The location is 12 miles from San Diego, and comprises the larger portion of the Tiajuana valley. It is all south of the Mexican line. The lands have four miles of sea coast frout. Lands around San Diego, in acre lots, range in value from $50 to $1000 per acre. San Diego is a well built city of 12,-000 inhabitants. It is growing rapidly. Since December last 25,000,000 feet of timber from Oregon has been brought there and sold. The land bought by the Mesars. Collins is the most fertile in that section. The soil is rich, and production and climate, excellent.

-Tuesday night two men, one named Buck from Clarion county, and n Italian, stopped at Wheeler & Dusenbury's boarding house at East Hickory and wanted to stay over night, claiming to be looking for work. Wednesday morning four trunks belonging to boarders were gone through and from seventy-five to one hundred dollars taken, while a number of watches were left. The losses were discovered about noon, and it was also found that the Italian had disappeared. The boys were hot, and a search was instituted as well as messages sent to contiguous points. Some of the boys came up to Tidioute on train 30, receiving information here that their man had gone across the bridge. They started pell mell, caught a man, but he failed to be the one they wanted. The Italian was captured at Warren the same evening and last night was taken to Tionesta. He got $65, to which he confessed, and returned $42.12 to the Constable who went up to Warren after him. - Tidioute News, April 1.

ARBOR DAY.

Governor Beaver has caused to be isued the following proclamation regarding Arbor Day :

"In pursuance of a goodly precedent, and in compliance with a request of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, contained in a concurrent resolution, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1887, I have appointed and designated, and do hereby appoint and designate Friday, the 22d day of April, A. D. 1887, as Arbor Day. And I do earnestly recommend to the people of the Commonwealth that they devote the whole, or at least a portion of the said day, to the planting of trees and shrubbery wherever it may be proper and convenient so to do. Let school directors, teachers and scholars unite in making it a day for the adornment of the grounds surrounding the school houses throughout the Commonwealth. Let the people of our towns and villages make it a day for the planting of trees along their streets. Let the people in our rural regions see to it that their highways are beautified by the planting and improved the talents his Maker gave of trees upon their borders. Let families him. He was one of those good men that observe the day in the planting of trees and shrubbery in the grounds surround- life, true and honorable in his actions, and ing their homes. Let the farmers see to it that the waste places on their farms are turned to profitable account by the planting of timber, nut and fruit trees thereon. Let all the people understand that upon the general observance of this day, and the practical results which arise therefrom, in large measure depend the continuance of regular seasons of rainfall, the tempering of our climate, the beauty of our homes and highways, the timber supply of the future, and a remunerative return

The observance of arbor day is becomng general in many of our States. Its necessity is recognized by those who have given the greatest care and study to the subject, and its practical usefulness is attested by all who have engaged in it.

KANSAS LETTER.

ED. REPUBLICAN:-

wise productive.

I have received letters asking about the probability of work to be had in Kansas. I would say in answer that all over Kansas there is an abundant prospect for work of every description. Kansas is on a general boom, as never before. Every town of any size is on a big run of improvement. Buildings of all kinds are going up in every town: husiness houses, school houses, and family dwellings. Carpenters, Laborers can get all the work they want, that is if they want to work. Men who live here work for a living. Masons, brick-layers, hands to wait on these, plasterers, all command livand command twenty dollars per month and board. Our city, McPherson, is having a grand boom.

Spring is opening out nicely. Our oast winter was a very mild one. Farmers are sowing their oats, and getting their corn ground ready. As reported in my other letter, grain looks well taking everything into consideration. Emigrants are coming in from the East in great numbers. Every day you can count "prairie schooners' by the dozen. There is a great deal of land in the South Western, and Western part of the state, still awaiting filers, that can be preempted or homesteaded. Every day these lands are being filed upon, and it will not be long until all will be taken up. Mr. Editor if you want a farm in Kansas, you had better come soon, or you cannot preempt or homestead one.

> Yours, Respectfully, J. F. HILL.

JOHN M. MUENDEL.

In Memoriam.

The following addresses, the first by D. Irwin, and the second by J. B. Agnew, were read before the meeting of the Forest County Bar, mentioned last week

The purpose for which we have met, ou all well know. It would be mere formality only. a twice told tale to anounce the death of Samuel W. Calvin. priate, paying a tribute to his memory. The We take such action as may be appropresence of members of the bar, as well some citizens, proclaim clearly, the high estimation, in which our brother was held. And his memory is pleasant to reflect upon as that of a good man,

My recollection of him is confined to a decade, and he has been known to most of the members of this bar for about that period of time. The press of Forest ounty has already set forth a brief biography of his earnest useful life. From my observation of him I can say that he has well preformed his part in life, as far as God gave him strength of body so to do. He had a good mind, though a weak body, we are glad to have met in the journey of upright in heart.

It was Goethe who said. "He that doth the best he can does well." Then fitting that line to our departed brother, how well does it become him! Though suffering long, he was always cheerful and confiding, and always did his duty. It is a sad thought that we shall see his cheerful face no more. Latterly he sought actively for the boon of health, like Ponce de Leon seeking for the fountain of eternal youth. he sought health in the open fields, in the pine woods of our own county of Forest, beneath the warm and genial skies of Southern California, and latterly in New Mexico, but he died away from home. away from the scenes of his childhood, away from his dear ones,-his wife and children, away from his triends, on the 22nd of March, at Albuquerque, in the valley of the Rio Grande,-at that strange, ancient town, in the midst of scenes of ancient Aztec civilization, which we read of in the early Western travels of Fremont, the Pathfinder, who describes the temples and their wierd ruins, covered with odd figures representing the worship and history of a by gone age, -an enigma in our history. In this land he died, and though far from home and family, a friend of many years was with him, but better yet the Greater Friend of his whole life was there with him, even his God.

His career was upright and straight, and he loved the truth for its own sake, and though in latter years he suffered like a martyr, he had faith like one, and so he did not fear death, but as our poet Bryant, has expressed it, expired, "Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams." So he passed away, abiding in the faith of his fathers. We are all conscious that a worgood workmen), command a premium. thy man has passed away. Let us cherish his memory, and remember his many

It is with feelings of profound sorrow that I arise to express, briefly, my approbation of the resolutions that have been read, and to move their unanimous adoping wages. Farm hands are wanted, tion. I feel well assured that not only the hearts of our entire association, but also of all those who have known him, have been deeply touched by the sad event we mourn. We all knew well and favorably our lamented friend and brother. For the last nine years I have enjoyed his intimate personal acquaintance and friendship, and felt great anxiety and interest in his recovery. It is sad indeed that one so young possessing ability, energy, and traits of character that would have placed him high upon the ladder of fame in the legal profession, and whose laudable ambition, love have won for him further honors, should have been stricken down in his early manhood by death, leaving a loving wife and three small children to mourn the loss of a kind, loving, affectionate husband and

> To his bereaved widow and children I too offer heartfelt sympathy and condolence. I know that his memory will be forever cherished and revered by them, and am glad to say that I have never heard his integrity and honesty questioned, or his character assailed. This is saying a great deal in our day of criticism, jealousy, vituperation, and slander. Let us emulate his virtues and profit by his example. Sad indeed was I on hearing of his death, and on receiving the following letter from my friend, J. W. Cook :

COOKSBURG, PA., Mar. 23, '87. DEAR FRIEND; -Samuel W. Calvin is dead. Two cold waves of intelligence rolled across the wires bearing the sail news of his fate. The one arrived here night before last, stating that he was sink-ing fast, and no hope. Poor Sam! We then felt that as earthly mortals we should never hear his voice again, that the shadows of the Dark Angel of Death were gathering over him. Our worst predictions were verified by a second telegram arriving at 11:30 a. m., Tuesday, stating he had died at 1:40 that morning, at Albu-querque, New Mexico. His remains are expected here for burial the last of this week. Respectfully, Your Friend, J. W. Cook. This opens to our mind a field for thought,

Is there a more plensing idea in life than that of perpetual progress which man makes toward perfection of his nature without ever arriving at it? To look upon the soul going on from strength to stren to consider that it is to thine forever with new accessions of glory, brighter to all eternity, that it will be adding virtue to virtue, and knowledge to knowledge, carries with it something very agreeable to that ambition which is natural to the mind of man. Nay, it must be a prospect pleasing to God himself to see his creations forever beautifying in his oyes, and drawing near to him by greater degree of resem-biance. This boundless desire had not its origin in man himself. Something above the bounds of this world implanted those desires after a higher good, and made him restless in everything else. And since the sul can only rest in that which is infinite, there is something above, only, capable of giving it satisfaction, otherwise, time and eternity, the soul would be for ever in unrest, an idea that it revolts against with all its powers. There is therefore some infinite being that only an give contentment to the soul, and who is God; and I feel that our departed brother, whose loss we mourn, could well have said, with the poet, in his departing hour :

"I go to life, and not to death; rom darkness to life's native akv go from sickness, and from pain, To health and immortality. Let our farewell, then, be tearless, ince I bid farewell to tears :

Thomas Nugent's Will.

Write this of my departure, Festive in your coming years."

The following is the last will and testament of Thomas Nugent, which was probated by the proper persons on March 24th. The deceased dying intestate, five per cent. of the estate goes to the State treasury :

"The last will and testament of Thomas Nugent, of Jenks township, county of Forest and State of Pennsylvania, Farmer, I Thomas Nugent, considering the uncertainty of this mortal life, and being of sound mind and memory, (blessed be Almighty God for the same,) do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and form following:

First-I give and bequeath George Lang Scott, my lot near Gilfoyle Station, a part of tract No. 5,500, containing one hundred and twenty 120) acres, more or less, all in Jenks township, County and State aforesaid. also, a lot of cucumber, cherry and ash logs skidded, (about 20,000 feet,) also my outstanding debts and judg-ments, also my Henry rifle, my watch and my revolver. The said George Lang Scott to pay all my debts and give me a respectable burial.

Second-To my nephew, Hezekiah 7. McMann, of Waukee, State of Iowa, I give and bequeath my farm adjoining land of J. W. Daniels on the South, and the Mifflin land on the North-west, containing 59 acres and 197 perches, also, a tract of land containing 5 acres adjoining my farm on the east, lands of J. H. Donnelly on the south, also, adjoining in the Keller lot, part of lot $1 acres, warranted by Thomas Nugent, and since sold for taxes to J. M. Clapp of Tidioute, of Warren county. The tax deed transferred to George L. Scoot, and by said Scott transferred to Thomas Nugent. Also, to my nephew Hezekiah F. McManns, all my manuscripts, part of which are in the hands of J. E. Hillard, the rest at J. A. Scott's.

Third-To my nephew Wm. Mc Manus, of Waukee, Iowa, the amount of his indebtedness to me. To Mrs Elizabeth Ann Scott, all my personal property not specified above.

I appoint Joseph Bostaph, of Farmingtown, twp., county of Clarion, and George Lang Scott of Jenks township, county of Forest, State of Pa., as my executors.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 21st day of October, 1886. THOMAS NUGENT. Witness: John Sallade, John F. GAUL, of Jenks twp., Forest Co.

DIED.

ZUENDEL-At her home on German Hill, Forest county, Pa., on March 31, 1887, Mrs. Catherina Dora Elizabeth, wife of John H. Zuendel, aged 25 years, 6 moths, 20 days, The deceased leaves a husband and four children, the youngest of whom is a babe of two weeks, to mourn the loss of a wife and a devoted mother. Her death was very sudden and entirely unexpected. On the morning of the day on which she died, she was cheerful and bright, and personal acquaintance and friendship, and appeared to be growing well and strong, since his health became impaired have rapidly. Her husband was working a few rods from the house, when, a little later on in the morning, some one called him to come in. He came at once, he reached the house she was dead. The husband and children have the sincerest sympathy of friends and neighbors in their very deep sorrow and so very touch It is comforting to ing bereavment. of justice, truth, and friendship, would know that there is a land never darkened by the shadow of the death angel, and in that land the dearest ties of earth so rudely sundered here oftentimes, are taken again, or supplanted by higher and holier ones, The funeral services were held on the Sunday following. Her body was laid to rest in the Evangelical church yard on German Hill. Rev. Toby, preached the funeral sermon in English, Rev. Rhodes preached the same in German.

The very large number of people present together with the distance many to come testified to the respect and esteem in which the deceased was held. Death to her was only a gateway to life, for she lived loving and serving God.
