

THE BAD BOY ON MAD DOGS.

THE LITTLE IMP SCARES HIS PA AND THE GROCERYMAN.

Taking Advantage of the Hydrophobia Scare to Play Fresh Franks-New Vaccination Scheme.

"Mad dog! Mad dog!" shouted the bad boy, as he rushed into the grocery store, jumped under the counter and crawled behind the barrel of lumpy white sugar.

"Oh, vaccinate me, quick. I am bit," the groceryman gave the boy a kick in the pantaloons, and said:

"There, you are vaccinated. That is the best application of Pasteur's treatment. If you feel spools coming on again, I will give you more sole leather virus in your system."

"Well, so do I," said the boy as he put the stove between himself and the groceryman. "The time is coming when vaccination is going to be used for everything."

"English naval constructors are investigating the jarrah wood of western Australia, which is said to resist completely the attacks of the teredo and all other animal pests to which timbers planted in salt water are exposed."

"Oh, don't go on in that way, you weary me," said the groceryman, as he took a wash dish of water and a whisk broom, and began sprinkling the floor, preparatory to the regular semi-annual sweeping out.

"Well, I'll tell you. It was all his fault. You see, we have been excited about this mad dog scare, and I asked pa what he would do if he met a mad dog."
