LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Oil market closed yesterday 88 1/2. Opening this morning at 88 1/2.

Mr. D. S. Drury has changed his residence from Pigeon to Marienville.

We learn that a man was drowned in the mill pond at Brown's Mills, Jenks township, but are without particulars.

F. F. Whittekin Esq., expects soon to remove to Conneaut, Ohio, where he will follow his profession of civil engineering.

Mr. Russell yesterday shipped his pet fox to Conductor Millhara, of the Buffalo & Southwestern road, for which he received $7.00.

Mrs. Wm. Hieenthal, whose serious illness we neglected to mention last week, is improving, her friends will be pleased to learn.

The trout season is now on, but since the opening the weather has been rather unfavorable to the sport, and it is not unlikely that many were "lauded."

Rev. Hickling has been confined to his bed since last Saturday with quite a severe attack of pneumonia, but we are pleased to report him getting better.

Glance at H. J. Hopkins & Co.'s new "ad" and then go and inspect the elegant stock of spring goods that has just arrived.

Mrs. J. T. Brennan and daughter Maud, are paying a visit to friends in Bradford, expecting to be absent a week or ten days.

John N. Heath of Star, is agent for "Wolcott's Pain Paint," which is guaranteed to relieve and cure all sorts of pain quickly and thoroughly.

Mr. Ralle, the watch maker, is still at his post prepared to do all kinds of repairing in his line in first class shape.

A teachers' examination will be held at Clairton, Friday, May 4. At Marienville, Saturday, May 5.

The next quarterly meeting of the Tionesta and Newmansville circuit of the Free Methodist church, will be held at Stewart Run, beginning Friday, April 20, and continuing over Sunday. Chairman R. W. Hawkins will officiate.

Mrs. S. R. Cogan has got nicely domiciled in the Booner house at the upper end of town, recently purchased by Mr. Cogan, whose business will compel him to remain in West Virginia during the greater portion of the summer.

Keyser, the man who was so severely injured while attempting to land a raft at Oil City last week, was sufficiently recovered as to enable him to be removed to his home in Elk City, and it is expected he will fully recover from his injuries.

An alarm of fire in the North Ward brought out the "fountain" in double quick time on Saturday last. The alarm was caused by the burning out of a fuse in Mr. Hieenthal's house, and was controlled by a few buckets of water.

By attaching a large steam whistle to the high pressure gas main, and running it up through the roof of the engine house, the Gas Co. has furnished the town with a first class fire alarm, that can be distinctly heard in any part of the burg.

With the exception of about two "Alleghenies" scattered along the creek, all the lumber has been started on its course down the river, and many of the raftmen have returned, and some started on their second trip.

There will be no lack of square timber in market this season, too much, in fact, to insure such prices as the fine quality of the timber should demand, we fear.

Many of our older citizens will be grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Bailey, proper notice of which appears elsewhere in this issue. The deceased was for many years a resident of this place, and was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

West Hickory correspondence of Pleasantville Record: "Died, the 10th inst. of consumption, Mrs. John Lyoch, leaving a husband and six children, who are assured they have the heartfelt sympathies of the community. Interment at Tidouite."

Attention is directed to the "ad" of C. Kemble & Son, Tidouite, Agents for American Cycles, in this issue. These gentlemen possess advantages whereby they can furnish machines at specially low figures, and it will be an advantage to those contemplating a purchase to consult them.

Mrs. D. W. Agnew, who met with such a crushing blow in the accidental death of her husband, wishes to very sincerely thank all who lent their aid in her behalf, and for the many kind expressions of sympathy which have done much toward assisting her in bearing up under the weight of such a great affliction.

A singular coincidence to the accident by which Daniel Agnew lost his life, is found in a runaway accident by which his cousin, Mrs. A. A. Stevens, of Tyrone, Pa., was badly injured on the same evening.

Mrs. Stevens' husband will be remembered by many as the chairman of the Prohibition party in the campaign of 1886.

Mr. Jas. T. Brennan on Monday last sent his resignation as Justice of the Peace to Governor Beaver, to take effect at once.

Mrs. Wm. Hieenthal, whose serious illness we neglected to mention last week, is improving, her friends will be pleased to learn.

then ceased to breathe. The boy went for help but those responding found life extinct when they came. Mr. Garvey was past middle age, nearly an old man, probably 65 years of age. His remains were taken to Tidouite on the following day, Friday, where they were interred.

Hickory Township. Mr. R. R. Andrews of Kellettsville, told his Christian experience in the M. E. Church at Whig Hill last Sabbath, using the black board to illustrate his thoughts.

Dr. E. W. Smith preached in the Town Line Evangelical Church last Sabbath from the subject of prayer.

W. H. Stright's saw mill on Little Hickory, has been shut down for the past week for the purpose of putting in a dam.

We understand that the tools are still fast in the oil well located on tract 5208, better known as the Mo-Cray lot. This well is located about a mile southeast of the big gas well from which Tidouite gets its supply, and is supposed to be down about 1200 feet.

To-morrow A. B. Root and others leave Hickory to join the Forest county colony in Washington Territory. The only really live issue we have had for some time is emigration; in fact the western fever prevails in almost a malignant form in this township.

We were glad to see Mr. R. R. Andrews in town yesterday, looking natural and robust as of old. Mr. A. has added to the general store business at Kellettsville a commodity that will be appreciated by the citizens of that section; that is, fresh meats of all kinds.

He has a large quantity of ice put up, and can keep his meat fresh and cool, so that customers can at all times be served with fresh steaks, roasts, &c. We bespeak for Mr. Andrews a good share of the public patronage.

The second Forest county colony took their departure for Washington Territory yesterday morning, under the guidance and fatherly care of our friend A. B. Root.

Peterson's Magazine for May is at hand and its contents are varied enough to suit the most fastidious taste. "Peterson" is always so fresh and bright, that one might think it still in its teens.

Considerable excitement has been created in Ringgold township, Jefferson county, by the supposed discovery of a silver mine on the farm of John Geist, near the grist mill of Elk Buck.

A contemporary very thoughtfully remarks: "A country editor is one who reads newspapers, writes on any subject, sticks type, folds papers, makes up mails, runs errands, saws wood, works in the garden, is blamed for a thousand things he never thought of, works hard all day, is subject to spring fever, helps people into office who forget all about it afterward, and frequently gets cheated out of his earnings.

The Emlenton News notes a visit from Mr. Clark of Bradford, to that place, and says his mission was to explain to the members of the Well Drillers Union, at their meeting, that they could not be paid at the present time for last month's "lay-off."

Almost every vegetable has a specific effect. Celery is a sedative to the nerves, with a favorable action on neuralgia and rheumatism.

The swallows have come. Now hang away the remains of your over coat, hunt up your fans, seal out your refrigerator and dust your seersuckers.

We are inclined to accept the first statement of the above paragraph after having read what follows. And congratulate our brother journalist on having secured his full share of 'em (swallows) as the paragraph seems clearly to indicate.

On Thursday of last week Frank Garvey Sr., who lives at Trukeyville, died very suddenly. The particulars of his death as nearly as we can learn are as follows: Mr. Garvey was working in the barn and came into the house at probably half past one o'clock.

As can be imagined, the accident started the entire community, and to his devoted wife the shock was terrible, so great indeed as to completely prostrate her, and it was with difficulty that she was revived sufficiently to attend the funeral.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Daniel W. Agnew loses his Life by a Runaway Team.

On Thursday evening last about 5 o'clock, Gus Wensel, Wilbur, Alex. and Frank Hunter, who had just returned from Pittsburgh and were anxious to reach their homes at Nebraska that evening, hired Daniel W. Agnew to take them up in a hack, leaving here about the hour indicated above.

Mr. Agnew conveyed his passengers safely home and started on his return about seven o'clock. About an hour or so later a young man brought the team into town minus the hack, they having overtaken him half a mile before what is known as the Blue Narrows, five miles above this place on Tionesta creek.

The team had evidently been in the water, and as nearly as could be judged, had run away. Mr. A. J. Small and Davey Hilands started back with the team immediately, and during their absence the relatives and friends were in great suspense, and thus remained, between fear and hope, until about half past ten, when the very worst was realized in the return of these gentlemen conveying the lifeless remains of Mr. Agnew.

What started the horses, or rather, how they got the advantage of their driver, will perhaps never be known, but the first that was seen of the runaway, and the only eye witnesses were the wife of Mr. Wm. Walters and her two small children, who live directly opposite to the spot where the fatal termination of the runaway occurred.

Hearing an unusual noise Mrs. W.'s attention was attracted in the direction from which it came, and the scene which met her gaze was so horrifying as to almost strike her dumb.

The horses, which seemed to be perfectly wild, were dashing down the rough road at a terrible speed, while Mr. Agnew was leaning back and pulling with all his strength at the lines, but without avail.

At the upper end of the narrow the two outside wheels left the road bed and ran along the side of the steep bank a distance of a hundred yards, where a slight bend in the road gave the hack a chance to drop farther down the embankment, and there is where it went over.

Mr. Agnew was undoubtedly thrown clear of the back and struck first upon the left side of the head on the rocks down at the water's edge. The horses, back and all went over, and it was here that the horses became detached from the back, leaving it standing out in the stream, 18 feet from shore.

The horses then continued—they must have swam, as the water was quite deep—two hundred yards down the creek before coming out and again climbing the steep embankment into the road, about 40 rods below which they were caught, as above stated. The descent is fully 15 feet where the back went over, but the unfortunate man must have fallen at least 20 feet from his position in the seat of the hack.

When Mrs. Walters saw the team go over, she hurried the children down to Mr. Bush's to give the alarm. Steve Bush crossed the creek and told the young man who had caught the horses to hurry to town, while he would run to Nebraska for assistance. In his fright he did not stop to investigate matters but went on and told the story of the accident to the first ones he met at Nebraska, and in a very short time quite a number had gathered to the spot, and there found Mr. Agnew dead, with his head and shoulders in the water to the waist.

They had taken him out but a few moments before the hack from here arrived and brought the remains to town. Physicians examined the wounds and found from their nature that death must have resulted instantly, as the skull was entirely crushed in, thus removing all doubts as to whether he might not have drowned after being stunned.

It is evident from traces left that the team first commenced running at a high point in the road a short distance above "Sugar Run" and about half a mile above where the hack went over. Near this small run one of Dan's gloves, and a cushion out of the hind seat were found.

Mrs. Walters says she heard him hallow "whoa" once to the horses just before going over the bank, and seemed to be exerting every nerve to stop them. There were no bruises about the body except those on the head, showing that he struck nowhere else, and that the hack and horses went entirely over him.

The team is perhaps the most fiery and spirited one in the county, being known as "the ponies," but with Dan's excellent knowledge in the handling of horses he had never had any trouble with them.

As can be imagined, the accident started the entire community, and to his devoted wife the shock was terrible, so great indeed as to completely prostrate her, and it was with difficulty that she was revived sufficiently to attend the funeral.
