New Road to Erie.

The Oil City Blizzard gives the following account of an important railroad meeting held at Titusville on Friday evening last:

The meeting was called to order by electing Julius Byles, Esq., to the chair, and S. S. Bryan, Jr., Secretary. F. P. At the recent meeting of the State Board of Health at Norristown, responses to questions in regard to la grippe were made by 260 physicians. These reports covered 30,275 cases, of which 26 died directly and 205 indirectly from that cause. It is calculated that if this ratio holds out all over the State more than a million peeple were attacked by the malady within the commonwealth, and about 8,000 patients died of it. This proportion of death to cases throughout the United Staes would place the number at 120,000.

Foxes are reported as being unusually plentiful in Clarion county this spring, the open winter having been probably favorable to the increase. Among the latest capture is that reported from Perry township, where Berton Elliott was out hunting on a piece of woods on the Judge McCall farm, when his dog espied a fox. Mr. Elliott shot the fox, and soon afterwards discovered in the bollow trunk of a tree, near by, seven cubs which he killed. The county has paid the bounty on the scalps of the whole batch .- Clarion Democrat.

Referring to the wholesale slaughter of Venango county sheep by dogs, the Citizen-Press says: "The claims for payment for sheep killed is so largely in excess of the sum derived from the taxation of dogs, from which the losses are to be paid, that it will be many years before present claims can be satisfied. The Renova Record says: "A train of 160 freight cars arrived here from Kane give satisfaction or money will be refund-Tuesday evening. It is said to be the longest train ever transported over the middle division. Dick Reed, one of the brakemen, declares he never saw the locomotive from the time the train left Kane until they arrived at Renova. In the early days of railroading twenty-five to thirty cars were considered a big train; for the past ten years the number increased from eighty to one hundred cars. Now, by the powerful aid of hog locomotives, trains consisting of 130 to 160 freight cars are successfully hauled over the Philadelphia & Erie railroad."

There are a good many people who are about as fit to be parents as they are to be angels, and there are not a few of them who might take lessons with profit from the dumb animals in caring for their offspring. These comments are suggested by the following from the Titusville Herald: "It is reported that on Friday last a certain father in this city punished a young son about twelve years of age, in a shameof Steve Emick, on the Winegard ful manner by tieing him with a rope around his neck to a stall in the barn When found late at night the lad was in the manger fast asleep. 'The lad's crime was running away."-Blizzard. The Bradford Era draws a pen picture of Corry in the following racy style: "Corry is located on 'made ground' three miles from Columbus postoffice and in a swampy corner of Erie county. The site is highly eligible for a cemetery, and the enterprising citizens claim with just pride that the facilities for being buried there are unequalled. It is noted among travelers as a stopping-off place, and where the entire population gather to witness the arrival of each train, and upon its departure, vanish as mysteriously as they appeared, leaving only a hotel porter in sight. The principal industry of Corry, is the manufacture of sandwiches, a choice assortment of which may be seen in the glass case at the depot. These sandwiches are turned out in large quantities by a curious machine which stamps the tops and bottoms out of asbestos roofing. Between these slabs a thin layer of sole leather is inserted and the whole is firmly cemented together with yellow ochre. People who purchase these sandwiches frequently earry pieces around in their digestive apparatus for a long time as curiosities. The city is noted for its good order, though occasionally a suicide occurs among passengers who are compelled to wait there five hours between trains on Sunday. Of the early history of Corry little is known, beyond the fact that the oldest inhabitant cannot remember of the place ever having undergone any changes since he first saw it. Tourists will find the place very easy of access; the only trouble being in getting away."
