VIVID DESCRIPTION OF THE BAT-TLE OF SOUTH MOUNTAIN.

be in Battle-A Hand-to-Hand Engagement.

Were you ever in a battle? My first memorable experience was in that of South Mountain, in 1802, and then came Antietam, three days later. I was then in my fourteenth year—full of life, vigor and ambition. My regiment, the Twentythird Ohio, commanded by R. B. Hayes, had seen some eighteen months of hard the battle of South Mountain a lad of my opportunity to pass through at least one great battle

On the morning of the 14th of September, Burnside's corps, which formed the left wing of McCallan's army, with Cox's division of Ohio men in the lead (and the Twenty-third in the van of that division), moved from Middletown up the National road to the foot of South Mountain, when a brief rest was ordered. It was a beautiful Sunday morning, and very few of our men dreamed of the terrible storm that was at that very moment brewing on the hill tops before and above them. A few moments later and Simmons' battery stirred the air with a few shells that were let loose on the mountain side, but, as they were unanswered, we thought nothing of it. Then Hayes was ordered to take his regiment up the mountain by an unfrequented Rev. M. Harvey, the learned and accuroad. We started off in lively spirits, rate Newfoundland naturalist. In 1873, ates let into us to the extent of a dozen bringing us to our senses. Our eyes

No matter how brave and daring a man enforce its own is, the first shot chills him more or less. After that the battle is as nothing. He his soul has fled. He is no longer himself, no longer a man, but a dangerous, passionate animal. He goes into the fight like a bull-dog, not caring or thinking of reasoner once more. The first charge which forms the body. The cold slimy we made was carried by our outrageous grasp paralyzes the victim with terror, yelling and deafening cheers. The Confederates no doubt thought that the infernal regions had broken loose. Every man yelled like a madman. It was Colonel we did, and by it we won the first charge. more terrible effect upon men than the cannon ball itself. Powder and cheek gods of man. A brave man will fight a a calf or an ass. Had the Confederates known our number at the opening, no doubt the Twenty-third would have been considerably worsted on its first charge. but our wild cheers fooled them, and after they had dosed us with a few volleys they gave way, fell back and took

Again they made it red hot for us and again we won. This time it was face to face, bayonet to bayonet and life for life. But we beat them back. Heavens! how they fought us! It was nip and tuck. It cost blood; but what of that-we got the glory we fought for. It cost life; but what is life without glory-nothing. It was a contest of steel of bayonets, of men crazed with excitement. One fellow tayoneted seven of the enemy. They made a screeant of him after the battle a scarce article. And so the watch was sold. The purchaser had always sacredwas over. Another killed four. They made a corporal of him within a month after the fight. Heavens! that was the flercest and grandest charge made during the war.

I don't remember much after the sec ond and third charges. I became lest in the whirl of excitement. I can only remember that it was hot-that the bullets flew thick and fast-that men dropped often and quick from kisses of cold, deadly lead from the touch of cold stinging I only know that we fought all day and late into the night, and that when the battle was ended, and only the moans and growns of the wounded and dying were heard, the news spread far and fast that a great victory had been splendid paper for one year. - London won for the Union - Chicago Lodger. Incident at a Golden Wedding.

A touching little incident occurred at the Van Cleve golden wedding recently, One of the gifts to the bride of fifty years was a very pretty but old-fashioned lady's gold watch, and it was observed that upon none of the presents did the general and his wife look with fonder eyes than upon this. The story leaked out that this was the very watch which nearly fifty years ago. Liqutenant Van Cleve had presented to his bride. In the 'tight times" which followed it was sold. The purchaser had always sacredly preserved it, and was able consequently, at the golden wedding, to make one of the most delightful gifts of the day .-St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

On the accession of James IL, that monarch declared, without the formality of law, the charter of Massachusetts to be void, and appointed Joseph Dudley president of the country from Rhode Island to Nova Scotia. It is not generally known that the hand travels as fast if not so far as the foot. An ingenious calculator has been setting down the record of its progression. A rapid penman writes thirty words a minute, and in doing so, what with curves and turns of the pen necessitated by very word, not to mention crossing his "t's," draws his pen through sixteen feet of space. In forty minutes his pen travels a furlong. Thus many persons who do not walk on all fours progress three hundred miles a year with their hands, or rather with one hand.

Inventor of the Lightning-Rod.

One of our German contemporaries deoted recently some space to the experiments of one Procopius Diwisch, and details a number of interesting devices produced by him. Among them the lightning-rod occupies a prominent position, and Diwisch's biographer claims for him the priority of invention in this field, on the strength of the fact that he erected such a contrivance in his garden in 1754. So far as dates are concerned Diwisch can by no means be counted as the original Jacob in the lightning-rod business, as the thing had been done some time before by several others, and the idea of drawing sparks from the clouds had been suggested by Franklin in 1749. Indeed. records show that before Diwisch's date two houses in Philadelphia were struck by lightning during a thunder storm, and the one protected by lightning-rods was not injured, while the other was severely damaged. We might enter more into the details of this question, but priority claims on modern inventions must now be handled so frequently that our readers will pardon us for refusing to dig up dead issues. Justice must be done though the heavens fall, but sometimes the wish is heard faintly that the heavens would fall on a few of the men who had "done it pefore."-Electrical World.

Something About Catarri. A great many people are afflicted with Catarrh who do not know what alls them; and a great many more continue sufferers who might be gured.

Thickening of the membrane which lines the nasal passages, thus making breathing difficult; a discharge from the nostrils, more or less coplous, watery or thick, according to the stage of the disease; a sense of fullness in the head; a constant inclination to spit; and, in advanced cases, a dropping of intensely disgusting matter into the throat, are a few of the prominent symptoms of Catarrh.

Deafness, inflamed eyes, neuralgic pains, sore throat and a loss of sense of smell, are very often caused by Catarrh.

All these troubles are cured by Piso's Remedy for Catarrh, Relief is had immediately after beginning its use, but it is important that It be continued without intermission until the catarrhal virus is expelled from the system and healthy secretions replace the diseased action of the mucous membrane. Manifestiy it is unreasonable to expect a cure in a short time of a disease that has been progressing for months or years.

This question of time is provided for in the putting up of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. It is so concentrated that a very small dose is directed. The quantity in one package is sufdirected. The quantity in one package is sufficient for a long treatment, consequently the expense is a mere triffe, and there is no excuse for neglect nor reason for it but forgetfulness. A cold in the head is relieved by an applicacion of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times the cost.

The following letters are specimens of those received every day, testifying to the worth of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh:

The Great Spring Medicine

During the past four years I have been troubled with Boils, Humors broke out all over my face and skin. I used to dig Burdock root, steep and take it. The ground was frozen so hard last winter that I could not dig it, so the next thing I could do was to get some of your Burdock Bitters. One bottle did me so much good I concluded to try the second, and finally the third effected a full and perfect cure. I have gained over thirty pounds in flesh. I recommend them to all my friends,

I have been troubled with a rash or humos very severe, too—for more than fifteen weeks, and all the medicines I took did me no good. Burdock Blood Bitters was recommended to me. I bought some, and it helped me greatly; yet I was not entirely cured. I went to my druggist, purchased another bottle, which cured me perfectly. I now attend to my duties at school without chased another bottle, which cured me perfectly. I now attend to my duties at school without
