LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Oil market closed yesterday 77 1/2. Opening this morning at 77 1/2. The Fourth three weeks from today.

To Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Clark a daughter was born on the 9th inst. Everybody in Tionesta should help boom the celebration of the Fourth.

Mr. Wm. Young of Harmony township, was a pleasant caller at this office Monday.

Mr. A. P. Anderson, one of our esteemed Brookston subscribers, gave the REPUBLICAN a pleasant call Monday.

Treasurer Fitzgerald's tax sale was the means of drawing a goodly number of outsiders to town on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. W. E. Lathy of Newton, Kansas, arrived in Tionesta on Saturday, and will spend the summer at the home of her mother, Mrs. May.

Supt. Kerr advertises the teachers' annual examinations this week. Those interested should preserve the dates, as the notice will appear but once more.

Mr. A. M. Brooks of Meadville, was in town Monday and made a number of acquaintances. He is an applicant for the Principalship of the borough schools.

Moses B. Hunter, whom all our older inhabitants know and are always glad to meet, gave the town a short visit last week. "Mose" changes very little from his old-time geniality.

Chairman Irwin this week issues his call for the Republican primaries which take place one week from next Saturday, 23d inst., and it is hoped all Republicans will lay their plans to turn out in the afternoon of that day and help swell the vote.

Fred Morgan and Harry Keating of Oil City, and Billy Morgan of this place took the overland route for Balltown yesterday morning, where they will build a jobboat, float down the creek, catch what few trout yet remain in the streams 'tween here and there, and have a mosquito snake and-punkey time of it generally.

Messrs. J. H. Bonnell & Co., limited, printing ink makers, Tribune building, N. Y., have placed us under obligations to them for a strikingly lifelike and handsomely executed portrait of Mr. George W. Childs, the philanthropic publisher of the Phila. Ledger. The portrait is executed by the famous art publishing house of Root & Tinker.

Mr. A. B. Kelly, delegate from this district will leave for Chicago on Friday of this week, to be on hand for the opening of the Republican National Convention next Tuesday. He will be accompanied by Mr. G. W. Robinson, who will take in this great event, and then proceed to Barbour county, Kansas, where he will visit his brother, Samuel, for a few days.

The Blizzard of Saturday treated its readers to twin pictures of the Democratic nominees, Cleveland and Thurman. The portraits are doubtless as good as the subjects deserve, but to represent the Old Roman as a one-eyed man will hardly be appreciated by the petrified. However, this may explain why the Old Roman could not see his way clearly to refuse to play second fiddle to the Democratic can-can.

The Fourth is going to be celebrated in grand old style in Tionesta this year, and don't you let it "slip your memorandum." Those who want a good time should make their calculations to come to this place on that day, while those who had about half made up their minds to go away should revise their plans and stay at home. There will be fun plenty, and to spare, right here in Tionesta, and every citizen is expected to lend his aid and presence to its success.

Judge Propper has finished a water well on his German Hill farm, John Grubbs, who is a first class hand at that business, having had the contract of the drilling. The well is exactly 100 feet deep, and strange to say, when the water was struck, the well at his house, nearly 300 yards distant, went dry, which tends to show that the new venture has tapped the vein of the old well. The Judge will erect a wind mill with which to pump up the water, and if the experiment proves a success, his example will likely be followed by more of our surrounding farmers, many of whom are obliged to go a great way into the earth for water.

The Democratic convention which was billed to meet in the Court House yesterday didn't get on harmoniously. About the hour appointed for the opening, J. M. Kepler, who had run for member of the committee in the borough and got left, arose and proceeded to business by nominating a president of the meeting, put the motion and declaring him elected all in one breath, without giving Chairman Siggins a chance to call the meeting to order as is customary on such occasions. Every effort made to conduct business in an orderly way, met with a noisy, boisterous disturbance on the part of Kepler, who seemed to be there to run the machine or bust it. At this juncture Chairman Siggins declared the convention adjourned to one o'clock Thursday, whereupon part of the delegates left the room, while a part remained, and Kepler had no further trouble in running things in his own sweet way, electing himself Chairman of the Committee, delegate to the congressional convention, and general engineer of the machine, after which he delivered a rambling harangue to the remaining faithful, assuring them of a grand, glorious victory in the fall under his matchless leadership, &c., &c., &c. The regular convention will have its meeting to-morrow, so they say, and proceed with the regular order of business where it left off yesterday when the row was kicked up. In the meantime there's "blood on the moon," and no fellow can tell how or where it will all end.

A special from Cochran to the Blizzard tells about how, on Thursday morning last, Dewit T. Montague shot and mortally wounded W. E. Vorous. The shooting occurred at about 10 o'clock, in front of Montague's house, in Mill Creek township, about one and a half miles east of New Lebanon, on the Utica road. Montague has had trouble with the township supervisors in past years, and when Pathmaster Steven Smith instructed Cyrus Gordon and his farmer, W. E. Vorous, to go to work on the road at Montague's place, he (Montague) ordered the men to leave, telling them that he would shoot their horses if they came after another load. The men were working with an old-fashioned scraper. Gordon was driving the horses and Vorous holding the scraper. When they came for the second load Montague fired, the whole charge, a load of bird shot fired from a smooth-bore rifle, taking effect in Vorous' side. Vorous dropped the handles of the scraper, saying, "I'm shot clear through." He was caught in the arms of Gordon and carried into his (Gordon's) house near by. Drs. Daubenspeck, of New Lebanon, and Gibner, of Sandy Lake, were called. Upon examination they found forty shot holes in the body, and both pronounced the poor man fatally wounded. His death at 10 o'clock verified their prediction. The charge of shot entered the right side and passed into the abdomen. Montague was captured, and is now in Mercer jail. He said he was in a passion when he did the shooting, but says he is only shot to frighten and not to kill. He is a man nearly 63 years of age. His victim is a young man, 28 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

Forest County's Insane. Commissioners of Forest County:—The condition of the several patients under your charge in this Hospital is as follows: John Clary is more quiet than he was but his mind is still much disturbed. Sarah Shoupe is quiet but her mind is very much deranged. Wm. Barnhart is easily excited and scolds pretty strongly when excited but gives no particular trouble. Isaac Reed is now and then for some weeks has been rather dull in the interval between the periods of excitement. Samuel Hawthorne is very quiet and pleasant but his mind is still confused. Olive Noble is quiet and pleasant except when she has the epileptic fits. Peter Gusenther is very much deranged but has been quiet for several weeks.

Very Respectfully Yours, JOHN CURWEN. Warren, Pa., May 31, 1888.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

Daniel Everhart and James Horner Bound over to Court.

The second hearing of Daniel Everhart and Jim Horner, charged with the murder of Mrs. Everhart and Mrs. Gillilan, came off before Squire Summerville, of Madison twp., Clarion county, on Wednesday of last week. The same witnesses that were on the former hearing, besides one new one, were before the Justice on this occasion, and the evidence adduced was virtually the same. According to the Derrier's account, Daniel Byers, the wood-chopper, told of hearing voices in John Everhart's house and to seeing a person at the window. He identified the voice as belonging to Mrs. Everhart. The shadow at the window was unidentified. His testimony was a repetition of his last story, except upon this occasion he introduced a pair of parabolizing strangers who passed him walking with their heads down and facing a snow storm. These strangers cut no figure at the last hearing and are now introduced for the first time. Byers was not without his suspicions that these parties knew something about the murder. In other respects his testimony was a counterpart of the old story.

Harmon Aulbach then appeared on the stand for the first time to corroborate the testimony of Miss Sandrock. Aulbach, who resides in Oil City, was at the time of the murder both clerk and bar-tender of the Deitz house in Fryburg. He recalled the wise party and was present in the stable when Dan Everhart had his mysterious interview with Horner. They went behind some rigs, wagons and sleighs standing in the barn, and conversed for some time in an undertone. When witness approached them they retreated. He could not hear what passed between them. Dan Everhart had no business at the stable except to see Horner. Everhart's horse was tied on the street opposite the Deitz house from 8 to 10 p. m. Horner proceeded to the hotel after the interview in the barn and soon after witness noticed Dan Everhart's horse was gone from the place it was hitched. Witness said he had first learned of the murder through a neighbor passing through town about 6 o'clock. Dan Everhart appeared in Fryburg about 8 o'clock, and Horner put in his appearance at the tavern after 9 o'clock. About 8 o'clock Everhart said to witness, speaking in a cold, matter of fact way: "I suppose you have heard that my mother and grandmother were killed to day." He enjoined no secrecy on the witness nor made inquiry concerning the presence of strangers or suspicious characters. Witness thought he could search every nook and corner of the town in less than two hours. He did not impress witness as a man looking after strangers. Soon after his private talk with Horner, both disappeared.

The lawyers occupied about an hour and a half in summing up, when the Justice bound the prisoners over for trial at the August term of Clarion court.

TIONESTA WILL CELEBRATE.

A rousing meeting of the citizens was held at the Skating Rink last evening for the purpose of arranging for a proper celebration of the Glorious Fourth, at which it was unanimously resolved that Tionesta do her best in that direction. S. D. Irwin was elected Chairman of the meeting, and Dick Davis Secretary. The following committees were then appointed: Treasurer—R. M. Herman. Committee to select grove—H. H. Shoemaker, J. L. Craig, Joe Clark. Com of Arrangements—C. A. Randall, G. W. Bovard, F. R. Lawson, H. C. Whittekin, James Butler. Com. on Program—D. W. Clark, J. B. Siggins, J. T. Carson, S. D. Irwin, H. Shoemaker. Finance—Dick Davis, Joe Landers, Joe Scowden. Amusements—L. J. Hopkins, R. M. Herman, Andy Carr, H. Shoemaker, J. E. Wenk, R. L. Haslet, S. D. Irwin, S. S. Canfield, F. W. Law. Music—O. C. Brownell, J. B. Muse, T. F. Ritchey. This committee is also instructed to confer with Gas Co. relative to illuminations. Marshall—D. S. Knox, Assistant, D. W. Clark. C. A. Randall was selected to read Declaration of Independence, and S. D. Irwin, A. B. Kelly and J. B. Agnew were selected as speakers.

It was moved that the Sunday Schools and Fire Co. be invited to take part in the parade.

The amusement committee is requested to meet at S. D. Irwin's office at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

The next general meeting was fixed for Monday evening next at the Rink, when everybody, and the several committees in particular, are requested to be promptly on hand.

All help boom the Fourth!

Children's Day.

On Sunday evening last Children's Day was observed at the M. E. Church by the scholars of the M. E. Sunday School under the management of their Superintendent, J. H. Dingman.

The church was tastefully decorated with wreaths and flowers. From the center of the church high above the railing in front of the pulpit a wreath of evergreens with flowers intertwined swept across to the walls on each side descending in a sharp arch from its central support and caught up again by supports on each side half way to the wall. Above and over the central arch of the wreath rose a cross of flowers interwoven with mosses; similarly situated over the arches on each side lower down there were on the one side an anchor, on the other a crown, made of evergreens and flowers. Under the central arch hung a wreath of a circular shape enclosing a beautiful star; similar wreaths were hung under each side arch. From the point where the large wreath touched the wall on each side festoons of wreaths extended along the wall hung in graceful lines, complemented with circular wreaths similar to those under the arches of the large hanging wreath and similarly placed. Over these wreaths were mottoes expressed in handsome letters fashioned in bright flowers—on the one side, The Bible, Our Guide; on the other, The Spirit, Our Teacher. Added to these were many other floral decorations, varied, various, and all beautiful.

The program was a fine one and splendidly was it carried out. Rev. Rumberger led in reading the responsive exercises, the school and audience joining in the response. All did well who had parts to fill on the program. The music was good, and adapted to the occasion. Nobody will feel sour, we are sure, if we mention more particularly the parts filled by the little "wee" folks, and compliment them on the way they filled 'em. Bless them! The Superintendent of the school, Mr. J. H. Dingman, deserves much credit for the training of his school, and for the efficient manner in which he conducted the exercises. The collection was $7.25.

GIRLS AND TOBACCO.

So you like the smell of a good cigar, do you? Well, I have heard young ladies say so before, but I always thought, if I was in their place, I would not tell of it. Whatever you may say, nobody will think you like the nasty thing for its own sake. Why, it almost strangles me. And after my papa has been smoking, I would almost rather he would not kiss me sometimes. I don't believe he would want to kiss me, if he should smell tobacco smoke in my breath. I am sure he would not call me his rose bud again very soon. I am very certain men don't like tobacco-breaths in other people. I wonder if that is the reason they don't kiss each other?

How do I know they don't like tobacco smoke? Well, I can read some, and don't I see "No smoking" up around in ever so many places? And when I asked my papa what they did that for, he said because it was not nice to have tobacco-smoke from other people's mouths puffed into our faces. My papa said that himself. And then, on the ferry-boat, I see the men come flocking into the ladies' cabin, because their own is full of tobacco-smoke; but I don't see any ladies go into the men's cabin to get the smell of the smoke; and they don't scent their handkerchiefs with it, nor put it into bouquets. I should think, if they like it so well, they would have essence of smoke among their Cologne bottles.

Bah! nobody could make me believe that a clean, sweet young lady cares anything about the smell of a cigar, unless there is a man behind it. And the men don't believe it, either. They may not say so, but they keep a thinking, and they think you say it to please them, the egotistical fellow! Perhaps afterwards they'll say, as my brother Bill said the next day after you professed to like his cigar-smoke—he said it made him think of the young lady that took a few whiffs now and then when she was lonely, because it made it smell as though there was a man around.—School Reciter.

CONGRESSIONAL LIQUOR.

The investigation into the management of the House restaurant upon the charge of violating the rules of selling liquor that will soon be made will result in nothing, as have those that were made before. Congressmen want their liquor and will have it, rules or no rules. Since March 18, 1867, there has been in existence this law, adopted by the two houses:

"No spirituous or malt liquors or wines, shall be offered for sale, exhibited, or kept within the Capitol, or in any room or building connected therewith, or on the public ground adjacent thereto. And it shall be the duty of the Sergeants-at-Arms of the two houses, under the supervision of the presiding officers thereof, respectively, to enforce the foregoing provisions. And any officer or employe of either house who shall in any manner violate, or connive at the violation of this rule, shall be dismissed from office." Anybody familiar with the ways of the Capital restaurant knows how it is observed. Instead of ordering a drink direct the Congressman orders a soda cracker or sandwich with his liquor, calls the combination a meal, and gets there just the same as if there were no rules against liquor-selling. It is the old story of trying to enforce a law that is obnoxious to the majority.

The liquor traffic is like a snake. The foot of the law may be upon it, but it never stops squirming, wriggling, twisting, in every way, it strives to slip from under the law. It needs the eye of the law as well as the foot of the law.

W. C. T. U. work is progressing in Arizona; $3,000 have been subscribed to build a temperance hall at Phoenix.

The controversy at Cornell College in the class for '90, as to whether liquors should be provided for the banquet was recently renewed and decided in the negative.

We must legislate for our children if we do not wish to prove recreant to the noble trust committed to our keeping.—Senator Wade Hampton.

It doesn't make any difference how you spell whisky; the man who uses too much of it will have the worst spell.
