

The Governorship.

There seems to be a pretty well settled idea amongst the Republicans all over the State that the gubernatorial candidate should come from the Northwestern portion of the State this year, as a matter of right and justice to the party, which has from year to year contributed very largely to the magnificent majorities of the past.

The formal announcement by Senator Delamater of his candidacy for the governorship, which was published in the Press yesterday, aroused a great deal of comment among city Republicans.

Several city Republicans who are well acquainted with Senator Delamater predicted yesterday a very lively canvass for the governorship from this time forward. One of them said: "Senator Delamater showed very good judgment when he announced his candidacy at this time."

"I saw a good deal of the man at Harrisburg during the last session of the legislature and I formed a very high opinion of him. He is a man of pluck and courage and his voice in the councils of the party at the state capital was always in favor of sound, common sense politics."

Meantime Senator Delamater, in announcing his candidacy, has simply done what some of his friends and acquaintances have been advising him to do for several weeks past. He chose his own time however. Several weeks ago when he was in the city, happening to meet Mr. Joel J. Bailly socially, that gentleman, after chatting with him awhile, laid his hand on his arm and said, playfully: "Senator, if you are a candidate for governor you had better be getting around and making a canvass."

The following biographical sketch of Senator Delamater is written by Prof. Bates, author of "Pennsylvania in the War."

George Wallace Delamater was born in Meadville, Pa., on the 31st of March, 1849, and has consequently seen the full half of the four score years, the extreme limit of man. He is of the eighth generation of the family of Delamaters in this country.

In participating in public affairs Mr. Delamater has been influenced more by a desire to harmonize conflicting and warring interests and factions than for personal or selfish advancement. To subserve the good of the public, to uphold a broad, vigorous, reasonable and just policy to State and nation, has been his settled, unyielding purpose.

How well his principles have been indorsed and approved is shown by his advancement, which, for a young man, is honorable. He was mayor of Meadville in 1870, senatorial delegate to the state convention in 1878 and chairman of the Republican county committee during the campaigns of 1878 and 1879. In 1880 he was chosen a Garfield presidential elector for Pennsylvania, and in 1886 was elected to the state senate. In all these positions he has shown himself a safe and sagacious leader, harmonizing conflicting interests, pointing out the goal to success by the path of justice and honor, without embittering political antagonisms, and to-day the party with which he is allied in Crawford county was never in a more united and healthy condition.

During his term in the senate he has shown marked ability and has honestly and fairly achieved the place of leader in that body, though surrounded by men much older and more experienced than himself. Recognizing his ability he was made chairman of the committee on banks and banking, and a member of the committees on finance, judiciary general, railroads and other less important ones.

INFLUENZA has become epidemic throughout all Europe, and has reached this continent. At first the disease was not considered very dangerous, but of late many deaths have occurred, that are directly traceable to that cause. The high-falutin name for the malady is "La Grippe," and it is supposed to have had its origin in Russia. It is believed that the epidemic will spread over the whole civilized world.

THE Superintendent of the Eleventh Census, Robert P. Porter, has issued his first bulletin designating the supervisor's districts of the several States and Territories. Pennsylvania has ten districts, composed as follows:

First, Philadelphia, city and county; Second, Chester, Delaware, Lancaster and York counties; Third, Berks, Bucks, Lehigh, Montgomery and Northampton; Fourth, Columbia, Dauphin, Lebanon, Montour, Northumberland and Schuylkill; Fifth, Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming; Sixth, Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Lycoming, McKean, Potter, Sullivan and Tioga; Seventh, Adams, Bedford, Blair, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder and Union; Eighth, Armstrong, Cambria, Clarion, Fayette, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset and Westmoreland; Ninth, Allegheny, Beaver, Greene and Washington; Tenth, Butler, Crawford, Erie, Forest, Lawrence, Mercer, Venango and Warren.

Miss Maggie Frill is at present visiting friends near here. Mrs. Geo. Sliker was the guest of Mrs. F. Stutzinger not long since. The schools of this section are closed during this week, and the teachers are attending institute.

Protracted meetings are still in progress at Washington M. E. Church. John Dachant and Baston Seigle who have been stopping near Whig Hill, are at present rusticated in this proximity. Dec. 30. ABYSS.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Washington Camp, 304, P. O. S. of A., Clarion, Pa., held Dec. 21, 1889, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That while bowing in humble submission to Divine will, we sincerely mourn the loss of our friend and brother. Resolved, That the sincere and heartfelt sympathy of our Camp be extended to the parents and family in their bereavement. Resolved, That as a tribute of respect to the memory of our departed brother, the charter of our Camp be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days; that these resolutions be recorded in full on the minutes of the Camp, published in the Camp News and county papers, and a copy presented to the family of the deceased brother.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Our combination with the Philadelphia Weekly Press affords an opportunity for obtaining an immense amount of reading at a very trifling cost. By this arrangement we are enabled to furnish both the REPUBLICAN and the Weekly Press at the very low price of $1.75. Any person sending us this amount will receive the two papers for one year, an advance of only 25 cents over the price of the REPUBLICAN alone.

In participating in public affairs Mr. Delamater has been influenced more by a desire to harmonize conflicting and warring interests and factions than for personal or selfish advancement. To subserve the good of the public, to uphold a broad, vigorous, reasonable and just policy to State and nation, has been his settled, unyielding purpose.

How well his principles have been indorsed and approved is shown by his advancement, which, for a young man, is honorable. He was mayor of Meadville in 1870, senatorial delegate to the state convention in 1878 and chairman of the Republican county
