-The services at the Presbyterian Church, on Sabbath morning last, in commemoration of the annual festival called Children's Day, now in vogue throughout the nation, was perhaps the pleasantest and most enjoyable affair of that nature that ever took place there. The church could not well have been more tastefully arranged and decorated. Great banks of flowers were arranged about a beautiful "Arch of Character" that shone through the lovely bouquets like purest marble, while richest perfumes scented the sir with their fragrance. Both the little ones and those older were in their element, and performed their parts in the dialogues to perfection. The singing, in which the large congregation joined, was soul-inspiring, while "Hosannah in the Highest," by the Sabbath School, to whose efforts is walks. largely due the complete success of the occasion, had charge of the program that was so nicely carried out. Surely this beautiful service has so impressed itself upon the minds of those present. as not soon to be forgotten by any.

-Here's a little blast from the Blizzard that fits so snugly that we feel like giving it wider circulation. The REPUBLICAN office has been bored in like manner: "Some of those dapper young men, who are drawing good fat salaries in Uncle Samuel's census office at Washington, evidently labor under the impression that the so-called moulders of public opinion throughout the country bave nothing in particular to do but leg it about their respective day-and board themselves. Every few days-or oftener-a lengthy en-which it would require considerable time, trouble and waste of brain matter and physical tissue to secure. If these census chaps think the editors have nothing else to do they are mistaken. Of course it requires but little time to write three or four columns of slush each day. But they have other things to look after, such as their creditors, offended readers, church societies, fishing, onion crop, etc., and they cannot reasonably be expected to do the census work, for the fun of the

It is hardly the thing to say that one of our prominent citizens caught a 13 lb. bass on Sunday evening, or that Mr. So-and-so keeps a case of beer in his barn or that Ludwig sent his agent here on Monday to gather up these cases which filled a wagon full to overflowing.
