LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

—William Richards of Mayburg, was in town on Monday.
—Mrs. David McCloskey of Tylersburg, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. O. Davis.
—Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Emert of Tionesta Township, on Friday, Jan. 21st, 1887, a son.
—The revival meetings in progress at Nebraska have been attended with good success. They are still going on.
—The spring elections occur two weeks from next Tuesday, but as yet we hear of no one that's dying for office.
—Mrs. Bonner of Stoneboro, accompanied by one of her grand children, is visiting with her son, Charles Bonner.
—A Teachers' local Institute will be held at Whig Hill, commencing on Friday evening and continuing over Saturday. It is held at the solicitation of the teachers. All are invited.
—At the close of the school term at West Hickory just before Christmas, the patrons of the school there subscribed funds enough to keep the school running for another month.
—Quarterly Meeting services will be held in the F. M. Church, Tionesta, beginning Friday evening, February 11th, and continuing over Sabbath. Rev. J. F. Michael, chairman, will have charge of the meeting. All are cordially invited.
—In addition to the reward offered by the committee, Miss Everhart herself offers a reward of $450, making the reward offered $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of Mrs. Everhart and her mother, Mrs. Gilfillan.—Clarion Democrat.
—Representative Randall came home from Harrisburg on Saturday, and returned on Monday. He has been appointed on the following important House committees: Ways and Means, Elections, Federal Relations, and Military Measures.
—"Adam the goodliest man of men since born," still could not be called exactly enviable, for when he tilted the ground in the dewy twilight and caught a sharp touch of rheumatism, he had no Salvation Oil for his cure, and no twenty five cents to try it.
—The ice went out of the river on Sunday morning. It started from here about half past nine o'clock, and moved out very quietly. No damage was done here. So far as we can learn no damage of any account was done anywhere along the river either up or down.
—Miss Flora Walters who has been absent from home for the last four months returned home on Saturday. She attended an Art School in Pittsburgh up to Jan. 1st, since when she has been visiting with friends there. She expects to return in about two weeks.
—On January 12th, Mrs. Bennett of this place received a telegram from Erie, telling of the death of her brother Henry F. Dighton, at that place. Mrs. Bennett went to Erie to attend the funeral. It was conducted by Strong Vincent Post, G. A. R., and Erie Lodge, A. O. U. W., Rev. Moir officiating. Mr. Dighton was also a member of the Pa. Relief Corps.
—A new scheme of "bill raising" is being practiced in neighboring cities. The scheme is to "raise" $1 and $10 bills to $10 and $20 bills by pasting over the corner amounts, figures cut from cigar stumps. In certain bills the figure and scrollwork are quite similar. To conceal the numbers on the back strips of paper are pasted on lengthwise, with the apparent purpose of meeting the torn ends.

—Hon. J. B. Agnew returned the latter part of last week from a pleasant trip extending as far South as Asheville, North Carolina. He went by way of Washington, D. C., and came back by way of Harrisburg, getting there in time to see the State administration turned over into the hands of our gallant General Beaver, and also to see Quay elected Senator.

—Mittens, Gloves, Wool Hose, Underwear, Pants, Rubber Boots and Shoes, at Wm. Smearbaugh & Co's.
—The Wesleyans will hold quarterly services at the Balltown School House near Pithole, commencing Saturday evening, February 5th. Rev. Thomas K. Doty will conduct the meeting and preach in above school house Saturday evening and Sabbath morning; and will preach in the Wesleyan Church, Stewarts Run, Sabbath evening, February 6th. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

—Rev. W. F. Wood of Oil City, delivered a very able Temperance lecture on Constitutional Amendment, in the Presbyterian church on Monday evening last. Beginning with yesterday (Tuesday) evening, revival services will be held every evening during the week at the Presbyterian Church by Rev. Hickling assisted by Rev. Wood. There will be communion service next Sabbath at 11 o'clock a. m.
—One of Attorney General Cassidy's last official acts was to refuse the application for a writ of quo warranto in the case of Judge Theophilus Wilson, of Clarion county, who, it is alleged, secured his election by bribery and corruption. The application for the writ was made several months ago and after argument has been held under advisement until now. Judge Wilson is the Republican successor of the Democratic Judge Corbett.

—Superintendent Hillard calls our attention to the fact that quite an error has somehow crept into the statistical report of Forest County in the item of visits to schools by the Superintendent. The number of visits as given in the published report is 188, (school year of 1886), which is correct. The average length of a visit is reported as 1.30 hours, which Superintendent Hillard says is incorrect; it should be 2.48 hours. He gives us the following figures: Whole number of visits, 188; whole number of hours spent in the schools, 467 04; average, 2.48 hours.

—The late John Jordon Upchurch, founder of the A. O. U. W., was born in Franklin county, Mo., in 1820. Having learned the machine business, he finally filled a position in the A. & G. W. shops at Meadville, Pa. It was while in that city that he perfected a beneficiary order for working men, and on the evening of Oct. 27, 1868, himself and six others met and organized the first lodge of A. O. U. W., naming it Jefferson Lodge No. 1. Father Upchurch, as his friends loved to call him, was for a time a resident of this city, and at the time of his death was a member of Franklin Lodge, No. 3, of this city, which was the third lodge established. Before his death he saw the order increase to 14,500 members in this State and 170,000 in the United States.—Franklin News —On Friday evening last the prisoner confined in the jail got out, but was recaptured and brought back. He had complained to the Sheriff that want of exercise was wearing on his health so that he could not sleep well nights. Sheriff Agnew accordingly gave him the freedom of the hall and yard for a part of the evening, not suspecting that he had any intention of escaping. He had borrowed a needle and thread to mend his clothes, and had come into possession of a knife. He had torn some blankets into strips and knotted and sewed the strips together in such a way as to make a very serviceable ladder. At the time the jail-yard wall was repaired by having an inclined top placed on it, a plank was left, extending across the top of the old wall, either simply because it was forgotten, or to hold the walls together, we do not know which. Throwing the rope ladder up over the plank he easily climbed to the top of the wall, and as easily climbed down the outside. Sheriff Agnew discovering the flight drove to Newmansville, going by way of Nebraska, and putting up his team started back to Tionesta on foot over the Tylersburg road, and met his man, as he anticipated, and within a mile of Newmansville.

Stewarts Run.

Frank Thomson left on Monday for Crawford county, where he has been engaged to work on Zahniser & Langworthy's saw mill. We will miss you Frank.

W. N. Zahniser is home, suffering from an attack of quinsy.
J. G. Bromley killed a two year-old beef a few days since, which dressed 600 lbs. We think that is hard to beat in this vicinity.
Jacob J. Zahniser returned from his visit to Mercer, last Saturday, and reports a pleasant time while there.

There are a number of children in the neighborhood suffering from lung disease.

Notes By the Way.

The finest roads we have ever had, or, at least, as fine, very quietly disappeared on Friday and Saturday last. The thaw was from the outside and not what could be called "a ground thaw." There was very little rain, but a very warm sunshine and warm winds. In many places, especially where the roads are protected by the woods, all that is needed to make good sleighing is a little snow and some freezing weather—and that we'll have soon, we think.

Business seems to be very brisk in the lumber woods this winter. Probably as much square timber will be put in at Clarington and the near vicinity this winter as has been put in there in one winter for some time. Some of it is hauled a long distance. At Troutman and at Cookeburg considerable timber is being put in. Most of the timber that is going in is pine. From what we can learn there is probably not so much activity in the lumber woods above Millstone on the Clarion as there is for the first 15 miles below that place, or, between there and Cookeburg.

McClintock's stove mill that was burnt some time ago is being rebuilt. Samuel Warf has a job of cutting logs on the Coleman tract.

Sylvanus Zeits has the stone and frame timber on the ground for a new barn.

A protracted meeting was held at Clarington closing a short time ago. It resulted in four accessions to the church.

Mrs. Osborne, wife of Thomas Osborne of Clarington, is lying quite ill. But little hopes are entertained for her recovery.

A stick of square timber 60 feet long and containing 401 feet and 3 inches, lies at the Maple Creek landing in one of the timber piles there belonging to the Messrs. Wallace.

Barnett has six schools, with a total enrollment for the winter term of 206.

Indian Department, Washington, D. C.
I am anxious to introduce Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup among my Indians, having used it myself for several months, and think it one of the finest remedies I ever found. I assure you, it is the only thing that ever relieved me of a protracted cough brought on by exposure while on the Sioux Commission last year.

MINNESOTA LETTER.

MINNEAPOLIS, JAN. 1st, 1887.

ED. REPUBLICAN:—

Minneapolis is justly called the "four city" owing to her producing more flour than any other in the world, but if she did not have that honor she might well be termed the "lumber city" for her lumber interests are immense. The head waters of the Mississippi furnish the logs which are floated here for sawing. The mills are large and 17 of them have cut the past year 267 million feet of lumber, 89 million shingles and 55 million lath. The logging season in the pines is now in full blast and it is expected the cut will be about 300 millions. By the way, I went on a little deer hunt last month and had a chance to learn how they handle logs in Minnesota, for I stopped two weeks in a lumber camp and had quite a good opportunity to learn their methods of hauling and handling the logs. I went to Pine county on the St. Paul & Duluth R. R., and got off at a small lumber town called Hinckley, and went out to a friend's camp on Grindstone Creek. The camp is located on the banks of the stream and consists of a cook-house and dining room large enough to feed 50 men at a time, with men's room and sleeping quarters attached, blacksmithshop, offices, barns for cattle and horses, store houses, &c. The proprietor employs from 30 to 40 men this winter and commenced operations about the 1st of December, and will continue as long as snow lasts. He is a former Elk Co., Pa., man, and although he is lumbering on a small scale yet I found quite a difference in their methods from those in vogue in Forest and its adjoining counties. In the first place the country is more level and they can haul to better advantage and draw large loads. They cut their main logging roads free from brush, logs, stumps, &c., at least 20 feet wide. They use 4 horses for hauling, and sleds that track 9 feet, with 12 foot bolsters. When loaded with what is called a big load of logs it looks like a moving skidway full. At this particular camp the timber is three and one-half miles from the buildings; each team generally makes three trips each day. The men working in the woods eat breakfast early enough to enable them to reach their work by the time it is daylight. Their dinner is sent out to them and is of course cold except coffee or tea, which is made over a fire built on purpose. At dark they return to camp for supper. Some of them, especially the green hands, think seven miles walk each day besides working from daylight till dark is pretty tough, but they soon get used to it. The stream upon which they bank and drive their logs is about as big as Tubbs Run at its mouth. It runs through a natural meadow from 4 to 20 rods wide and is very crooked. When a flood comes the stream is 3 or 4 feet deep and thus gives them water to float their logs. It is 10 miles to the mill pond and it takes five to six days for them to land their logs in the pond. That is not like driving on the Tionesta when one could drive that far in a day with a fair stage of water. My friend gets $4.50 per thousand for cutting and running. He pays from $18 to $40 per month for his help and boards there. By the way, I lived like a prince at this camp for he provides plenty of good food and his cook is a daisy and no mistake. I never saw a woman cook that could beat him in preparing all kinds of pies, cakes, making coffee, tea, bread, biscuits, cooking meats, &c. No matter at what time a fellow strikes that camp if at midnight and he is hungry he is sure of a well cooked meal and hot tea or coffee. I tried it and I know I suppose some of my old hunting chums would like to hear about my success hunting deer, so here goes: I was accompanied on my trip by a nephew of the owner of the logging camp. We were armed with Kennedy rifles and other indispensable hunting paraphernalia. The day we arrived in camp it was quite warm and the snow soft, but by morning it had frozen hard making a very strong crust but not enough to bear one's weight, consequently every step one made was able to be heard by the deer for 40 rods or more. We soon found plenty of tracks and routed lots of deer, but, being strangers to the woods we did not know their crossings or runways and were not enabled to get good shots. Once and a while we would get a glimpse of one just vanishing; but only a glimpse, and we had no success for several days. A little more snow finally fell and that enabled me to get three good shots out of which I bagged two large bucks and wounded a nice doe, which I did not succeed in getting. My friend had to return home without getting but one shot, and he unfortunately missed his aim and had to go home without any venison. There were large numbers of deer killed but mostly earlier in the season. There is more deer on 10 acres of ground where I hunted, than on 1000 acres in Forest Co. One hunter killed 67; another 23. One young man went out with a common musket the first snow and killed seven in one day. Had I been acquainted with the woods and been there when the snow was soft I believe I could have killed quite a number. One of my bucks weighed dressed 175 lbs.;

the other 150 lbs. By the way, we have venison steak now about every day or as often as we care for it. It was too cold weather for bears so I did not see any, but I found it was no trouble to find them after warm weather comes. They often shoot them out of the camp windows after the snow goes off. Wolves were quite plenty and I saw many tracks and heard them to my satisfaction but did not see any. I went out one night to watch for deer where they are in the habit of coming into the fresh choppings to eat twigs and moss off the fallen tree tops. I stayed until 1:00 a. m., and the wolf concert I listened to was a caution. I was all alone a good ways from camp. It was a good night for wolves to bowl but they did not come very near, but owing to the racket the deer were shy and kept away that particular night. I went out one other night and was accompanied by the lumberman's son and as I was just about to get a shot the young fellow got tired of watching his location and came up in plain sight of the deer scaring him away from me. I secured the finest head of deer horns while there I ever saw and am now having it put up by a noted taxidermist; it beats them all. As to small game there are plenty of pheasants or grouse where I hunted, but I only shot a few; they were very tame; also rabbits were plenty, but I did not try to kill any, yet I had to almost kick them out of my way before they would run. As for fish this State contains lakes without number and they are all filled with fish. West of here in the oak timber, squirrels are plenty, and in spring and fall wild ducks are very plenty about most of the lakes and marshes. I went out a couple of times last fall and brought home all I wanted to carry. Well, friend Jake, I am sure when you unwrap this bundle you will draw down your lip and say this is longer than the time you have been expecting to hear from me, but you know what to do with it; either consign it to the waste basket, or prune it down with the editor's friend, the scissors. You can assure your readers of one thing and that is, I am prepared to prove all the figures I have given you as to this state and city, but if any one wants to be convinced of the present and future greatness of this "Great Northwest" let him come out here and see for himself. Wishing you and all my friends a Happy New Year,
I am, Yours Truly,
W. C. COBURN.

DIED.

On the morning of January 25th, 1887, at 9 o'clock, at Mayburg, Forest county, Pa., Mrs. E. Green, aged 64 years.
Mrs. Green was a sister of William and Rinaldo Tobey. She has been a confirmed invalid for three years past. The funeral will take place at Frewsburg, N. Y., on Thursday the 27th inst., at 11 o'clock, a. m.
On January 10th, 1887, at the residence of Mr. James W. Ward, in Jenks township, Miss Isabel A. Scott, aged 72 years.
Miss Scott emigrated from Philadelphia, April 14th, 1854, in company with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ward, she being Mrs. Ward's eldest sister. She was a true and sincere christian, and was well known in Forest and Clarion counties, having come to these parts when the county was a dense wilderness with a sparse population. She always resided with Mr. and Mrs. Ward, and on Wednesday morning last was laid to rest by the side of her sister at the Leponto cemetery, her remains being followed, after mass, by a large number of sorrowing friends.

A Great Surprise
Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that each druggist is authorized to refund your money by the Proprietor of this wonderful remedy if it fails to cure you. G. W. Bovard has secured the Agency for it. Price 50c. and $1. Trial size free.

Excitement in Texas.
Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at G. W. Bovard's.

The Population of Tionesta.
Is about 700, and we would say at least one half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all not to neglect the opportunity to call on us and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial size free. Respectfully, G. W. Bovard.

The Verdict Unanimous.
W. D. Sult, Druggist, Rippon, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belville, Ohio, testifies: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 30 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at G. W. Bovard's Drug Store.
