—Citizen Muenzenberger is away at Meadville on a visit with friends. BORN—To Mr and Mrs. Jacob Sig-gins of Tionesta, on Friday, February 4, a son.

—Oil City parties are building a rig on John A. Dawson's farm, Stewarts Run. —Attorneys J. B. Agnew and Miles W. Tate, are attending court at Warren this week.

—The Stewarts Run school has challenged the Nebraska school to a spelling match. BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Sye Neill of Neilltown, on Monday morning, January 31, a son.

—Hon N. P. Wheeler of East Hickory, was in town on Monday, and made the REPUBLICAN a pleasant call. —The revival meetings at the Presbyterian church began again Monday evening, and will continue until Friday evening.

—Up to Saturday evening last, there had been twenty-one converts as a result of the revival meetings, at Nebraska. —Haskell & Co. have put in a saw-mill at Pine Hollow, Green township, and will be ready for cutting as soon as spring opens.

—Taylor, Wolcott & Co., are putting down a well on Little Hickory, about 2 1/2 miles back from the river. They started the drill the first of the week.

—The continuous rain of the past few days has swelled the river and creek greatly, causing the ice to go out the creek yesterday. No damage is reported.

—Dr. Morrow departed on Monday afternoon to visit his old home in Atwood, Armstrong Co., and to attend to some unsettled business. He expects to be absent until Friday or Saturday.

—O. W. Proper, accompanied by his sister Euretta, left Tionesta, Monday morning of this week, for New York. They will visit other places East before their return, which will be in about three weeks.

—Sheriff Agnew is away at Harrisburg this week as a delegate from the Capt. George Stowe Post to the 21st annual encampment of the G. A. R. of Pa. The encampment meets Tuesday and Wednesday.

—N. K. Burton of Marienville, made the REPUBLICAN office a friendly and substantial financial call on Monday. Mr. Burton has been a resident of Old Forest for nearly 29 years. He reports business lively at the Center.

—"Hope for a season bids the world farewell," when a man finds himself in the relentless grasp of neuralgia, but he smiles and takes heart and courage when his wife brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

—A correspondent of one of our exchanges asks what is the best thing to do with a sixteen-year old son who will not work nor go to school. If we were allowed to give advice in the matter, we would say, wait until the frost goes out of the ground in the spring, and then plant him.—Blissard.

—Coal Oil or Petroleum may be very nice for illuminating or lubricating purposes, but surely it is not the proper thing to cure a cough with. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is looked upon as the standard cough remedy.

—Quarterly Meeting services will be held in the F. M. Church, Tionesta, beginning Friday evening, February 11th, and continuing over Sabbath, Rev. J. F. Michael, chairman, will have charge of the meeting. All are cordially invited.

—"An Licking of Buffalo," is the name of a pamphlet designed to advertise the city of Buffalo almost wholly through the artists' pencil. It is neat, pretty, unique, and well worth the 25 cents asked for it. C. W. Sumner, publisher, Buffalo, N. Y.

—Postal Notes which were formerly drawn upon a designated post-office, and could only be paid at the issuing office or the office drawn upon, are now made payable at any money order office, which is a great convenience to persons holding them.

—Does the editor of the Franklin News know the difference between ivory and gold?—Corry Leader. Well, possibly he does, on close inspection; leastwise he doesn't fall into the Corry error of dropping poker chips into the contribution box in place of coin.—Franklin News.

—Quarterly meeting services at Nebraska, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, February 18, 19, and 20. Presiding Elder Bray will preach, and hold Quarterly Conference, on Friday evening. Rev. Williams of Allegheny College will conduct the meetings Saturday and Sunday. All are invited.

—Among those registering at the Horton house are Messrs. T. D. and E. S. Collins, from Nebraska, Pa. These gentlemen have been identified with the Pennsylvania oil fields and started out this morning to look over the surface indications. When the ground becomes more moist they will proceed to investigate the lower geological formations.—San Diego, (Cal.) Union.

—The now famous case of Grandin & Berry vs. L. F. Watson, involving the title to a small piece of oil land in the Baltow oil field, is on trial at Warren. Monday's Paragraph says: "An army of lawyers and witnesses are employed in court this afternoon in conducting the trial of the suit of Berry & Grandin vs. Watson." This is the fourth time that this case has been on trial.

—Counterfeit silver dollars are said to be in circulation and are so cleverly executed as to be calculated to deceive almost any one. They are said to be exactly the same weight as the genuine coin, and have the same ring. On the counterfeit there is a peculiar curve in the letter 'd' in the motto "In God We Trust," the 'd' sloping backward like an italic letter.

—Miss Kate Guenther, Teacher of Beaver Valley school, makes the following report for month ending February 1, '87: Whole number enrolled, males, 17; females, 16. Present every day during month: Veroie, Bertie, and Maggie Byerly, Olive Kiffer, George and Wilbur Miller, Nelson and Leonard Mervin, Lafayette Littlefield, and Roland Kiffer. Absent only one or two days: Henrietta Kiffer, Minnie Brecht, and Charlie Littlefield.

—Death of I. P. Siggins. Siggins.—At the residence of his brother A. J. Siggins, at West Hickory, Pa., on Monday evening, February 7, 1887, at midnight, I. P. Siggins, aged 38 years and 9 months.

Mr. Siggins met with an accident while drilling on a well at Grand Valley, about eight months ago, and which resulted in his death as above stated. He was a son of William Siggins of Hickory, and was one of eight brothers, and three sisters. Six brothers are now living, and one sister. He was a single man.

Plummer Siggins, as he was familiarly known, was born and grew to manhood at West Hickory. He all ways bore a good reputation. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him. For a number of years past he has followed the oil business as an operator. He was laid to rest in the Siggins' burying ground on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Small conducting the funeral services. The large number of people who followed his remains to the grave attest well that he held a high place in the affections of his many friends, for enemies he had none.

THE ST. PETERSBURG MURDER.

On Saturday afternoon last St. Petersburg, Clarion county, was the scene of a miserable tragedy in which James C. Davis was brutally murdered by David King in a house of ill fame kept by Mrs. Ella Dinsmore. We clip the following account of the affair from the Emlenton Critic:

The cause that led to this crime date back several months. Last November Davis sold several oil wells near Keating's furnace, and from them realized about $1,300. He then came to St. Petersburg and unluckily fell into the clutches of Mrs. Dinsmore, who, knowing he had money, used all her arts and succeeded in gaining such an influence over him that he spent all his money in making her presents. He bought the Dr. McCombs property, paying for it $600, and gave it among others. She took possession of it at once, and in that house met his death. After getting his money she quarreled with him and he in disgust left for St. Louis where his wife, from whom he has been separated for some time, now lives. He stayed there until last Thursday when he came back to St. Petersburg to try and recover his squandered property. During his absence King had become a favorite of Mrs. Dinsmore, and evidently was quite jealous of Davis, with whom he said he would have trouble. That Davis anticipated trouble with his wife is shown by the letters that were found on his person. Mrs. Dinsmore's account of the shooting is that on the afternoon mentioned the deceased came to her house and soon became so busterous that her daughter, Lill, went to get officers to eject him. While she was gone he drew a revolver and threatened to shoot her. To escape him she ran into a bed-room adjoining the dining-room and attempting to follow he was met by King, who, without a word, fired the fatal shot. King corroborates the woman's story, and says he fired to save her life. As they were the only witnesses of the deed there is no positive evidence that their statement is not true, but it is generally believed, however, that the deed was premeditated by King, who was lying in wait for his victim. The motive is assigned to jealousy. It is said that he was heard to make threats on several occasions, but we are not sure that such is the case. At the time of shooting he was stripped of his coat and vest which looks as if he was prepared for an anticipated fight. Public sentiment is strongly against him, and when night came the feeling was so bitter that had he been in the town the county would undoubtedly have been saved the cost of a trial. The officers having the prisoner in charge anticipated this and did not wait for the evening train but drove to Clarion and at eight o'clock placed him safely in jail.

David King is about 35 years old, and is about as tough a citizen as Clarion county possesses. He is utterly devoid of all principles of manhood, and has lost all self-respect, if he ever possessed any. He is depraved, dissipated and has not a particle of good in his whole composition. His former home was in Rousseville. He came to St. Petersburg in 1873 and has lived there since. When he came there the oil excitement was at its height, and he commenced a life of depravity. At one time he was an inmate of the Kittanning jail, but for what offense has been forgotten. Shortly after coming to St. Petersburg he married an inmate of a bagnio, named Kit Whalen, and to her credit, it is said, that for years after her marriage she led a virtuous life. She connected herself with a church, became a consistent Christian, and gained the respect of her neighbors, who encouraged her in her efforts to reform. She supported her worthless husband for years, and frequently he would take the money earned at the wash-tub and spend it for whiskey. At last he became so brutal that she abandoned him, and drifted back into her former life. She now has a bagnio in Buffalo. Fortunately they have no children. King has never been known to do a day's work, yet he always has money and good clothes. He has always been a hanger-on of houses of illrepute, and has been supported by their inmates. He has sunk about as low as a man well can.

J. C. Davis was about 45 years of age, and served through the greater part of the late war. Until he fell in with Mrs. Dinsmore he had led a quiet, respectable life, esteemed by his friends, and was regarded as an honorable and upright citizen. The only disgrace attached to him resulted from his infatuation with this woman. Upon his person were found a sum of money, a watch, some papers, two vials of medicine, a half pint of whiskey, and two letters, one addressed to Dr. I. J. Wireback and the other to Hon. A. M. Neely. The letter to Dr. Wireback was a request that in case anything happened to him to telegraph to his wife in St. Louis, and if possible, to send her his watch and revolvers. The letter to Mr. Neely contained the same request, and in addition were some directions about disposing of his property. It is thought by some that the deceased had a lien against the property he has given to the woman, but no proof of it has yet been found.

The committee appointed to examine and report upon the State Normal School building in this place will meet here on February 15th, 1887, at 10 o'clock, a. m. The committee is composed of the following persons: Dr. J. P. Wick-rhann, Lancaster, Pa.; Ex-Senator J. M. Lee, Franklin, Pa.; Ex-Senator John M. Greer, Butler, Pa.; G. C. Orr, Esq., Kittanning, Pa.; Dr. Higbee, State Superintendent, and Henry Houck, Deputy State Superintendent, together with the County Superintendents of Jefferson, Forest, McKean, Warren and Clarion counties.—Clarion Jacksonian.

READING.

Reading may be silent or oral. Silent reading consists in getting the thought from the thing read. In silent reading the attention is directed principally to the meaning of the words in their arrangement, and their arrangement, in the sentence. Oral reading consists not only in getting the thought, but also in expressing the thought in oral language. It involves all implied in oral reading, and more. The meaning of the words as factors of a sentence must be understood. And the words must be pronounced. In order to read well, the attention must be directed principally to the thought, and to its expression. Words must be pronounced, it is true, but there is a wide difference between reading, and word-pronouncing. The mind through the eye must take notice of the words as individuals, and the voice must pronounce them individually; but the mind notices the words only for the purpose of getting the ideas they represent, and the voice speaks them only for the purpose of expressing those same ideas. But the eye notices, also, the manner in which the words are arranged, or linked together, and the voice expresses this arrangement by means of pauses, inflections, emphasis, pitch, force, rate, etc., and the thousand and one peculiar intonations of which the voice is capable. Most people talk well, so far as making themselves understood is concerned. They concern themselves with what they wish to say, and use the words only with which they are familiar, and use the arrangement that comes readily and easily; and there is no hesitancy at words that are mispronounced. The attention is directed to the thought almost entirely. Words and expression are only means of conveying the thought. The thought generally furnishes its own expression. Reading is more formal than speaking. Usually it is the thought of another, the words of another, and arranged in an order somewhat, probably very much, different from the reader's way of thinking, or putting the thought. In speaking, the words used are much helped by various gestures and expressions of voice and hands and face and body. In fact, these are depended on as helps. When the thought is put in written words all these devices are absent, and much more depends on the words themselves. It follows, then, that if the correct idea represented by a word is most correctly given by the most correct pronunciation of the word, that great accuracy must be observed in pronouncing the words used. Let the fifth reading class in any school be called. The object sought with this class is to make them good readers. In order to read the lesson well now before them, it is necessary that the class be almost wholly occupied with the thought in that lesson. The words of the lesson are so many vehicles on which the thought comes laden. We use the words simply to get and give the thought. So far as getting the thought is concerned it is not necessary to be able to pronounce the word; but it is necessary to know the meaning of the word. The thought is the principal thing. We must become familiar with the thought; so familiar that we can anticipate what follows, or is associated with the thought now being expressed. And we must also become familiar with the way in which the thought is presented; the standpoint from which the subject is viewed; the order in which it is developed. A half dozen persons thinking the same thought would express it in as many ways. We must learn to think as our author thinks, before we can be so familiar with the thought as to tell it as he tells it. We must become so familiar with the pronunciation of the words that the attention is not directed away from the idea or thought, to struggle with pronunciation of the word. For a pupil to stop in the middle of a sentence to wrestle with the pronunciation of a word is for him to lose the line of thought and his interest, and to spoil his work. In fact, anything that disturbs and distracts his attention from the line of thought he is following, is an injury, whether it be a word he cannot pronounce or an interruption by the teacher. J. E. HILLARD, Co. Supt.

MARRIED.

DOWNING—ABBOTT.—In Jamestown, N. Y., January 27, 1887, by the Rev. John Peate, D. D., Wolcott E. Downing and Miss Julia Abbott, both of East Hickory, Pa.

RENEW HER YOUTH.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only 50c, at Bovard's Drug Store.

Some Foulish People.

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, Oh, it will wear away, but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. G. W. Bovard.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coeman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at G. W. Bovard's Drug Store.

WHY IS IT PREVALENT?

This rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some members of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlo-phoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proved to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlo-phoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy. The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children. Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application. Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlo-phoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (arrange paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

The Homeiest Man in Tionesta.

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on G. W. Bovard, and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs, a remedy that is selling everywhere upon its merits and is guaranteed to cure all forms of Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.
