THE DEALERS IN STOCKS. NEW YORK STOCK BROKERS AND

Clauses of Brokers-Reavy Compensation-Average Amount Made by the 1,100 Brokers.

Generally speaking, brokers are of three classes. The first does a regular commission business; never speculates, except on occasions, and succeds best. The second are the scalpers, who buy and sell in the hope of making one eighth or one quarter of one per cent. These are the physiognomists of the institution. Reading the faces of associates who have large orders, they buy with the intention of selling to them at a rise. The scalpers are busiest when there are more brokers than business, Too smart to live, they usually die of pecuniary strophy. The guerrillas are a sub-class of the scalpers, few in number, and by making specialty of dealing in inactive stocks have formerly fixed the unsavory appellations of "heil's kitchen" and "robbers' roost" upon certain localities of the floor. The third class is composed of traders in particular stocks, by whose rise and fall they strive to enrich themselves, in some instances closing contracts every day. One trader in Northwest for sixteen years is said to have accumulated a handsome fortune. The ideal broker is cool, imperturbable, unreadable, knowing or accurately guessing the movements of the great operators, able to buy the most stock with the | ance of soft finish and diagonal cloth. least fluctuation, covering his tracks in the execution of a large order by purchasing in small quantities, and shrewd selling at the same time. Washington E. Conner, partner and broker of Jay Gould, does presumably the largest brokerage business in the Exchange. The compensation paid to commission brokers ought to be satisfactory. It is one-eighth of one per cent, upon the purchase and upon the sale of all securities other than government bonds, estimated at par value, when made for a party who is not a member of the Exchange. No business can be done for less than this rate to non-members. The minimum rate charged to members is one-thirtysecond of one per cent., except where one member merely buys or sells for another (giving up his principal on the day of the transaction), and does not receive or deliver the stock, in which case the rate must not be less than onefiftieth of one per cent. The commission on mining stocks selling in the market at $5 per share or less is $3.12\frac{1}{2} per 100 shares; if at more than $5, and not over $10 per share, $6.25; if more than $10 per share, $12.50. To members of the Exchange the minimum commission charged is $2 per 100 shares. Contracts for a longer period than three days carry six per cent. interest. Any violation, direct or indirect, of these lawseven the offering to do business at less than these rates—is punishable by expulsion from the Exchange, and sale forthwith by the committee on admissions of the membership of the offender. The commission broker who carries stock for his customer and furnishes most of the money occasionally charges one-fourth of one per cent., or $25 per 100 shares. Ten bonds, at par of $1,000 each, are reckoned equivalent to 100 shares, and are subject to the same commissions.

What compensation will these rates afford to brokers? For the year ending December 31, 1881, the transactions of the Stock Exchange are computed to have amounted to $12,816,246,600. Checks for this enormous amount were new picot-edged ribbon has quite the drawn and paid. The commissions preference. The Care of Baby Eyes.

The two muscles—a set for each eye-act in perfect correlation, and enable the organ in an instant of time to cover an infinite range of vision. No fine adjust-ment of the telescope, no system of lenses and prisms, can accomplish this feat in an instant of time. The utmost caution is therefore im-peratively demanded of every person to whom is consigned the care of the young child from infancy to perhaps the third year of life. It is during this time that damage to the muscular apparatus of the eye may be done. The mother or nurse is eager to have baby see everything from the nursery window, or from a carriage or car. Lighter greens are to be most in favor this season. Light vinaigre or absinthe green flannels trimmed with a still paler shade are being used in bridal outfits. Bronze or myrtle-green velvet is hand-somely combined, for a fall dress, with apricot-satin brocade.

Bridal veils of real lace are now put on so as to come down to the eyebrows only, leaving the rest of the face uncovered, while at the back it falls within a few inches of the skirt. This arrangement is suitable for lace veils, which are never so wide as plain tulle ones. The latter are always worn so as to cover the figure entirely, coming down below the waist in front.

Expense of an Imperial Meeting.

As to the expense to the emperor of Austria of the imperial meeting it must have been something awful. It must, in fact, have been the most costly thirty hours in the whole history of the court of Vienna. The immense schloss was cleaned, redecorated as far as possible, and refurnished, while the grounds were out in order and the vast courtyard was transformed into a garden.

There were sent from Vienna 500 beds with bedding, sixty court carriages, 150 horses, 1,000 pieces of carpet, 400 pairs of curtains, 300 complete breakfast services, 7,000 sets of silver forks and spoons, 400 coffee nots, 300 teapots, 10,000 wineglasses, 10,000 plates, 1,500 bottles of the finest Rhine wines, 2,500 bottles of claret, 3,000 bottles of champagne, 300 bottles of liquors, 200 clocks, 200 pounds of coffee, fifty pounds of tea, 300-weight of sugar and 500 pounds of wax candles, as well as scores of wagonloads of furniture, pictures, plate and china. The suites and retinues numbered nearly 800 persons. A fire brigade was also dispatched from Vienna, as well as three military bands and the company of the Vienna Imperial theatre. - London

A Poet's Presents. It is related of the German poet Uhland that the king once offered him the Order Pour le Merite, with flattering expressions of the royal regard. Uhland, however, declined to accept it. While he was explaining to his wife the reason which moved him to refuse the distinction, there was a knock at the door. A working class girl from the reighborhood entered, and presenting Uhland with a bunch of violets, said: "This is with a bunch of violets, said:

The poet's eyes moist-ened as he took the posy, and putting it in his buttonho'e he said to his wife: "There, dear woman, is not that an order more valuable than any king can give?"

A mistake made by parents is in imag-ining that they should be always givers and children receivers. Thus the balance is destroyed in each, and both are injured-the children especially, in acquiring habits of seldshness. They ought rather to be accustomed to receive gratefully, to give generously, and to do both with gladness, thus learning that they are both duties and pleasures which should never be entirely separated.
