"What for?" "For sending me to the workhouse for thirty days without notifying me what sort of an institution it was.

"What difference did that make?" "A great deal, sir, I was charged with drunkenness, and an officer swore that I was drunk. I denied the charge, and his Honor said: 'I make it thirty Persian Fire-Worshipers.

Ex-United States Minister Benjamin says in the Independent: When the Arabs, burning with religious zeal, carried the doctrines of Mohammed into Persia, and forced the acceptance of the Koran at the point of the sword, that country abandoned the worship of fire and the principles taught by Zerdusht or Zoroaster. The fire-worshipers who remained were mostly driven out of the country by persecution, and became the Parsees of India; a few remained in Persia, whose descendants are found there to this day. But they do not number over 25,000. They are most numerous at Yezd, where they weave some of the finest of the silk stuffs for which Persia is famous. Elsewhere they are agriculturists. They wear a peculiar garb, of which a distinguishing color is yellow, and are probably the most upright people in a country where correct principles and practice are scarce. Of course they retain the worship and creed of ancient Persia, including the mystical veneration for firelight. It is worthy of note that the more intelligent of the Guebres deny that they worship either the sun or fire, but rather the deity, or principle symbolized by those objects. This may be true of educated Guebres; but the lower and ignorant classes un-"Of course, you blockhead. Do you doubtedly have not sufficient refinement to make so subtle a distinction. I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible blood poison, and for two years was under treatment as an out-door patient at Nottingham Hospital, England, but was not cured. I suffered the most agonizing pains in my bones, and was covered with sores all over my body and limbs. Finally I completely lost all hope in that country, and safied for America, and was treated at Roosevelt in this city, as well as by a prominent physician in New York having no connection with the hospitals.

I saw the advertisement of Swift's Specific and I determined to give it a trial. I took six hotties and I can say with great joy that they have cured me entirely. I am as sound and well as I ever was in my life.
