Deceased was born Dec. 20, 1817 near Bellefonte, Centre Co., Pa., and removed at an early age, with his father John Clark, to Brokenstraw, Warren Co., Pa., where he remained until 17 years of age, and then started out for himself. July 1, 1841, he was united in marriage to Jane E. Dale, daughter of Jesse Dale, and about the year 1850, he removed to Curwensville, Clearfield Co., Pa., and there resided until June, 1870, when he returned to Tionesta, where he has since He was by occupation a lumberman.

and endowed with a seemingly faultless constitution, but long years of hard labor and exposure, brought with them two successive attacks of pneumonia, and while recovering from the second of which, he was severely injured by the cars at Tidioute, some three years ago, from which he never recovered. The direct cause of death was disease of the heart, traceable to the injury above stated. During his ong and extensive business life he made many acquaintances and friends. Three brothers, two sisters, a widow, Mary A., and son, P. M. Clark, survive him. He was a good neighbor, a kind father, and will be greatly missed by those who truly knew him.

His remains were laid to rest in Riverside Cemetery, on Thursday, Sept. 6, 1888, where lies buried Jane E. Clark, his first wife.

A FOUL DECEPTION.

ED. FOREST REPUBLICAN:-During the fiscal years 1883-4.5 the Republican Administration allowed 191,221 pension claims. During the next three fiscal years ending with June 1888, there were allowed 359,-452 claims, making an excess of 168. 231 pensions granted by this Administration over those issued in a like period by its predecessors. The above is calculated to deceive the old Soldier and his friends in the matter of pensions, and if possible assist in bridging the chasm opened up by the President between his party and the masses of Union Soldiers. Now, Mr. Editor, to call the above declaration, made by Democratic organs, "a foul deception" is stopping fully short of the whole truth, and comes with ill grace from the party or paper that delights in the vetoing and overthrowing of pension legislation. In view of the above Democratic assertion we can but arrive at one conclusion as to the object in view, viz: to so operate upon the mind and thereby mislead the Soldier in relation to pension matters by creating the impression that the present Administration is the best and only friend to the late Union Soldier. But figures, when rightly applied and honestly explained, prove something far different. Let us now consider the Democratic claim as made above: There are two simple causes which must be brought forward in order that the above figures may be understood, and the excess of 168,231 be placed where it should be. The great majority of pension certificates issued during the past three years were so issued simply by the withdrawing of one certificate and the issuing of another in lieu thereof, to comply or conform to new ratings and increase established by new legislation, known as the Widow's Increase Bill, Amputation Bill and the Widow's Arrears Act, and also the Mexican Pension Bill. and of those benefitted by the last named bill five-eighths are Southerners and were in the rebel army. Now, we will put Congress on record and see how the two great parties stand in regard to the votes on those and other pension bills, when, and only when, we compare the votes of the two parties can we arrive at a safe conclusion as to which party the old Soldier and his family can feel grateful for the little pension legislation enacted in their interest, and according to former agreement. We will simply refer to the most important acts and compare the vote and see how we stand: Forty-sixth Congress, Repeal of Ar-48; Democrats against 61; Republicans for 116; Republicans against,

NONE. Mexican Pension Bill, with Senate amendments, 48th Congress, 1st Session : Dem. for 39 ; Dem. against 84;

Rep. for 87; Rep. against, NONE. Mexican Pension Bill, with Senate amendments, 48th Congress, 2d Seasion: Dem. for 57; Dem. against 84; Rep. for 72; Rep. against 1.

Widow's Increase Bill, 49th Congress, Dem. for 80; Dem. against 66; Rep. for 118; Rep. against, NONE.

Dependent Pension Bill, (G. A. R. bill) 49th Congress, Dem. for 66; Dem. against 76; Rep. for 114; Rep. against, NONE. The vote to pass the above over the President's veto, requiring two-thirds, was as follows: Dem. for 3/; against 125; Rep. for 138; Rep. against, NONE. The second cause we referred vetoed but one such bill out of 538, cents per bottle. For sale at Bovard's. while Cleveland has vetoed almost one out of three. He has vetoed 171 and allowed 157 to become laws without dent, but this has nothing to do in the case; he has nothing to do with the number of bills sent to him by Congress; all that indicates anything is the proportion he approves, and not only so, but his unfriendly feeling towards the Union Soldier is shown in the language of his vetoes.
