THE British Hosiery Review says: "To the majority of our readers the question will be of very great importance, as the quantity of articles manufactured and otherwise, that are now sent from British and Continental ports will be materially increased if these tariff proposals are accepted; indeed, we venture to assert that England will reap the largest share of any advantages that may arise from the adoption of the ideas now advocated by the Free-Trade party in the United States." This will be pleasant news for American workingmen, and especially for Irish-Americans who have had any idea of voting the Democratic ticket. British manufacturers are so tickled over the friendly action of Cleveland and the Democratic National Convention that they can't keep their joy to themselves.

Editors In Erie.

The annual excursion picnic of the Pennsylvania Editorial Association took place in Erie commencing on the 26th ult. and lasting till the 29th. A special train of six coaches left Harrisburg on the morning of the 26th oa the P. & E. road and arrived in Erie THE PAULINE PRINCIPLE OF TOTAL that evening at dark. All the cars were comfortably filled with newspaper men, many being accompanied by their wives and daughters, and in all there were upward of two hundred. To say that the reception they got was principle of regard for the welfare of a royal one is putting it in the mildert form. The entrance of the train to the city limits was signalized by the booming of cannou, the playing of bands and a general illumination. As the cars pulled into the depot the astonished editors looked out upon one dense mass of humanity that extended as far as the eye could reach, and not one in ten could be made to believe that all this outpouring of the citizens was in honor of the editorial visit. A line of march was formed-double file Christ. How appealing these words -and headed by two brass bands, and tailed by one, the procession (ladies in carriages) marched down State street to the Reed House. The distance is fully three fourths of a mile, yet the demnation should be applied to the street was jammed on either side by use of that which is cause of woeful Erie's populace, while balconies, windows and house tops were crowded to their utmost capacity. The street along the line of march was one continuous blaze of fireworks, electric light and natural gas illuminations.

Business and private houses on every side were covered, three inches deep, as it were, with the national colors, while banners and arches bearing expressions of welcome were visible wherever one chanced to look. At the Reed House the party was quartered for the night. Next day at noon the visitore were treated to a delightful ride on the lake, or bay rather, the lake being too rough for smooth sailing, and at the life-saving station an exhibition of the manner of rescuing

14:21. Practical application. 1. We have in this lesson the duty of total abstinence based upon the others. The conclusion of the matter is given in verse 13. "Wherefore, if meat maketh my brother to stumble, I will eat no flesh forevermore, that 1 make not my brother to stumble." Revised version, verse 11, holds the great persuasive argument for self denial. Shall the weak brother perish. for whom Christ died ? Verse 12 brings saddest charge of all. But when ye sin against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against in the light of the lessons of the quarter. If Paul would give up meat, good in itself, because by its misuse some were hurt, what strength of constumbling to multitudes, and in itself is an "irritant narcotic poison ?" 2. Christ's making wine at Cana is often used as an excuse for moderate and refined drinking. But in the absence of positive proof as to the kind of wine Jesus made at that marriage feast, it is certainly binding upon us to interpret this act of our Lord's in the light of His character and mission. Can we for a moment believe that He would have perverted the health giving water into that which poisons body and brain, and imperils the soul? Strangely out of harmony with all his life and work to save and help men such doing would be.

Jesus said of himself, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or plication. the prophets : I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." Matt. 5:17. Set over against this declaration the command : "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red." Prov. 28:31. "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, * * * and makest him drunken." Hab. 2:15. "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not
