A Big Mistake.

Last week Governor Beaver took up the general revenue bill, passed in the last hours of the legislature, for the purpose of attaching his signature to it, when the startling discovery was made that the bill had not been signed by the President of the Senate. Without going a step farther this omission killed the bill "deader than a door nail." The question then occurred, who was to blame for this blunder, if blunder it was. When a bill passes both branches of the legislature finally, it is the duty of the Message Clerk of the branch in which it originated to take it to a member of the compare bill committee for his signature, then to the chief clerk for his signature. It is then his duty to take it to the speakers of both Houses, whose duties it is to announce in open session that they are about to sign such and such a bill, and after they have signed it, the bill is then delivered by the message clerk to the Governor. This doesn't seem like a great deal of work, but when it is considered that from fifty to three times that number are generally left for the last ten or twelve hours of the session to be gone through with in this way one can imagine how a single clerk is kept on the jump, and how easily an oversight of this kind could occur. And these are not all the duties devolving on said clerk: he is obliged to deliver scores of other messages between the two Houses. The wonder is, then, that many more errors do not occur. Yet with all this, Message Clerk of the House, Thos. R. Taylor, made not a single blunder, and got through with his work in an exceptionally creditable manner, and the attempt to place the blame of the failure to have this bill properly signed upon him will scarcely stick, particularly as he makes affidavit to the fact of having properly presented it for the signature of the President of the Senate, and when it was handed back to him, without doubting for a moment that it had received the same, messaged it over to the Governor. Just where the blame lies has not, and perhaps never will be, discovered. And it don't matter much now, for it is too late to correct it, and the new revenue bill, which was expected to correct many evils and bring sufficient additional revenue into the state treasury to meet all worthy appropriation bills passed by the recent legislature has failed. The natural result is that the Governor is obliged to cut down these appropriations to an alarming extent. There is much talk of calling the legislature together for the purpose of correcting this blunder, but the Governor is said to be unalterably opposed to such a course. Should there be an extra session the members would be entitled to $500 each, but many of them have signified their willingness to go back and make the proper correction, taking only their actual legitimate expenses. This would be right; more than that would be wrong, under the circumstances.

The failure of the revenue bill taken with the wholesome legislation suggested by the convention of the county commissioners held at Harrisburg last summer, as every recommendation made by that body had been incorporated in the measure. Its failure, therefore, adds to the disappointment felt by the counties throughout the entire State.

Supreme Judgeship.

The Evening Express, of Lock Haven, Pa., has the following concerning the candidacy of Judge Williams:

The candidacy of Judge Williams for the place on the Supreme Bench, to be made vacant by the expiration of the term of Judge Mercur, seems to be meeting with general favor among members of the bar all over the state. Among the counties in which the bar has endorsed his candidacy may be mentioned Tioga, Potter, McKean, Lycoming, Cameron, Elk and Crawford and we understand that a large majority of the bar of this county is earnestly supporting him. Among the reasons we hear given for this general support of the bar are the following:

His age—He is now 56 years old, just in the prime of life and in good health.

His experience in the Common Pleas—He was elected at the age of 34, and has now served over twenty-two years continuously.

His knowledge of the land law—His whole professional and official life has been spent in a region where original titles are often brought under examination in the courts.

His familiarity with the law relating to oil and mineral rights—All five of the counties of the old fourth district are mining counties; while what is known as the great northern oil field is almost wholly in the same district. Judge Williams has the reputation in the oil regions of having contributed as largely towards the settlement of the novel and perplexing questions growing out of the business of producing and transporting oil as any Judge in the Commonwealth. There are certainly strong reasons and are well calculated to affect the judgment of lawyers and business men.

On the failure of the revenue bill through an extraordinary blunder, and which may cause embarrassment to counties, the Philadelphia News says: "The only way out of the difficulty is to call an extra session of the legislature to consider this matter alone. The failure to ratify the bill will destroy the result of a great part of the work of the last legislature and its members ought to be willing to sacrifice their time long enough to go to Harrisburg and pass the bill again in proper form and then adjourn at once. If they do this the legislature will have the thanks of the people of the state."

Now would be the time to get rid of the state board of health and the state board of charities. They are useless, expensive, offensive and by no means defensive. They waste money and do no good. They waste and dine at the expense of the state while hatching schemes to secure more money and greater power. Let them be abandoned. The absolute necessity for reduction in the expenses of the state makes this course particularly justifiable at this time.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

The death of Ex-Vice President, William A. Wheeler, occurred at his home in Malone, N. Y., on Saturday last at 10 o'clock a. m. He had been in ill health for some time, and the final cause of death was softening of the brain.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and in moments themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophors. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Spruce Creek, Pa., Oct. 5, 1885. In answer to your request to know what your Athlophors has done for me, I will say it has done wonderful work. I have suffered from rheumatism for eighteen years more or less, and sometimes not able to put my clothes on or out alone. I took all kinds, doctored with a good many doctors, but nothing did me any good. I was getting worse instead of better. I read your advertisement in the "Evening Express" and "Sentinel" papers of Lockstown. I have taken in all four bottles. I feel no pain. I was drawn crooked, but now I am straight once more. Thank you for the good it done me. Athlophors is the medicine. PHILIP HARRIS.

Your medicine has cured me of neuralgia. I suffered with it for three days, and it gave me instant relief. Wm. P. Kiser. Palmira, N. Y., August 15th, 1886. I used one bottle of Athlophors for neuralgia after being laid up eight weeks. The result was very satisfactory. R. S. Eddy.

Every druggist should keep Athlophors and Athlophors Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophors Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophors and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney disease, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, injury to blood, &c., Athlophors Pills are recommended.
