Water power la largely relied upon in Maine, New York and Wisconsin.

FOREST REPUBLICAN.

That sunshine of her face The English language is taught in all Japaness schools by order of the Govern-At times, so gay a place. he same dear eyes look out at me;

Dr. Munhall, the Kansas revivalist, tays it is cheaper to convert a man than

It is estimated that forty per cent. of the members of the last two Congresses were college men.

According to the World, there are 500 men in New York, each of whom could sheek $1,000,000 from bank. The Johnstown sufferers have received snough clothing in the shape of contributions to last the people twenty years,

Up to the present time nearly $500,-000,000 have been spent in supplying drinking water to the people of the

This has Been a year for horrors. While not yet half gone, 1889 witnessed the Samoan tidal wave, the Concmaugh food and the Scattle fire.

Wyoming is proud of one of its qualf-Geations for Statehood, says the New York Telegram. Of its adult population only 2 6-10 per cent. are illiterates.

Millionaire C. P. Huntington, of New York, has been solicited by King Leopold, of Belgium, to secure an American interest in the Congo (Africa) Railroad, Judge Prendergast, of Chicago, in a lengthy decision regarding the Cook County (III.) insane asylum, recommends that the institution be removed from political influence.

The Emperor of China desires to reorganize the police and, fire departments of that country, and he has directed a representative of his minister at Wash-Ington to go to Chicago and get point-

A war cloud is rising in Brazil. A contest is imminent between Bolivia and Paraguay, and Brazil is so bound up by treaty obligations with Paraguay that she will almost certainly be drawn into the Idaho and Wyoming have gone to work in a way that indicates a belief in their early admission as States. In both territories constitutional conventions have been called, and the necessary machinery set in motion to place them in a position to apply to Congress next winter for ad

e incorporation at Chicago of the American Executing Company, organized to execute criminals who are sentenced to death, is either a huge joke, thinks the Detroit Free Press, or one of the grimmest of commentaries upon the capacity of the American to turn everything to business advantage.

American breweries have only whetted the British appetite, and the English invester now wants more. What shall it bet queries the New York Post, Pennsylvania steel or Minnesota flour? Both are on the bill of fare, and both exceedingly attractive, and the hungry Briton, mean in hand, ponders the question.

A patient English gentleman, who collects statistics, brings out some figures to help the cause of peace. It seems that from 1852 to 1877 war killed 1,948,000, people, and what is still more wonderful the killing of each man cost 'more than $10,090. The total cost was $12,065,000,-000; so that peace has its good points from an economical side.

The review of the acreage and condi-, tion of the cotton crop for the year, as published by the New York Financial Chronicle, shows that an increase of nereage of cotton in the whole South of 2 being 7 per cent. The acreage of the whole South in cotton this year is 20,-305,80 acres, being an increase of 464,-

The London News tells this interesting ancedote in a sketch of the late Laura Bridgman: When Carlyle impertmently mked, "What great or noble thing has America ever done?" somebody replied: "She has produced a girl, deaf, dumb and blind from infancy, who, from her own earnings, has sent a barrel of flour to the starving subjects of Great Britain in Ireland."

A Belgian murderer named Hoyos will live in the annals of crime. Fourteen years ago he insured his wife's life for $20,000. A few weeks afterward she was killed by a horse's kick, Hoyos said, but it was proved that he had just previously bought: a horseshoe and fastened t to the end of a mallet. He was a man physical strength, and there as doubt that he killed the LOST LIGHT.

I cannot make her smile come back-That used to make this worn earth seem. The features are the same But, oh! the smile is out of them,

And I must be to blame. notimes I see it still; I went With her the other day, To meet a long-missed friend, and while We still were on the way, Here confidence in waiting love Brought back, for me to see, That old-time love-light to her eyes

That will not shine for me. They tell me money waits for me: They say I might have fame. like those gewgaws quite as well As others like those same But I care not for what I have, Nor lust for what I lack

One tithe as much as my heart longs To call that lost light back. Come back! dear banished smile, come back And into exile drive

All thoughts, and aims, and ienlous hopes That in thy stend would thrive. Who wants the earth without the sun? And what has life for me

That's worth a thought, if, as it's price, It leaves me robbed of thee! -Edward S. Martin, in Scribner.

FOUND GUILTY.

The man who its down to deliberately plan a crime works every point and de-tail to one common centre—annibit. The law has common sense enough in this one particular to presume that a man who is n Boston, for instance, when a murder committed in Cincinnati could not have fired the shot or struck the blow. Therefore, let one accused of crime prove to the jury that he was at some other point at a certain critical hour, and he must be declared innocent. knowledge makes the alibi a favorite defence. If not clearly proved, it always raises doubts and affords opportunity for argument. On the other hand, however, He saw the trap he had fallen into, and when an alibi is fairly beaten by the prosecution, then circumstantial evidence | best to smooth it over. I pretended not seen accused of the st

tell whether he was old or young, large ing that I was after proofs. I then rewas very soft. The stranger was urging place where a horse had been hitched for of the family and doubtless felt better for the horse to trot, but the beast found the some time. It was in the rear of the it. mud too deep and could only proceed at house, on an open space, and under a a walk. As the strange horse came op-posite, there was a long, vivid flash of ground and gnawed the bark of the tree. and kept his tongue back. The agent had seen during the storm, and then a drawing it from any country well. replying the man struck the horse sharp-

the agent, and the rain now beginning to ing that the object could not have been

As the day was fine, and she was not seen of the strong points he brought forward at church, two or three of her friends It was known to a score of people that called at the house on their way to ascer- she had made her will in his favor. tain her excuse. They found the cor- Would not everything be his at her death? tains down and the doors locked. As To clinch our case and make circumthey knew of young Fergus going to his stantial evidence good we must show a aunt's the evening previous, they reasoned motive. This seemed hopeless, but I ing the past two years, it will be a ver-It out that he must have returned during went at the task, hoping evidence might itable kingdom in itself. There are now the night for Miss Moore, she perhaps be aid me if Fergus was guilty. I ex-more than fifty cottage owners and nearly ing wanted for an emergency. This amined his personal effects over and over four hundred club members, giving a ing wanted for an emergency. This smined his personal effects over and over four hundred club members, giving a theory satisfied them until about 4 o'clock and over again in search of a hint, but net income of more than $40,000 per in the afternoon, when one of them re- for two weeks after he had been sent to annum. The village at the station is also turned to gather a bouquot of flowers. juil I discovered nothing. Then I got the increasing in due ratio, and as the club is doubt that he killed the strange weapon. But the back door, and, trying the door, found it unlocked. She dared not enter the house, but two or three men were terest of swindlers. One of them read:

She then noticed bloody finger marks on the back door, and, trying the door, fore. In a drawer in his deak I found antee against loss for five years is being several advertisements plainly in the interest of swindlers. One of them read:

She then noticed bloody finger marks on the back door, and, trying the door, fore. In a drawer in his deak I found antee against loss for five years is being entirely devoted to improvements, which the house, but two or three men were in a few minutes it was discovered that a murder had been committed. The dead body of Miss Moore was found in the sit.

Box 891," etc.

A WONDERFUL EXPLOSIVE.

Box 891," etc. body of Miss Moore was found in the sitting room, at the door of her bedroom, She had been struck three terrible blows with a club or other blunt weapon, each one breaking the skull.

I was visiting the Sheriff at this time, and we were driving through the village when the first alarm was sounded. I was, therefore, at the house among the first, and being placed in charge by the Sheriff, I kept the people out until I could make an investigation. The murderer had not obtained forcible entry to the house. Not a single article of value had been rethe news to him. If Fergus was guilty, his defence would be an alibi, and he had carefully arranged the details. He would be expecting the news, and he would be Murderer or not, the boy was the legal braced up to play a part. I found him making ready to hitch up talent in the West to defend him. to drive back. He had never seen me lawyers might take every dollar if they before, and he did not know my profes. could but clear him. It was a veritable startled and turned pale, but recovered himself after a minute, and asked the of circumstantial evidence kept drawing nature of my business.

"You know, of course, that Miss Moore is dead?" I carelessly replied. "How-how should I know it!" he exclaimed, turning very white.

"Well, she is dead, poor thing "And do they charge me with it?"

"Her murder?" "I hadn't said she was murdered. I old you simply that she was dead. How he gasped and stammered and did his talent .- New York Sun. omes the death-trap of the accused, to lay it up as a point against him, and speedily arranged that he should return in itest dishonesty, the did not keep his promise, the hired approved she was and how his atten-

ng who he was. Instead of halting or people had begun to think it a queer case. Fergus had gone over the house and dewith the whip and was out of sight in clared that nothing had been taken. No "That's old Shepperd (the cooper), and in the neighborhood. Jewelry and money o's afraid I am a highwayman!" laughed | had been left lying on the bureau, showcease, he made ready to resume his jour-ney. Did the woman have any ney. No, not one, as far as we could Miss Moore was an early riser, and learn. Who could profit by her death? oreover never missed church services No one but Fergus, and yet this was one summoned to make an investigation, and | "A steady young man with $10.000 cash | Commercial Advertiser.

Another read :

If you have nerve and $5000 in cash we will make you a millionaire in one year. We permit the fullest investigation before investment. Write for particulars.

A third just hit his case: Are you a young and ambitious man, feeling that you could get ahead if properly backed and encouraged! Have you any money! Can you get from one thousand to three thousand! If so, we will positively guarantee you $100 in return for every dollar, and inside of

I felt sure he had written some of these parties, but as I could not find any letmoved, nor had any ransacking been done. The woman had been struck down where the body lay, but her hands lers, and they bothered me some, but in were clenched as if she had grasped the the end I got five letters written by weapon of death and it had been pulled Fergus. In one of them he stated that away from her. The palm of one hand he would soon have money to invest, was torn and bleeding. I did not know and expressed his satisfaction at the pareither the dead woman or Fergus, but I ticulars of the speculation as far as given wanted authority to arrest the latter. him. The greed of gain, then was his When this fact became known I was re- incentive. The woman, who had been garded as an idiot or a lunatic. A gen- mother and sister to him came of a longeral cry went up that Fergus could no lived race, and was in good health, and a be suspected than an angel in month before her death was told by a heaven, but while the Sheriff was left to doctor in the hearing of Fergus that she secure the necessary papers, I drove out was likely to live to be ninety or one to interview the young man and break hundred years old. Until her death the young man could hope for little or nothing, as she was obliged to make the in-heir, and he employed the best legal As I entered the barn he looked fight for life with all the money and most of the talent on one side, but that web closer and closer, and it could neither be broken nor explained away. Had Fergus been innocent a frank reply to each question would have explained it. Being guilty, his evasions only made mat-ters worse. The jury were out fourteen hours before finding a verdict of guilty, but within an hour he had made a full confession. He told me that he had been planning for two months, and that he believed he had arranged details until his case could withstand the most minute He saw the trap he had fallen into, and investigation of the highest detective

The Girl and the Dude.

If men get fighting mad with one One of the best laid alibis I ever ran my vehicle and leave the cooper's rig another over women they sometimes beand one of the easiest to work out after braced up wonderfully, and his demeanor cite the cholor, because in such cases, I got the end of the thread in hand, was on the way home was entirely that of an says a New York letter to the Cincinnati put forward in a case in Iowa about twen innocent man. He expressed great will- Enquirer, there is nobody to be whipped ty years ago. The situation was this: inguess to give us all possible informa—unless the highly illogical act of a cer-In a small village in the western part of tion, but at the same time advanced and tain Fifth avenue chappie be comulated. the State lived a Miss Clarinda Moore, clung to the theory that no one but a The first part of the occurrence was in a spinster about forty-five years of age.
She was worth $50,000, and she had adopted a boy named Byron Fergus. At the date of which I am writing this boy he rather overdid it. It was more like the last prominent tables in the room. I had often seen her there with her parents, was no longer a boy, but a young man of twenty-three. He was employed as a clerk in a dry goods house, and boarded and lodged at home. He was adopted at the age of twelve, and on the day he | Early the next morning, satisfied in my luncheon. Seeing the young lady by herreached his majority Miss Moore made a own mind that Fergus was the murderer, self, he sat down at the very next table, will leaving him everything. This fact I drove out to his aunt's. I found that so that he could look right into her face, was known to all in the village. Fergus he arrived there at 7 o'clock Saturday He then proceeded to watch her and to was a model young man. No one could night. Half an hour later he complained try to attract her regard. Finally she point out a single bad habit. He was of headache and went to bed, saying he was forced to look at him; but she only trusted and respected by all, and had he would be down again by 9 o'clock. As did so in order that he should see how no one would have believed the charge. girl knocked on his door at that hour, disgusted her. Nothing daunted, the In a smaller village six miles away but receiving no reply, was told not to dandy kept on staring. Soon the girl Fergus had an aunt who was a widow, disturb him. He was not seen by the in- asked her waiter for paper, pencil and enand lived alone, with the exception of having the company of a servant girl.

He was in the habit of going over there as she crossed the yard she saw that his every now and then. I was a good deal about once in two months and remaining window was up, and some of his clothing surprised at this, but when she called the over Sunday. On these trips he drove a was hanging in the sun. At the barn I waiter and directed him to hand the note horse and buggy belonging to the vil-lage cooper. The horse had a peculiar Fergus had done this Sunday forenoon, woman entirely. The young man was habit which will be described later on. He had not made a good job on the smiling in a very conceited and happy One Saturday evening of a July day, horse, however, and I found plenty of way as he tore open the envelope. When Fergus drove away on one of these trips. mud on his fetlocks. As it was dusty he spread out the paper within, I saw his There were two or three women at the Saturday night when he was driven over, countenance change like a flash. I looked gate in company with Miss Moore when he this mud must have been picked up after over his shoulder, and what I saw nearly drove away. The only thing out of the usual run was the remark that Byron looked rather pale and seemed a bit nerv-cushion of the buggy was still damp. looking as like him as photograph, but ous, but probably this never would have Hunting further, I found the fresh tracks the head was put on the body of a donbeen thought of but for what came to of horse and buggy turning into the key, and the great flap ears hung down At 11 o'clock that night there was a thunder storm and an insurance agent the roof of the shed. At the lower edge Well, the way that dandy got out who was on the road between the two vil- of the roof stood a leach. On the edges was a caution. He looked as though he lages with horse and buggy, drove into a of this leach and on the roof I found would have liked to insult the girl at first fence corner and sheltered himself as well mud. On the carpet in Fergus's room I for revenge, but he thought better of it, as possible with the water proofs. In the found more of it. He had scraped and and walked out as stiff and indifferent as midst of the steam a horse and buggy cleaned his boots and flung the dirt into he could. That ended the scene. But came along. The driver was so enveloped by waterproofs that the agent could not All this I got without the auntsuspect- of fellow sought out the brother of the the next day the dandy, an athletic sort girl and give him a vicarious thrashing. or small, white or black. At that spot turned to the scene of the murder, and He couldn't whip the offender, but he the road had been lately graded up and after an hour's search discovered the bestowed a whipping on the male portion

Ice Water Shortens Life. Water for drinking purposes, says Dr. ightning, and the agent saw that the The footprints of a man could be faintly William A. Hammond, should never be animal had his head turned to the right traced across the garden, and I had no below fifty degrees. We can almost al-34-100 per cent., the increase in Texas and his tongue out. This was the peculiar doubt that Fergus came and went this ways get it even in the hottest weather habit of the cooper's horse when on a way. On the fourth day after the funeral as cool as this by letting it run a minute walk. When trotting he held up his head I leavned from the insurance man what he or two from any household faucet, or identified the horse to his perfect satis- warrant was issued and Fergus was taken not, there is no objection to cooling it to faction and called out to the driver, ask- into custody. By this time the towns- the point mentioned. The East India "monkey," which can now be had almost anywhere in this country, and by means of which the contained water is cooled suspleious characters had been noticed by its own evaporation, answers the purpose admirably. I am quite sure that, if ice water should be generally discarded as a drink, the average duration of life would be lengthened and existence readered more tolerable.

Tuxedo Park.

The entire property of Tuxedo Park, the fashionable country resort for wealthy New Yorkers, had been deeded in trust to Mr. Lorillard's grandchildren, and if it keeps on increasing in value and popu-

IT SEEMS NOTHING BUT WATER, BUT IS VERY POWERFUL.

A Few Drops of the Mysterious Stuff Make the Earth Shake Like an Earthquake.

At about 34 o'clock an a recent after noon people in the streets of Norwich, Conn., felt the earth shudder slightly and heard a far-away detonation that semed to come from below, and was like a phantom sound heard in a dream. Some thought the sound was produced by a half-grown earthquake, but nobody knew just what made it. The delicate little seismic shudder and detonation were caused, says the New York Sun, by Mr. William T. Chamberlain, the inventor of Norwich, who had just touched off in the rural depths of Preston, four miles from that city, part of an ounce of his new explosive, for which he has not yet thought up an appropriate name. It is made out of water, and Mr. Chamberlain believes that in producing it he has penetrated the secret of Keeley's motor.

Mr. Chamberlain has spent the past ten or fifteen years in inventing powerful explosives, projectiles and guns. He has been to England twice, and his inven-tions were investigated by the British Government, but in each case they had been partly forestalled by the products of English inventors. In one instance in which he showed the British experts a safe method for manufacturing and handling chlorine-nitrogen, which is the most potent explosive known, he was nearly successful in his negotiations. His most ingenious invention was a gun which held balls loaded with compressed air, which fired themselves from the weapon as soon as the gunner pulled a lever that suddenly released the air.

After the little shock the other afternoon a resident, suspecting its cause, called on Mr. Chamberlain, who had come in from the country, and who said to this visitor: "Yes, I did it. It was a great success, too." The inventor continued, "I was four miles from the city down, in a low valley, when I lit it off, and I guess the shock was unlike any-thing you ever experienced before. Here is a pint bottle. You see it is full of water. I will pour some of it into a glass for you to examine. You may drink some of it. It won't hurt you. If you did drink it, it would act mildly as a ca-I have placed some of it on an anvil and hit it with a sledge hammer. Nothing happened. Have tried it in all sorts of ways. No trouble with it. Detonators and concussions failed to explode it. It's nothing but water, you see. Yet it's not water. You just let me drop a piece of potassium in it, or apply fire to it in any way, and you wouldn't think it was water-well, you wouldn't have time to think that it was anythingnot here, for both of us and this house with us would be sponged off the earth in a fraction of time. Here are some minute fragments of a 4-inch, wrought-iron, hollow ball, which I burst with it. I placed six drops of the water inside it, applied potassium, and most of the ball was ground to powder, all execept these pieces, no bigger than raisins, which you see. In my opinion this new force is and in its explosion the force is in all directions. It can be made only from fresh water, and not from salt or condensed water, so that if it were to be used or ship at sea, a supply of fresh water would have to be carried. I have no name to give to it yet. I call it simply explosive water. No doubt it is another application of the same force that has been applied to the Keeley motor. No. I shall not place the discovery before the United States Government; there would be no use of it. I shall make the discovery known to various European powers, and if I cannot do anything with them, shall let it go." Mr. Chamberlain says that his explosion of a teaspoonful or two of the explosive water made fun in Preston. The shock made his teeth chatter, although he was a long way from the scene; it flung him on the earth and nearly unjointed his backbone; the ground reeled, leaves fell in showers from the trees, and farmers families ran out of their dwellings and gazed at the ground, evidently thinking that an earthquake rolled in subterranean caverus. Plocks of frightened birds, crows, and partridges, rose out of the woods and flew chattering as fast as wings could bear them, pigs grunted and ran, cows and oxen whisked their tails and covorted in distant pastures, and seven hens and a rooster fell off the edge of a fowl house one hundred rods away. picked themselves up, twisted their heads kyward, and cackled in vague wonder. Mr. Chamberlain stole into the woods and hastened home. He will try another town the next time he feels like blowing the under pinning out of New London

Malarial Mysteries. Oddly enough, it is only within the ast ten or fifteen years that scientific men have known that malaria was the result of living organisms in the blood, and it is only within the last two or three years that investigators have obtained any knowledge of what these organisms are It is true that as long ago as B. C. 50 Lucretius ventured to suggest that malaria was "due to having organisms in the blood." But the Romans probably thought his suggestion even less important than the same poet's theory of falling atoms. The Roman's were a practical people; they cared little about the Accordingly they built those great drains which are such marvels of engineering The art of making these drains is said to have belonged by heredity to certain families, a few descendants of whom are still living in the Abruzzi. As a resuit of these works came a thriving population, abundant harvests, and luxurious With the decay of Roman civilization malaria returned .- New York

Of potatoes Europe grows more than she needs, while the United States supplies her deficiency from Canada and

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

CIRTUR IN ONIONS AND BEEF.

What is the most strengthening food or a convalescent? Well, you know, he beef-ten theory has been exploded. The most life-giving and digestible food that can be given to one just recovering from an illness, is chopped beef. Just ake a pound of the finest round of raw beef, cut off all the fat, slice two onions, and pepper and salt. Then chop the pnions and meat together, turning them over and over until both are reduced alnost to a pulp. Then spread on slices of rye bread and eat as sandwiches. Peode talk about celery being a nervine, but et me tell you that there is nothing which quiets the nerves without bad reults like onions. The use of them inluces sleep, and much strength is ob-tained from them. That is the ideal food or convalescing or for any one who is in weak state of health .- Grocers' and Canners' Guzette.

OLD TROUSERS MAKE A PRETTY MAT-

A presty mat may be made from two sairs of old trousers. Blue and light lrab are a pretty combination. Cut out pieces the size and shape of a brick, in qual number of each color. In putting them together, take first a blue then i gray, until there are seven on the strip They should be stitched together on machine. Begin the second strip with gray, the third with blue, and so until you have seven or nine strips. press the seams all open. Seam the strips all together and press the long seams

Cut Japanese shaped fans from differnt colored cloth an flannel to go on the sutside row of blocks and button-hole stitch with various colors of worsted. It is an improvement to work the fans with nany kinds of odd figures. Turn the edge of the mat under about a quarter of an inch, baste in place and press down, Take heavy black cloth and cut out scalops enough to reach around the mat, lapping them about a quarter of an inch. When firmly basted in place, stitch around the edge of the mat with the machine. Line the mat and it is finished .- Detroit

PAINTING FLOORS. A French writer observes that paintng floors with eay color containing white lead is injurious, as it renders the wood soft and less capable of wear. Other paints without white lead, such as umber or sienna, are not injurious, and can be used with advantage. Varnish made of drying lead salts is also said to be destructive, and it is recommended that the borate of magnesia should be used to dispose the varnish to dry. A recipe for a good floor varnish is given as follows: Take two pounds of pure white borate of man anese, finely powdered and add it little by little to a sauce pan containing ten pounds of linseed oil which is to be well stirred and raised to a temperature of 360 degrees Fahrenheit. Heat 100 pounds of linseed oil in a boiler until ebullition takes place, then add to it the first liquid, increase the heat and allow it to boil for twenty minutes. Then remove from the fire and filter the solution through cotton cloth. The varnish is then ready for use, two coats of which may be used with a final coat of shellae, if a fine polish is required, - Scientific American,

SUMMER DESSERTS.

A great many people imagine ices are costly and trouble, and the farmer's family only have them on rare occasions for company, whereas, they might be served as desserts several time a week. being really cheaper and healthier than pies, doughnuts and other heating dain-

Of course, there are creams and ices which are composed of expensive in-gredients, but of such we are not speak-Good ice cream may be made of rich, new milk, and in the farm-house where ice is put, is as economical, if not more so, than any other dessert, most delicious ices are made of fruits, which, of course, all farmers do or should have in abundance. The following recipes are good and cheap:

Raspberry Ice—Sweeten half a gallon of red raspberries, set aside one hour, then strain; turn in a freezer and freeze, Currents, strawberries and cherries may be used instead of raspberries.

Economical Lemon Ice-Take two cents' worth of citric acid, dissolve in a quart of water, add two teaspoonfuls of emon extract, sweeten to taste, and Grape Ice-Pour a quart of boiling water on a pound of sugar and let boil five minutes. Pulp the grapes sufficient to make a pint of jules, add the skins and pulps to the sirup, press through a sieve. Let cool and freeze.

Prozen Fruits-Pare a dozen large, soft peaches and chop fine. Scald a pint of sour plums, remove the skins stones. Mash the plums and mix with the peaches; add a pound of sugar and let stand one hour; then pour over a quart of water and stir until the sugar dissolves; pour in the freezer and freeze.

Frozen Coffee-Take four large tablespoonfuls of ground coffee and put in a boiler; add a quart of boiling water and let steam for fifteen minutes; strain and add half a pound of sugar; add the white of an egg and freeze. Frozen tea may be made in the same way. Both should be served in goblets.

Ice Cream-Beat the yolks of six eggs until creamy; add half a pound of sugar and bent again. Whisk the whites to s stiff froth; stir them into the yalks and Put a quart of new milk on to boll; mix in the eggs and sugar; stir until boiling. Take from the fire, stmin and flavor; stand aside to cool. Freeze, cover and set aside to harden.

Farmer's Ice Cream-Take a quart of milk, in which mix the beaten whites of six eggs, flavor with lemon, sweeten to taste and freeze. Set aside one hour to harden. - Farm and Fireside.

The other day an osprey or fishing eagle, now becoming a very rare bird, made its appearance on an estate near Musselburgh, England,

THE WATCHDOG THAT WAS

Marriages and death notices gratis.

Job work-cash on delivery.

One Square, one Inch, one insertion ..... 1 00

Quarter Column, one year...... B0 00

Half Column, one year..... 80 00

All bills for yearly advertisements collected quar-terly. Temporary advertisements must be paid in advance.

Songs will be sung of the living, And songs will be sung of the dead, By the singers of the thousands That will o'er the valley spread, Songs will be sung of the missing And songs will be sung of the found,

Of the watchdog that was drowned. How many things called human That torrent swept from sight; How many viler beings It dashed into their night; Yet for all alike is weeping. For each is grief profound, While no one has a murmur

While none will think of singing,

For the watchdog that was drowned. Let others sing of mortals, And expect a mortal's cheer; But the song sung for the singing Is to the world more dear. So to me befalls more honor Than to half the monarchs crowned-

To pay a simple tribute To the watchdog that was drowned. Adown the Conemaugh Valley Will monuments arise, To land some common mortals Into God's purest skies;

Bear up these mighty pillars, Thick as they may abound: But mother Earth, rest lightly On the watchdog that was drowned, -D. R. McGregor, in New York Graphic.

HUMOR OF THE DAY.

A thrifty animal is the snake. He can always make both ends meet.

A soft ant, sir, turneth away a picknicker from the custard pie. - Siftings. "You advertised for a nurse, madam?" 'I-d-d. What experience have you had with dogs?"

A country doctor who owned a smokehouse hung out a sign—"Consumption and hams cured."

A corner in waterproof footwear is an insult to the understanding,—Portland (Me.) Advertiser.

The only way to get a hen out of the garden is to go slow but shoo'er.—

Merchant Traveler. People who are fond of eggs take more interest in the hens than in the poet's lay. -New York Herald. "Buy your leave, sir," as the landlord remarked when he paid an undesirable tenant to vacate.—Siftings.

She-"All extremely bright men are awfully conceited, anyway." He-"Oh, I don't know; I'm not."-Harvard Lam-Wife-"I wish you would push this baby carriage a little way." Husband-"Well, I will, if you will carry the baby." -Boston Herald A London journal facetiously remarks that "Mr. Conybeare dined with his admirers on the Queen's birthday. Covers were laid for one.' "Howton has some very strange ideas about dress," "You surprise me, Judg-ing from his dress, I imagined he had no ideas at all."-Basar. He-"What a lovely-er complexion Miss Slimlymme has! Her arms remind Terre Haute Express.

Horrified Husband-"A dollar for those two quills in your hat! Why, would have been cheaper to buy the whole goose."-Buar,

William Kinns has a fine pair of veal calves bung up in his market to tickle the palates of his customers, that weigh 150 pounds each .- Saratoga Union. Hired Girl (to tramp, tattered and travel stained)-"Well, you're a dandy!" Tramp (surveying himself sorrowfully)-

'Yes, I'm a dandy; but I'm no dude! "Yes," he acknowledged sadly, as he photographer, but I do not like to take a negative all the same."- New York Her-

Fond Father-"You want my daughter, eh? Have you any prospects?'. Suitor-"No, sir." Fond Father-"Nor has she. Take her and be happy."-Harper's Bayar. Matron-"If I give you your breakfast will you do some work in return?" Tramp "Yes, madam; I promise to exert my self sufficiently to eat the breakfast you give me."- Yankee Blade, Boy-"Oh, mamma, our cat has caught a rat."-Mamma-"Take it away from puss and give it to the Chinese laundryman when he calls. He'll allow a deduc tion on the wash."- hyoch. "Go out and despatch that snake," ordered the Bestonian, and her green gardener horrified the female telegraph operator by attempting to send the snake by telegraph .- Now York Herald.

When a distinguished citizen enters your home, you do not ask him to "take a seat on the floor," but if he should visit Congress or the Legislature, it is considered just the thing to do. - Boston Post.

Freddie-"Why, old chappie, I heard that the sheriff sold you out yesterday; and yet here you are with your stick and everlass same as ever." Teddie-"O, cyeglass same as ever." me boy, the law won't take away the tools of one's trade, don'tcherknow."-

Elia-How do you like Mr. Mash? I hear he called the other night." Ethel - I think he's fearfully horrid. He asked me if I could play on the plane, and I told him that I couldn't play much." "And what theu!" "That was all."-New York Sun.

There was a death in the house. neighboring undertaker calling to offer his services was told that another had already been engaged. "Pardon," said out, "I hope I shall be happier another

"You needn't look at yourself in the glass so much, Mary," said a husband, sarcastically; "you are not so very hand-some." "Everybody doesn't think as you do," she said as she gave an extra twirl to a ringlet and added a more rakish set to her hat. And the husband fell into deep meditation .- Boston Courier.