LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Special Notice.

For the past few weeks we have been sending out quite a number of extra papers. These will be discontinued after to-day, except to those who have made or will make arrangements for a continuance. We would be pleased to include every one in this list, if they will give us the proper authority. Please try and send your order before the next issue.

—Hoopa! Now for thanksgiving. —Our paper is a day late on account of waiting for returns from the election.

—Mrs. N. A. and Miss Lizzie Watson of Colon, Mich., are the guests of Mrs. Dr. Hunter.

—R. M. Herman has moved into that part of Judge Reck's house formerly occupied by Dr. Coburn.

—Tuesday was as lovely a day as ever a November sun shone on, and how the boys rolled up the majorities!

—At this writing the latest indications from the elections and otherwise are, that we will have some cold, stormy weather.

—Now that the elections are over look out for an influx of hunters. Whole caravans are generally noticeable about these times.

—Thanksgiving will occur on Thursday, the 25th inst., according to President Cleveland's proclamation. Plenty time in which to fatten that turkey.

—Harvey Foreman's tool chest was pried open on Wednesday night last, but none of the tools were disturbed. Looks as though some thieves had been prowling around.

—"Golden Days" for November has arrived, check full of the choicest reading matter for the young. Subscribe for it. James Elverson, Publisher, Philadelphia, Pa.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ledebur were in town a few hours on Monday. Mr. L. informs us that their new grist mill (Ledebur & Bowman's) at East Hickory, will be ready to set in motion in about two weeks.

—Mr. Lee Cromer and sister, Miss Ella, of Nebraska, were in town Monday and paid our sanction a pleasant visit. Our thanks are due Mrs. Cromer for a large supply of excellent eating apples.

—Butler gets a big boom in the removal of the Diston & Sons' saw works from Philadelphia to that place. The citizens offer the company 10 acres of land and a gas well free and will put down another gas well if necessary. Some 500 men will be employed at this establishment.

—We learn that a son of Mr. Park Copeland, of Hickory township, met with a severe accident this morning, by a log rolling over one of his legs. We are without particulars, but understand the limb was badly crushed. The same young man was very seriously injured about three years ago.

—Miss Maud Davis, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. M. Irwin during the past week, returned this afternoon to Tionesta. During her stay here Miss Davis received a continuous greeting from her Franklin friends, and many are regretting that her plans limited her visit to so brief a time.—Franklin News.

—The store of J. B. Machesney at Neiltown, was entered by burglars on Friday night last, but no goods to any amount were taken. The front door had been forced; the money drawers were broken open, but Mr. M. had left no money in them. They were evidently a hungry set, for they made way with several cans of estables.

—Hon. M. W. Tate, of Tionesta, was in town on Monday. He has been in the county for several days addressing meetings. He spoke at Oakland, Oak Ridge, Kellersburg, Apollo and Freeport. He is a good talker.—Kittanning Free Press.

—Persons who have received hoards should look out. A new counterfeit five dollar gold piece is now being circulated. To detect it from a good one look closely at the "United," and if the "u" is upside down refuse it, as it is the only way they can be detected by a person not expert in examining counterfeit money.—Blizzard. Say, Brother, how do you know?

—Dr. Siggis and R. M. Herman have "pooled their issues" and together moved into the corner room of the Kepler & Foreman building, where they will in future conduct the drug and grocery business. The Doctor will have a fine drug store when once in proper order, while Rob will continue to furnish his customers with the freshest and best the market affords in the grocery line.

—Hallow 'e'en occurring on Sunday this year the usual frolic was sort of divided. On Saturday some of the smaller boys were busy, but on Monday night larger "boys" seem to have taken a hand in giving the town a turning over, as the evidences showed clearly that muscle was required for some of the work done. The pranks were all of a respectable character, and no serious damage was done.

—Mr. August Weingard, who has spent the past six years in the far west, returned last week, and will again take up his residence amid his old friends. Mr. W. has had quite a varied experience during his absence, and has traveled in nearly every state and territory west of the Mississippi, particularly in the mining regions. His descriptions of the country, its ways and manners is quite entertaining.

—The Premium Engraving issued by Peterson's Magazine—that paragon of lady's books—for getting up clubs for 1887, is of very great beauty. It is a first-class line and stipple engraving, executed in the highest style of art—size, 21 inches by 27—called "Mother's Darling," and would be an ornament, framed, for any parlor. Specimens of the Magazine sent, gratis, to those wishing to get up clubs. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

—On Saturday evening last our young friend Edward Dewoody took the train for Cincinnati, having received the sad intelligence, a few hours previous, of the sudden death of his father, Mr. Andrew Dewoody, well known to all of our older class of people, by whom he was very generally respected as a man and citizen. He was a plasterer by trade and much of his work in early years still remains in some of the residences of this place. We are without particulars as to the cause of his death. His age was about 55 years. In addition to the foregoing we clip the following from the Franklin News: "This forenoon Rev. J. M. Dewoody received a dispatch from Cincinnati announcing the death of his brother, Andrew Dewoody, in that city. His death must have been quite sudden, as Andrew was in this city recently attending the funeral of his mother, and looking as well as any of the five brothers. Deceased was born in this city June 30th, 1832, and was therefore fifty-four years of age. He has a son living in Forest county. We are without further particulars at this writing, except that the present intention of the family is to bring the remains to Franklin for interment."

—Mr. Lee Cromer and sister, Miss Ella, of Nebraska, were in town Monday and paid our sanction a pleasant visit. Our thanks are due Mrs. Cromer for a large supply of excellent eating apples.

—Butler gets a big boom in the removal of the Diston & Sons' saw works from Philadelphia to that place. The citizens offer the company 10 acres of land and a gas well free and will put down another gas well if necessary. Some 500 men will be employed at this establishment.

—We learn that a son of Mr. Park Copeland, of Hickory township, met with a severe accident this morning, by a log rolling over one of his legs. We are without particulars, but understand the limb was badly crushed. The same young man was very seriously injured about three years ago.

—Miss Maud Davis, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. M. Irwin during the past week, returned this afternoon to Tionesta. During her stay here Miss Davis received a continuous greeting from her Franklin friends, and many are regretting that her plans limited her visit to so brief a time.—Franklin News.

Taylor & Torrey are starting a test in the same neighborhood. Barnum & Co. are drilling near Newmanville." It is believed the Berry & Co. venture on 5192 has found a good sand, and if not a good well it will at least satisfy the owners that they have oil in the immediate vicinity.

An important wildcat venture is reported shut down on top of sand, on lot 5,192, near Tionesta. Mr. Berry, the owner, is at present suffering from a severe illness. There will be nothing more done at the well probably until his recovery.—Derrick.

Notes By the Way.

In the company of a very good man who kindly gave us a seat in his carry-all, limited to two for comfort and four for emergency, we traveled over part of Kingsley township; not a bad township by-the-way, and, no doubt, with a good future before it.

At German Hill we were right royally entertained by Henry Zuendel Esq. than whom Kingsley has no more hospitable citizen. In the brightness of an autumn day German Hill puts on the aspect of a quiet, well ordered, peaceably disposed, home like farming community, and a ride over its ever recurring hills and through its constantly occurring valleys along its winding roads is more than of common-place to him "who delights to commune with Nature when in peaceful mood she sits her down in vale or on hill, glorious in holiday dress bright with the memory of a well done life work just ended."

We made a few notes at Whig Hill. Here they are: The new church on Whig Hill is going right up. It is of the Evangelical persuasion, and stands up on the top of the high knoll just beyond Mr. Beck's farm from Whig Hill, on the left side of the Whig Hill and Hickory road. When completed this will make the third church built on Whig Hill within 7 or 8 years and all included in a radius of less than a mile and a half.

The sheds that stood at the Braceville school house, put there by Henry Brace for the accommodation of church goers when Braceville was a regular appointment, have been taken down, hauled over to Whig Hill, and set up on the M. E. Church grounds there. The shed is 48x20 with shingle roof, and divided into six stalls; one of these is boxed off, with door, lock, and key, and dedicated to the comfort of the preacher's horse on preaching days when his time for staying is limited. For let it be understood that no minister's horse will be allowed to hang out to a bush or fence post for want of shelter as long as Whig Hill retains its present population. A belfry will be built to the front of the M. E. Church and a 1000 pound bell hung therein this fall. A water well will be drilled in the church yard. A campmeeting on the grounds is contemplated next summer; there will be every facility for such a meeting; grounds with a fine grove already furnished with stand and seats; a bell to call the people; water from a good well; a church convenient if needed; and people willing to help such a work along.

Both the stores on the Hill are doing a good business. Mr. Gillespie is building a ware-room to his store. Mr. G. is also building a cosy little dwelling house just below the school house. We do not know—no, of course we don't, but if it ever comes to pass we'll invoke the geniuses who presided at our birth and burn midnight oil until the dome of our office is grimy with the smoke but that we'll tender our "best wishes" is fitting letters.

Some of the schools of Kingsley are already open for the winter. The teachers already engaged are: Starr, Ida Weikel; Ross Run, Nina Sallade; Newtown, Lizzie Guenther; Kellerville, Belle Lewis; Panther Rock, E. E. Zuendel; Whig Hill, Boyd Woods. Wages $27 00 or $28.00. At Ross Run and Whig Hill slate black boards will be put in. The Ross Run house has been repaired; a new foundation put under, new sills, and lined and coiled on the inside.

Oil News.

In its monthly oil report for October the Blizzard has this to say of developments in this county and vicinity: "Developments in Elk and Forest counties southwest of Kane have not been attended with any decided measure of success. Dry holes were met with on 5663, 3664 and 3671, and while the Armstrong & B-ggs well on 2032 is considered good for about 6 or 8 barrels of oil a day. Sill & Odell have an important venture near the sand on 3779, while Hughes & Co. have started two more tests, one on 2033 and one on 2026. In the western part of Forest county, Als-house has completed a third gas well on 2824. The supply comes from the Speechey sand. The Roth & Cornwall venture on 5134 is pronounced a failure. Bert & Co. are conducting a wild cat experiment on 5192 while Surrounding News.

Mary Lyons, of Columbus, who has not been able to talk above a whisper for three years, suddenly recovered her voice last week.

Titusville was visited by a $20,000 fire on Sunday night, which burned a considerable portion of the chemical works. Fully covered by insurance.

The unveiling of Bartholdi's statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World" took place in New York on Thursday of last week. There was a big crowd in attendance, and the ceremonies were conducted on gigantic scale.

A conflagration causing the loss of nearly a quarter of a million of dollars and probably several lives, occurred in the Knight & Leonard six story building, 109 and 111 East Madison street, Chicago, between 4 and 5 o'clock Tuesday morning.

A Pittsburgh murder case has been exploded. About ten days ago the remains of a female was found on a dump in the river. The coroner was making arrangements to hold the inquest and authorities were doing their best to discover the name of the victim, when it was discovered that the deceased was a mummy over three thousand years old. An ignorant janitor had secretly removed it from the cellar of a female college.

An observing eastern exchange remarks: Since it became fashionable for young ladies to wear a collar and necktie, their superiority to men has been fully demonstrated. You never see a lady with her necktie over her ears. A brief trial of six months has taught women more in the necktie wearing art than men have learned in 6,000 years. A human being that can make a necktie stay in place should have the right to cast two ballots at every election.

An important decision was rendered in McKean county court last week, bearing directly upon the validity of speculative transactions in oil. In 1882 Warren G. Gray of the Bradford Exchange bought for account of Miller & Lewis 15,000 barrels of oil. When the panic came and the market broke suddenly, Gray was left without margins at 95 cents, and finally sold the oil at a loss of $1,616. For this he brought suit, and the only defense set up was the usual one of its being a gambling transaction, and therefore not legally collectable. The court held differently, however, and the jury returned a verdict for Gray for the debt and interest which now amounts to $2,400.—Warren Mail.

TO TEACHERS.

We would like to get a complete list of all the children and persons of legal school age not in attendance at school the coming winter term. In order to accomplish this we would suggest that each teacher get a complete list of all the pupils belonging to his school as soon after school opens—or, before school opens—as possible. This can be done with little trouble. Check off the list as fast as they come in all enrolled in the school. Those remaining will be the ones we wish to know of.

Let these names be written in a column down along the left side of a sheet of paper; and opposite each name write the reason for not attending school. The teacher must be careful in getting this item of information that it shall be accurate; and the inquiries made in getting the information should be conducted so as to give no offense to any one. Where pupils are kept out to work please note whether necessarily or unnecessarily. Where the cause can not be ascertained write "unknown."

Two lists should be made:—one of those between 6 and 16; the other of those between 16 and 21. Please have these lists made out as early as possible, and at all events one week before the meeting of the Institute. A copy of the list should be sent to the county superintendent so as to reach him two or three days before the Institute. The reason is obvious.

Let each teacher try to make the acquaintance of every boy and girl in his district. Of course it is not expected that teachers will overstep the boundaries of a sensible propriety in making the acquaintance of these boys and girls. It will pay to make the effort to get acquainted with them.

J. E. HILLARD, Co. Supt. —Miss Maud Davis will take a limited number of pupils at her home, after Oct. 20th. Terms $1.00 a lesson.

WRITING.

From the very first day of the term to the very last one attention should be paid to writing. Each day and every day there should be a definite time both as to location and length for a writing exercise. Pre-eminently, writing is one of the things that must be learned by the doing of it. From 15 to 20 minutes should be given daily to writing. It is advisable that the whole school take part in the exercise. If pupils are not supplied with writing material let them use slate and pencil or blackboard; have them all write in some way. Pupils may learn to write by writing "when they have time," or when they "have nothing else to do," but they will learn and learn better by having a regular time for writing. If in addition to this pupils wish to write when they have leisure from other work we see no reason to say anything against it.

As to the time when, we would suggest just before recess in the forenoon. All the pupils who will be present during the half day will be present against that time. If the ink has been frozen it can be thawed against that time. The pupils will be likely to be in proper physical as well as proper mental condition for the exercise.

No other work should be done during the time for writing. There are now nine branches required by law to be taught in the common schools. But of all these reading, writing, and arithmetic are the three in which it is desirable every pupil should be made quite proficient in the common school. We do not intimate that the other branches are useless,—not at all; each has a valuable use in the economy of education. But we do insist that pupils should be made as proficient as possible in these three. Arithmetic gets all the time it should have, generally. But there is a tendency to neglect reading and writing, and especially writing. This should not be.

A teacher must use his judgment as to time for writing, both in length and plan. While it is true that time is an important factor in the study of any of the branches yet time is not everything. The way in which the time is used, and the manner in which the work is done have much to do with results. J. E. HILLARD, Co. Supt.
