GET REGISTERED.

Republicans should see that their names are properly registered. September 2, is the last day for registration. Republican Committeemen in each district should examine the lists carefully and if the names of any Republican voters are omitted see that they are properly registered and assessed. The lists can be found at the voting place in each election district.

BLAINE AGAIN TO THE FRONT.

While there has been for several days past some very effective skirmish firing by the Maine Republicans, which is regarded as the formal opening of the campaign in that state took place Tuesday evening of last week, at Sebago Lake, where Mr. Blaine made the first of the series of speeches he expects to deliver in the brief but vigorous canvass which will be made between this and Maine's election day—the 13th of September. While the little town has only about 300 inhabitants, yet there were over 6000 people present to hear the speech. Maine elects this year a governor, four members of Congress, and a Legislature which will choose a United States senator. The issues between the two parties therefore are not local, but in a large degree national, and, as graphically and forcibly presented in this opening speech of Mr. Blaine, they are as relevant in Pennsylvania, Illinois and California as in New England. His speech will be read with the liveliest interest not only because his well-deserved fame as a public speaker begets high expectations, which are never disappointed, but because more than any other man he is the chief and spokesman of the Republican party, and presents with something akin to authority its convictions and matured judgment.

In his speech which we are sorry we cannot present in full, but which our people will doubtless have a chance to read before November, Mr. Blaine addresses himself boldly to the labor question, the discontent among the men who earn their bread by skilled and unskilled labor, and the uneasiness and uncertainty which attend it. He submits two considerations for the reflection of workmen. One is, how can the wages of labor in the United States be kept above the rate of wages in England, Germany and France on the same articles of manufacture without the intervention of protective duties? The other is, can the workmen of the North afford to ignore the condition of colored labor in the South? Mr. Blaine makes the pertinent inquiry of organized labor in the North: "Do you suppose you can permanently maintain in the Northern States one scale of prices when just beyond an imaginary line on the South of us a far different scale of prices is paid for labor?" The political bearing of these queries needs no interpretation. If the Democratic party shall succeed, as they have been annually attempting for twelve years, in destroying the tariff, American labor will be thrown into direct competition with the underpaid labor of Europe. If through the ascendancy of the Democratic party in the nation the colored laborer is continued in political subjection, unable to fix the price of his labor, labor in the North, organized and unorganized, will feel disastrously the effects of the cheaper competition in the South.

On the fishery question Mr. Blaine speaks with full knowledge and strong conviction. He shows how the halting diplomacy of Mr. Bayard and his disregard for the declared will of Congress have resulted in the series of petty and annoying persecutions and outrages to which American fishing vessels and fishing crews are now subjected by the deliberate act of the Canadian Government. By its patent endurance of Canadian outrages on the one hand, and its unnecessary and undignified display of insolence and bravado towards Mexico on the other, the State Department has given cause for national humiliation and chagrin. As secretary of state, Mr. Blaine labored to make war between the republics of this continent impossible and to have the United States considered as the elder sister in the family of American commonwealths. Mr. Bayard seems inclined to reverse this policy and make the United States the bully of the continent as respects the weaker nations to the South, but deferential to the point of subservience to the first-class power which takes liberties with our commerce and seizes our vessels for the most petty and unimportant infractions of heretofore unenforced and often unknown customs regulations. Though Maine is a prohibition state and owes its original prohibition law and all its later amendments to the Republican party, it nevertheless has a separate Prohibition party whose sole object there, as elsewhere, is to kill the Republican party and put the Democrats into power. We commend to the consideration of the reasonable members of that party who cherish in sincerity the professed objects of the Prohibition organization the remarks of Mr. Blaine on this subject before they cast their votes to aid a party which has opposed prohibition whenever and wherever it has been directly or indirectly in issue by every means and device at its command. On this point we give Mr. Blaine's own remarks, as follows:

THIRD PARTY PROHIBITIONISTS. The pending contest is marked by the presence of a third party, organized, as its leaders say, to enforce the prohibition of the liquor traffic in Maine. There are some singular features pertaining to this movement. The Republican party in Maine from the day of its organization has been pledged to prohibition—enacting the principal statute now in force in 1857—and since amending it from year to year as the leading temperance men requested. The changes to make it more effective have averaged nearly one for every year since the original law was passed.

The third party in their Convention cheerfully testify that Prohibition has been so well enforced by the Republicans that in their judgment Maine is a quarter of a century ahead of the license states in all that pertains to the temperance reform. The Republicans have this year with special emphasis in their State Convention reaffirmed their faith in Prohibition and nominated for governor a pronounced supporter of the law. But all this does not suit the third party Prohibitionists. They desire a party of their own just small enough to have no effect at all, or, if possible, just large enough to throw the state into the hands of the Democratic party, which has been as constant in its hostility to Prohibition as the Republican party of Maine has been constant in its fidelity to Prohibition.

The position and platform of the third party might in fact be thus abbreviated: Whereas the Republican party of Maine enacted a prohibitory law thirty years ago and has since amended it as a majority of the friends of temperance demanded, and has in consequence advanced Maine in all matters of temperance a quarter of a century ahead of the license states; therefore, be it resolved that we, members of a third party of Prohibitionists, will so vote as to defeat the Republican party and turn the Government of Maine over to the Democrats, who have through all these years opposed Prohibition by every instrumentality in their power.

Democrats, of course, with scarcely an attempt at concealment, regard the third party as their special ally, and the coalition is so evident that I am sure no man can be deceived in regard to the result except him who desires to be deceived. Every voter knows that he must choose between the Republican and Democratic parties—and every voter knows that in joining the third party he indirectly but effectually throws his political and moral influence in favor of the Democracy.

The supporters of the third party adopt as their shibboleth that "the Republican party must be killed," and they have secured the co-operation of the Democrat, of the Free-trader, of the saloon proprietor, of all men who wish to keep 6,000,000 of colored people in the South disfranchised and oppressed. It is an insincere coalition, an unhallowed partnership, an unwholesome alliance. Against it the Republican party of Maine presents its uniform support of Prohibition, its splendid record of devotion to the protection of American labor, its long and patient effort in behalf of those who are downtrodden and deprived of natural rights. The Republican party has always fought its battles single handed, against great odds, and now with principle unshaken and courage undaunted it will again triumph over the combined force of all its foes.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE of a writ of Testatum Vendi, Ex. from the Court of Common Pleas of Clarion County to me directed, there will be exposed to sale by public venue or outcry at the Court House, in the Borough of Tionesta, Pa., on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, A. D., 1886, at 2 o'clock p. m., the following described real estate to-wit:

B. DUNKLE, Ex-Sheriff, vs. J. B. WATSON, Testatum Vendi, Ex. No. 1 September Term, 1886.—Maffitt & Ross, Attys. All of those two pieces or parcels of land, situated in the town of Marion, County of Forest, State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Lot No. one, located between Chestnut and North Forest Streets, fronting on public square forty-seven feet, and on North Forest street one hundred and fifty-five feet; thence along line of lot doled to Terwilliger, now owned by second party, East eighty-seven feet to a post on corner of lot doled to J. W. Kahle; thence along line of lot of J. W. Kahle, South twenty-seven feet to a post, corner of lot of T. J. Reyner; thence Southwest forty-five degrees forty-four feet to a post, corner of lot doled to T. J. Reyner, dated November, A. D. 1885; thence South and East forty-five degrees sixty feet to corner on Chestnut street; thence along Chestnut street, South and West forty-five degrees one hundred and six feet to corner, on public square the place of beginning. The remaining part of said lot No. one, after having conveyed to the said T. J. Reyner by two several deeds, forty-four feet, fronting on Chestnut street, and sixty feet back along line of lot of said J. W. Kahle, making a plot of ground forty-four feet by sixty feet off of the Northeast corner of the original lot, as hereinbefore described and referred to. Also lot No. two, a piece or tract of land known as lot No. one in the general place of said town of Marion, situated in the Township, Forest county, Pa., and bounded on Maple street, commencing at the Northwest corner of an alley; thence along said Maple street two hundred and forty-five feet to a post; thence South to a post fifty-eight feet on corner of an alley; thence South and West two hundred and forty-one feet to an alley; thence forty-five feet to a post, corner opposite the middle of an alley on the Northwest side of lots owned by J. W. Kahle; thence forty-five feet to a corner on an alley; thence North along said alley one hundred and ninety-eight feet to a post on corner of Maple street, the place of beginning. And to contain one acre or more, be it more or less, by a reference to the town plot of said town of Marion, as aforesaid will more fully define the boundaries and designate the localities of said two lots or pieces of land hereinbefore referred to.

Terms of Sale.—The following must be strictly complied with when the property is struck off down: 1. When the plaintiff or other lien creditors become the purchaser, the costs on the writs must be paid, and a list of liens including mortgage searches on the property sold, together with such lien creditor's receipts for the amount of the present of the sale or such portion thereof as he may claim, must be furnished the Sheriff. 2. All bids must be paid in full. 3. All sales not settled immediately will be continued until 2 o'clock p. m., of the next day, at which time all property not settled on will again be put up and sold at the expense and risk of the person to whom first sold.

D. LANGELL'S ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. Having struggled 20 years between life and death with ASTHMA or BRONCHITIS, treated by eminent physicians, and receiving no benefit, I was compelled during the last five years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath; my sufferings were beyond description. In despair I experimented on myself by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered the wonderful Cure for Asthma and Catarrh, warranted to relieve the most stubborn case of Asthma in five minutes, so that the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Please read the following condensed extracts from unsolicited testimonials, all of recent date: Oliver V. R. Holmes, San Jose, Cal., writes: "I find the Remedy all and even more than represented. I receive instantaneous relief!" E. M. Carson, A. M., Warren, Kan., writes: "Was treated by eminent physicians of this country and Germany; tried the 'limate of different states—nothing afforded relief like your preparation.'" T. E. Gates, County Treasurer, Philadelphia, Miss., writes: "Have used the Remedy. Would not live without it. Every one that uses it recommends it. We have many other hearty testimonials of cure or relief, and in order that all sufferers from Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever, and kindred diseases may have an opportunity of testing the value of the Remedy we will send to any address trial package free of charge.
