REMEMBER that votes count, and that every vote not polled is in the interest of the opposition.

The President is "swinging around the circle" in elegant style, and receiving such ovations on his route as becomes the office he occupies. We believe this is what the Democrats used to call a "junketing trip."

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S friends appear to be scattered all over the country. When he passed the Joliet, Ill., penitentiary the other day it is said that the convicts sent up a ringing hurrah.—Oil City Blizzard.

The gentleman in charge of the cars in which President Cleveland is traveling is Mr. W. S. Baldwin, for some time manager of the wells that were put down on the Woods heirs tract in Tionesta township, and late general passenger agent of the B. N. Y. & P. Railroad.

The plan of campaign as mapped out by Chairman Sanders is to print an array of figures that are all wrong, call them facts, and abuse the Republican party. Mr. Sanders ought to get up something original. His plan has a rich, chestnutty flavor that everybody recognizes instantly.

A PRACTICAL joke in the nature of an acrostic was perpetrated upon the Chicago Daily News when that paper published in its special edition devoted to glorifying the President the following poem, entitled:

"IN ILLINOIS, Under the glorious sky, Reaching wide o'er shore and tide, Ruler and bride do thou abide; And, heart of the West, beat high, Forgetting the dismal rancor Of years that should be dead, Rally we all from cot and hall, Bidding our nation's head,

And to your gentle wife, In prosperous ways God guide your days, Nor count them past till you at last Enjoy the endless life." The first letters of the lines, read downward, read: "HURRA FOR BLAINE."

W. H. ANDREWS Esq., of the Republican State Committee, was in town over Friday night last, and met quite a number of the Republicans of this place and vicinity. Mr. Andrews is making a tour of the counties of the northwest for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the condition of the party organization. He finds the ticket gives the best satisfaction wherever he goes, and says there is every prospect of success, but that the vote must be gotten out. That Republicans must remember that this is not an "off year," but a "pivotal year," a forerunner of 1888. Let the Republicans of Forest bestir themselves from now until election day. Every vote must be out. We have an excellent State and County ticket. One that we can all heartily vote for and elect, but we must get out the vote.

Mr. BLAINE in his speech at Sebago Lake, August 14, uttered the following thoughts for the workmen of this country. He said: "In any event it would be well for the labor organizations to diligently inquire and ascertain how the wages of labor in the United States can be kept above the rate of wages in England, Germany and France on the same articles of manufacture without the intervention of protective duties? With the present cheap modes of interchange and transportation of all commodities, I inquire of these gentlemen how, under the rules of Free Trade, can wages in the United States be kept above the general standard of European wages? I do not stop for the detail of argument, I only desire to lodge the question in the minds of the millions of American laborers who have it in their power to maintain Protection or to inaugurate Free Trade, who have it in their power to uphold the party of Protection or the party of Free Trade." Can any laboring man who reads this doubt as to his duty at the coming election.

Another Railroad Horror.

Another railway horror occurred on the Chicago and Atlantic railway Monday night, sixty miles east of Chicago, near Kouts Station. Seventeen passengers were killed and burned in the wreck, and from twenty-five to thirty were more or less injured. A heavy fresh mist train telescoped the evening accommodation, the New York express, which leaves Chicago at 7:45 p. m. The accommodation, with one baggage car, two coaches and one sleeper, had stopped at the water tank for water about one mile west of Kouts, and the freight train following crashed into the sleeper, telescoping and burning the entire passenger train as stated.

The Pennsylvania Democratic con trap is set to catch the con going and coming, and the Democratic editors are watching with glistening eyes to see just what the con is going to do. The situation is about this: If Governor Beaver calls an extra session of the Legislature the Democratic editors will fall on him and read the party he represents for indulging in the extravagance of an extra session. If Governor Beaver does not call an extra session the Democracy will jump on him with both feet and endeavor to pulverize the Republican party for not doing what they assert a great many people want done. But while the Democracy are kept in this delightful state of uncertainty—hanging by the eyelids as it were—the Republican party is cheerfully getting in its work on the large and assorted collection of rascalities that the Democracy has been guilty of in past years, and laughing gaily at the funny predicament of the con-trap watchers, who are hunting a dry hole for an issue. When Governor Beaver decides to act, he will act for the best interests of the people, and he will be that hard hearted that he will not even consult the Democracy as to what he shall do; nor will he even get near the trap to be caught going or coming. It is hard on Chairman Dallas Sanders, as a newly-fledged leader of Democracy, but Mr. Sanders is groping about for an issue has blundered, and the result will be that the Republicans of Pennsylvania will nail his hide to the fence in November.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also.—Hab. II, 15. The wicked worketh a deceitful work; but in him that seeketh righteousness shall be a sure reward.—Rev. II, 18.

A KEW OF NAILS. A few days ago I was reading the life of a good young missionary named Henry Lyman. He went to Sumatra, and was killed by savages. He tells us something in his journal which I think is very curious. It is about liquor-drinking. Drunkenness is perhaps more common, fatal, and terrible in Sumatra than anywhere else in the world, and that is saying a great deal. In Sumatra they make very strong wines and whiskey, and under the hot tropic sun they prove most rapid poisons. Such deadly effects follow intoxication in Sumatra that people say when a man takes a glass of liquor he drives a nail into his own coffin; so general is this idea that they do not call wine, and whiskey, and brandy, as we do, by specific names, but call them all nails, horrible coffin-nails. Then they distinguish between them as to color, and alcohol is the "white nail"; brandy is the "red nail"; wine, according to hue, is the "pale," the "pink," the "golden," and the "red" nail. When the toper wants his dram, he asks for a nail—a red or a white nail. Strange, is it not, that a man can deliberately swallow this poison, the very name of which tells that his coffin is making ready for him, and that he is helping hourly to prepare it, and that presently he shall drop out of this life into the terrible eternity of the drunkard?

When poor condemned men ride to their execution seated on their coffins, people say "dreadful!" But how much more dreadful for a man deliberately to doom himself to a painful, hopeless, Christless death, and then go on, morning, noon, and night, driving nails into his coffin! And I think this awful name of "nails" suits here just as well as in Sumatra. It takes more nails here to make the coffin—that's all the difference. All these drinks of wine, brandy, whisky, rum, gin, and so on, hurry the drinker on to death. The drinking people say, "Oh! these things don't stay in the body; nothing passes out of the flesh and blood sooner than stimulants of this sort." Very true; but pray, don't the effects remain? And if the poison don't stay and pile up of itself, its effects are cumulative; they pile up on each other until the man dies of them. Coat of the stomach burned out like an old stove lining; arteries of the brain all swollen; brain cells open like little doors with the keys lost, and won't stay shut any more; brain veins crowded, and strained, and out of order; blood congested in clots in brain and lungs—these and a thousand more troubles follow the driving of coffin nails over the rumrunner's bar. And here will the drunkard be when the coffin is finished and he lies in it? Certainly not in the beautiful "king dom of God."

Think of it, children, when you pass the places where the kegs, and barrels, and bottles are displayed. What are they full of? Nails, nails, nails, coffin-nails, every one. In Sumatra they have heard of the American temperance societies and the influence of these societies is felt; some of the leading people are trying a temperance movement for themselves. Thus you see the effects of good example; our example reaches to Sumatra, and stops some of those unhappy ones who are daily driving nails into their own coffins.—Mrs. J. McNeil Wright.

A barrel of liquor was once being carried up a street, when by accident, it fell to the ground, and the head was driven in. One of the spectators, seeing the liquor was spilt, said: "O dear! O dear! what a pity!" "Oh! no," said a little boy who was looking on. "It is not a pity; the drink will do better on God's earth than in God's image."

Cruikshank, the artist, offered $500 for proof of a violent crime committed by a total abstainer, and the money remains unclaimed to this day. A temperance society in England offers a large reward for proof of a single instance where property accumulated by liquor selling has descended to the third generation.—E.
