Surveyor, HENRY C. WHITTEKIN.

Coroner, Dr. J. W. MORROW.

GET REGISTERED.

Republicans should see that their names are properly registered. September 2, is the last day for registration. Republican Committeemen in each district should examine the lists carefully and if the names of any Republican voters are omitted see that they are properly registered and assessed. The lists can be found at the

THE Democrats at their State Convention in Harrisburg last week, nominated Chauncey F. Black for Governor; Lieut. Gov., Robert Bruce Ricketts, of Luzerne county; Auditor General, W. J. Brennan, of Allegheny county; Secretary of Internal Affairs, Philadelphia reporter, as he stepped J. Simpson Africa, of Huntingdon county; Congress-at-Large, Maxwell Stevenson of Philadelphia. With the date; but there are some things about exception of Black and Africa, the average voter will doubtless wonder who these gentlemen are, anyway.

SEE to it right away that you are registered, Republicans. Young Republicans should be especially particular about this matter.

THE Chicago Anarchists must hang, at least seven out of a possible eight chief spokesman in Congress." These of them, whose trials ended last week. August Spies, A. R. Parsons, Louis Linng, Michael Schwab, George Engel, Samuel Fielden, and Adolph Fischer will stretch hemp unless some hitch in the future proceedings prevents it, while Oscar Neebe will languish in prison for fifteen years. This, we should say, was a trifling backset to Anarchism or we don't read the signs aright. Let the good work go

THE Committeemen in the several townships should see that all Republicans are registered. Examine the list on the door of the election houses and if any are left off, see that their names are immediately placed on the Registry.

THE rapids and whirlpool at Niagara have found another victim. James Scott, a fisherman of Lewiston, Ontario, lost his life last Thursday in an attempt to pass through these waters the place. A nice lot of pine timber, in a cork suit; while Graham, the Philadelphia cooper, was severely bruised in repeating his passage of the For particulars inquire at this office. rapids in a barrel. It is to be hoped this disaster will result in "laying" for a time the spirit of reckless adventure which has lately made Niagara and the Brooklyn bridge the scenes of its exploits.

of Pennsylvania, and is of more than usual brevity. The Democratic platform of 1884 is reaffirmed, but in view of the dubious tariff plank in that document declaring that "federal" [For COOPER BROS.] that document declaring that "federal taxation shall be for public purposes increased cost of production which may exist in consequence of the higher rate of wages prevailing in this community." This is good protection doctrine, and we congratulate the Democracy of Pennsylvania on having at last got a Convention which is willing to come so nearly in out of the fog on the question of protection to American labor.

President Cleveland and Governor Pattison receive perfunctory endorsements in some well-turned sentences. Labor and its needs are given a special plank and a long array of measures are proposed for their benefit, some of which are already in the statute book, and that the rest are not there is not because of Republican opthere is not because of Republican opposition. In regard to railroads and other corporations the Convention takes the safe course of promising to enforce the Constitution by appropriate legislation without going into the difficult question what particular legislation is and what is not appropriate. The death of the Democratic chieftans - Hendricke, McClellan, Seymour, Hancock and Tilden, all within a very recent period, is very properly made the subject of a brief Convention threnody.

The studious silence of the platform on the liquor question is in strong contrast with the frank, courageous language of the Republican platform in favor of submitting a prohibitory amendment to a popular vote. The practical friend of temperance reform, who fully understands that the Prohibition ticket can not be elected, will have little difficulty in view of this contrast in deciding which of the two great parties is entitled to his support and co-operation.-Phila. Press.

Who Knows Best?

The victor in the last Democratic voting place in each election district. fift, Mr. Randall, with child-like innocence, assured a newspaper reporter who caught him at the Pittsburgh depot, that while he had not met Mr. Wallace since the flailing, he was yet confident "Mr. Wallace and his friends would be loyal." About the same time Senator Wallace was saying to a into a Continental Hotel elevator : "I am very happy that I am not a candithat convention which you will hear from before the fight is over." While the personal organ of Mr. Wallace in this city presents its compliment to Mr. Randall by saying that if Wallace and Buckalew can be sent to Congress that "Pennsylvania would be redeemed from the humiliation of having a mere parliamentary trickster for its are the facts, and from them you are invited to conclude that the "two wings" of the Democratic party will flop together from this time until the election. The victor assures you that the white dove of harmony will perch upon his banners, while, at the very moment he gives you this assurance, groups of his defeated and scattered enemies are conspiring together for a renewal of the war upon him in his own special field on the floor of Congress. It is very much to be feared that his dove of harmony will be torn to pieces by the hawk of discord .-Harrisburg Telegraph.
