Frank Russell Killed by the Cars.

Frank Russell, well known to our towns-people, and a brother of Charles Russell, of this place, accompanied the excursion to the Franklin re-union on Wednesday last. He did not return on the regular excursion train which left there in the night. Thursday merning the body of an unknown man was found lying beside the Nypano track near Sugar Creek station. The body was brought to Franklin where an inquest was held, and the discovery made that the unfortunate man was Frank Russell. The facts elicited at the inquest were to the offect that Russell had boarded the wrong train and did not discover his mistake until he had reached the station above indicated, where he got off and was walking back toward Franklin. The appearances indicated that be had lain down beside the track with his head so near a passing train that the cow-catcher struck him on the back of the head killing him instantly. No other bruises were found on his

There is another theory as to the manner in which Frank was killed. It is believed, while walking down the track, he was overtaken by a freight train, and having stepped off the track to allow it to pass, was struck by a projecting lumber binder that had become loosened and swung out. The fact that the only bruise about the body was on the back of the head, and that not very severe, gives plausibility to this theory which may be the correct one. Still another idea with some is there being no money found on his person, whereas he is known to have exhibited considerable of it during the

The Franklin Re-Union.

The eight annual reunion of the Northwestern Association is now a thing of the past, and as the smoke of that great event has disappeared it 4t. becomes us to take a glimpse of the field, bury our dead, care for the wounded, and praise the gallant and heroic acts of those who so nobly contributed their talents, money and presence, to make the 19th of August, 1891, a festal day to the "boys in blue." Other cities, whose hospitality we have shared in the past, have not been forgotten by the G. A. R. boys, and we believe our thanks tendered them as can only be tendered by the Grand Army boys, have been accepted by them. Hence, we only have now to speak of our reception at the hands of the patriotic people of Franklin. During the past history of our lives our feet have often contributed to clattering noise along her busy streets. but we freely confess at this day, we never knew Franklin until very recently. As our long train, laden with its immense cargo of boys in blue. patriotic ladies, citizens and happy children, we confecs we doubted the propriety of our visit to that place, in such great numbers; not that we doubted the patriotism of Franklin; we were too well versed in her past history for that ; but what would, what could she hope to do with the mighty hosts that were soon to tread along her busy streets? Soon the shrill whis tle of the engine told us we were at Franklin. Every available spot of ground was so overrun with the multitude as to make it almost impossible for the boys to form in line on stepping from the platform of the cars; the only thing for us to do was to start for the city and form line as we moved forward. The bands at the head of the different organizations filled the very air and soul with music, and as we passed over the iron structure that spans French creek her great iron bars trembled; and she swung to and fro

As we halted in front of General Headquarters, on Liberty street, we were greeted by one of the grandest scenes our eyes have looked upon since away back to the Grand Review in Washington, May 26th and 27th, 1865. The city of Franklin is before us in all its beauty and patriotism; the decorations along the streets was simply immense, grand, even brilliant, and amid the patriotic welcome by her citizens on every hand, we felt that it was good for us to be there. Our dinner, we know not how it could have been bettered; there was enough and to spare. Our parade of more than two miles in length passed over the principal streets of the city amid showers of greetings from the viewing multitude on every hand; our old boys, animated by the grand welcome, nut the left foot forward, keeping time to the drum, made the best marching possible; in fact, to better this marching, we call up the sixties. Thus, for two hours, we marched, carried forward by the enthusiaem prevailing on every hand. Every G. A. R. comrade feels glad for his visit to Franklin. Every heart within our Association does, and will ever bear testimony to the noble, patriotic people of that city. Boys, when our march of life is ended, our camp fires have died out and we have been mustered out of service, the no brighter page will be found in that history, than that which refers to our ONE OF THE BOYS.

NEWSY NOTES.

The school board of Corry is considering the plan adopting a school savings bank. It works very successfully in the Warren schools.

According to an ingenious French ant, persons who laugh with the sound of A" in "father" are frank and loyal, fond f noise and movement, and frequently of a versatile and changeable character. Those who laugh with the sound of "A" in "ape" are phlegmatic, with a turn toward melancholia. The laugh in "E" is that of children, and of adults who are simple, plaint, timid and irresolute. The laugh in "O" signifies generosity and robust boldness, "Look out," says the French observer, "for those who laugh in 'U,' because they are misanthropes,'
