

EVEN THE BEGGARS RIDE.

ODD THINGS A CORRESPONDENT SAW IN URUGUAY.

The City of Montevideo—A Curious Way to Make Butter—Beggars on Horseback in the Streets.

William E. Curtis writes as follows from Montevideo to the Chicago Inter-Ocean: There is no city more delightfully situated than the capital of Uruguay, and viewed from any direction the prospect of Montevideo is a lovely one.

Montevideo is built upon a limestone reef like a turtle's back, which extends about two miles into the Rio Plata, and slopes from the center in either direction to the water's edge, so that the drainage is perfect, and the streets in the middle of the town are 300 feet higher than those along the beach.

Good fortune seldom comes pure and single, unattended by some troublesome or unexpected circumstance. When one becomes so conceited that he can't be taught, he and a fool wear the same style of cap.

Nobody is perfect, but forbearance and love do much to soften the irritable, hard edges of existence. Good fortune seldom comes pure and single, unattended by some troublesome or unexpected circumstance.

Nothing is so great an instance of ill-manners as flattery. If you flatter the company you please none. If you flatter only one or two, you affront the rest.

No character can possibly embrace all types of perfection, for the perfection of a type depends not only upon the virtues that constitute it, but upon the order and prominence assigned to them.

Prejudices are like the knots in the glass of our windows. They alter the shape of everything that we choose to look at through them; they make straight things crooked and everything indistinct.

Sympathy produces harmony; it smooths off the rough edges of conflicting characters; it brings the cheeriness of the hopeful to chase away the fears of the despairing; it draws reinforcement for the weakness or the want of some from the wealth or strength of others.

Uruguay is as progressive as the Argentine Republic, and is quite as full of modern improvements. There are many beautiful residences and fine stores in Montevideo, and the people proudly boast that anything can be found there that can be found in Paris.

One of the curious customs is the manufacture of butter. The dairyman pours the milk, while still warm, into an inflated pig or goat skin, litches it to his saddle by a long lasso, and gallops five or six miles into town with the milk sack pounding along on the road behind him.

SELECT SIFTINGS.

What sadder sight can be imagined than that of a noble man, whom the world can ill afford to spare, stricken down by the privilege of a useful life by consumption.

Birds are said to leave the vicinity where cholera prevails. A novelty at Cumberland, Md., is a goose that crows like a rooster.

The pistol was invented in Pistola, in Tuscany, by Camillo Vitelli, in the sixteenth century. A man has been discovered in England, who during the greater part of his forty-two years, has of choice lived in a dark loft over a school upon food purloined from the establishment.

There was an old notion that the serpent caused death without pain, a popular fancy which Shakespeare has introduced into his "Antony and Cleopatra."

Hast thou the pretty worm of Nilus there, That kills and pains not?

Platinum wire can be drawn so fine that it is no longer visible to the "naked" eye, and can only be felt. It can be seen with a magnifying glass when the wire is held against white paper. It is used in telescopes and similar instruments.

A good fat sheep was grazing in a field near Mount Pleasant, Penn., when a big bald eagle swooped down upon it like a lightning bolt. It buried its talons so deep in the sheep's back that it could not release itself, and the sheep ran home, when the immense bird was captured.

The painting of Egypt existed unchanged for a period of more than 3,000 years, with a stability unequalled in the other civilizations of the world. It was, perhaps, not quite so extensively employed in the ancient kingdom as in the later times; paintings can be dated as far back as the third dynasty (3,818 to 3,134 B. C., according to Lepsius), but they were restricted to interior decoration.

A person struck by lightning does not know it, the fluid being much quicker than thought. The nerves which convey pain are rather slow in their power to convey information. Stick a pin in the tail of an elephant and quite a perceptible interval occurs before the noble animal gives his opinion of the man or boy at the end of the nervous system on trial.

My wife has been troubled a long time with inflammatory rheumatism, and was so bad last spring that it was hard work for her to walk. She derived more relief by taking four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, than from any other medicine she has taken.

I used Hood's Sarsaparilla last spring, and can truly say it helped me very much. To those suffering with bilious complaints, nervous prostration, or rheumatism, I earnestly recommend it." Mrs. E. CARRINGTON, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Writers in the London Lancet call attention to the great value of hot water applications to the head in cases of fainting or syncope. They say also that a prompt use of it, applied to the forehead with cloths, will very often avert such attacks.

Observe these busy little bees a laying up their honey and try to be as wise as these by saying all your money. You should say five cigars away and drink, say six times daily: cards, pool and billiards, too, you play and treat the folks say, in twenty years this fun will cost, according to good scholars, with interest and time that's lost just $20,000. But if you count your loss of health and self-inflicted trouble will figure more than double. Then, when it's time no more to slave but pleasure take, so sick you will feel because you didn't save you'll want some one to kick you. So imitate these busy bees and all your pantries treasure and then when older take you ease with forty years of pleasure.

In the Hospitals. Baltimore and Philadelphia hospital physicians are prescribing the new proprietary medicine, Red Star Cough Cure. It contains neither morphia, opium, nor any other injurious ingredients. The price is only 25 cents.

The site of the city of Boston was sold in 1635 by John Blackstone for £30. Take the testimony of seven out of every ten men you meet, and they will all complain of annoyance from "constipation" and its attendant lassitude, headache, flatulence, &c. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS is a specific for this ailment. It acts gently, but surely, and will regulate the system, cultivate a natural appetite and digestion and insure relief.

WISE WORDS.

When one becomes so conceited that he can't be taught, he and a fool wear the same style of cap.

Nobody is perfect, but forbearance and love do much to soften the irritable, hard edges of existence.

The engineer of an ocean steamship in the course of a conversation with a New York Tribune reporter said: "I have on a book in the engine-room a curious table of dates and figures, which shows to me the exact time for every mile made by different steamers which I have engineered across the ocean for the last fourteen years. If anything more than usual occurs I jot it down opposite the date, and so make a sort of diary of it. It speaks volumes to me, and recalls many interesting memories. For instance, I was looking through it the other day, and I found opposite November 10, 1875, a reference to a visit from Chinamen. The incident was recalled to my mind in a moment, and I laughed heartily over it to myself. This is what it meant. One day while lying in port we were visited by several Chinamen who were anxious to inspect the ship. They were as ignorant as I, and had never seen any machinery worked by steam. The captain was a good-natured fellow and allowed them to come below, although they experienced some doubts as to the advisability of so doing. They were very timid, and it took some time for me to convince them that the machinery was harmless. Finally I got two of them to come close to the heavy driving rod, which you know on a large vessel is an enormous piece of iron. Suddenly, without warning, it gave a start forward, and accompanied by a loud puff of steam, leaped fully ten feet above our heads. Angry at my assistant for letting on steam without my knowledge, I turned to speak to him when my attention was attracted toward the stairway. The last two Chinamen of the party were making frantic endeavors to jump up half a dozen steps at a time. The rest had disappeared, and before I could get on deck the whole crowd had got into their boat and started for the shore. No amount of persuasion could ever get them to return to that ship, which they claimed was alive. It was a mean trick, but it has afforded me a good laugh since."

Man's Deepest Emotion. The deepest emotion that man knows is love. If, like the air plants, its roots are upward, and love works with moral sentiment, it is divine, and is that atmosphere through which the image, the ideal, the true thought of God is to make itself known.

It is the great end toward which all creation is tending. The discovery of that thought has been of inconceivable comfort to me, for I have seen the human race beginning at the lowest state of animalism, grasping, cruel; I have seen the animal creation organized for cruelty—the shark, the leopard, the lion, as if destructiveness was part and parcel of the original creative design; out of it I have seen little by little emerging other qualities; love of cubs and whelps; with slow steps I have seen the animal creation reach to the level of the human family, and that family under one mystic influence, which we cannot call nature, for it seems to contradict nature at every step; I have seen the steady unfolding toward intelligence, toward refinement, toward imagination, whose eyes are away from organized matter; of ascent and the law of unfolding at last seems this: To set the whole of creation upon a march from the lowest form of unorganized matter up through every variation of organization, through every form of passion, still seeking it knows not what, until later ages decay that star that all creation is seeking and around which it is revolving; and love is that, and is the final end of creation.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Sunday collections in Spurgeon's great congregation in London average $345. Man's inhumanity to woman makes countless thousands mourn, would be an applicable rendering of Pope's line, in view of the indignities she has suffered and pains undergone at the hands of unskillful physicians and quacks. Naturally modest she suffers on until forced to consult a physician regarding some female difficulty which she well knows is nothing but a simple case of female weakness. All this embarrassment can be avoided and a cure effected by purchasing Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" of your druggist, and taking as directed. Price reduced to one dollar.

TYPE-SETTING in this country is said to cost $100,000 annually. Relief is immediate, and a cure sure. Pilo's Remedy for Catarrh, 50 cents.

WE SUBMIT FACTS.

In regard to Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for rheumatism, and ask you if you are afflicted with this disease to try the medicine which has so greatly benefited others. Hundreds of people who suffered the tortures of rheumatism, even in its severest form, have been happily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great tonic and blood purifier.

My wife has been troubled a long time with inflammatory rheumatism, and was so bad last spring that it was hard work for her to walk. She derived more relief by taking four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, than from any other medicine she has taken.
