LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Oil market closed yesterday 60 1/2. Uncle Tom's Cabin at the school house to-morrow evening.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Grove, Oct. 30, 1891, a son.

Perry Hill is erecting a blacksmith shop on Bridge St., below H. O. Davis' residence.

Attention is directed to the new ad. of Chas. F. Black & Co., Clothiers, Oil City, Pa., which appears in this issue.

The Free Methodist quarterly meeting which was announced to be held at Stewart's Run, Nov. 5, will be withdrawn until further announcement.

Another invoice of turnips this week comes from Ben. Mealy's, of the Township, and they were very fine indeed, the largest one weighing over seven pounds.

Col. J. Henry Sellman, collector of internal revenue, Baltimore, Md., believes in it for rheumatism. He writes: "I have tried Sallado Oil and believe it to be a good remedy for rheumatism."

An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bessey, of Oil City, died on Friday last. The parents have friends and relatives in this community who will bear of their bereavement with sorrow.

H. J. Hopkins & Co. are to the front this week with an attractive new ad. in which they issue an earnest invitation to the public to call and secure some of the many bargains they are offering. Read it.

Mr. N. S. Foreman, who had recovered sufficiently to be able to go about some, departed for Philadelphia, Monday, on the advice of his physician, to be treated at the hospital. We hope soon to be able to record his complete recovery.

The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone; the constant gnaw of Towzer masticates the toughest bone; the constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid, and the constant advertiser is the one that gets the trade.—Ez.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wa' were called to Pittsburgh Saturday evening last by a telegram announcing the serious illness of their daughter, Mrs. Nellie Myers, who is suffering with an attack of pneumonia. At last accounts she was somewhat better.

Henry Shoemaker has purchased a part of the house occupied by Mr. Blum when he built his present residence, and is moving it to the lower portion of Mrs. Nora Seigel's lot, where he will build an addition to it and fit up as a residence for himself.

Dentist Chas. Davis has moved his office, and now occupies the office opposite the Gas office, lately vacated by Dr. Nason, which he has arranged very nicely, and where customers will find him during business hours to attend to their wants in a highly satisfactory manner.

Rev. R. W. Hawkins was elected to the office of General Missionary Superintendent by the General Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist connection just closed at Grand Rapids, Mich., which puts him in control of all their Home and Foreign Missionary work.—Franklin News.

Mr. Jesse W. Green, of Sugar Run, Warren county, who has held the position of night operator at Tionesta station for the past six or eight months, and Miss Kate Knox of this place, departed on the afternoon train yesterday for Salamanca, N. Y., for the purpose of having the wedding knot tied. Friends of the young couple here will wish them a prosperous and happy future.

Stevens' Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., is billed to exhibit at the School House to-morrow, Thursday evening. The company comes well recommended and will doubtless give a first class rendition of this great drama. Their scenery is on a fine scale, music original, and acting perfect. The play is one which any person can attend without the least shock to the moral sensibilities. Those who would enjoy a treat should secure a seat at once. Reserved seats now on sale at Proper & Douit's.

The firm of J. W. Kerr & Son, of this city, have just completed the erection of a memorial on the lot of the late Mrs. Helen S. Thomas, in the Riverside Cemetery at Tionesta. It is a sarcophagus, of Quincy granite, of neat and tasteful design, the first one of the sarcophagus design erected in that cemetery.—Franklin News. The memorial is an elegant one, and is much admired by those who have seen it.

Hallowe'en capers in town were only lightly indulged in last Saturday night, be it said to the credit of the boys. The street lights were mostly turned off making the town rather gloomy for a time, but philanthropic citizens succeeded in re-lighting them before anybody was injured by falling over obstructions, and the balance of the night was passed in peace and quiet. The frisky boy deserves a long credit mark for his orderly behavior this year.

Mr. L. J. Osgood was down from East Hickory yesterday for a few hours, and gave the REPUBLICAN a pleasant call. Mr. Osgood has charge of the saws in the splendid new band mill of Wheeler & Dusenbury, at Stowtown, and is kept busy keeping the mill busy. He does saw pounding of all kinds, and is an expert in fixing up and putting them in good running order. Should any of our mill men have anything in that line they could not do better than give him their orders.

The Franklin News thus refers to the almost perfect fall weather which we have enjoyed thus far, but which seems at this writing to be about to shut up shop and close business for the season: The present autumn will go down into history and become a reminiscence to the oldest inhabitant, who in years to come can refer to this as the "great weather of the fall of '91." Perfect days are these, with the haze of Indian summer along the horizon and the odor of burning leaves pervading the atmosphere.

The October oil report is a hummer and no mistake. Forty-nine thousand barrels daily of new production is something approaching the wonderful, even in oildom. This great increase of course comes from the big McDonald field, and is what has knocked the bottom out of the market, and is keeping it knocked out. Nobody expects it to last, but while it stays it makes dull times in the oil regions outside that locality. Aside from this, the report for the past month presents no startling features.

Major B. A. Goodman, for many years a resident of this county, during most of which time he made his home at Balltown, died at that place yesterday after an illness extending over a year or more. Major Goodman was one of the well known and familiar figures of his section, where he was generally respected for his many good qualities of heart. His hospitality toward those with whom he came in contact was proverbial, and many will hold him in grateful remembrance for the considerations shown them while under his roof. He was an expert hunter and fisher, and it was a rare thing, while his health continued, to go to his quarters without getting a slice of venison, either "jerked" or fresh. He was a veteran of the war, and had a pension pending which would doubtless soon have been granted. His age was 69. It is the intention to bring his remains to this place for burial to-morrow, and the funeral will be in charge of the Masonic fraternity of which deceased was once a member. Peace to his ashes.

Don't! If a dealer offers you a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup without wrapper of labels, or in a mutilated condition, don't touch it—don't buy it at any price, there is something wrong—it may be a dangerous or worthless counterfeit. Insist upon getting a perfect, unbroken, genuine package.

An adjourned meeting of the Clarion Presbytery was held in Brookville last week. The purpose of this meeting was the ordination of Mr. J. R. Baker and the consideration of the General Assembly's overture to the presbyteries on the revision of the Confession of Faith. This consisted in changes in the Confession reported by the committee appointed for that purpose and presented to the last General Assembly.

The action of the presbytery was against the changes suggested by the committee on the grounds that to adopt the proposed changes would be to make the Confession self-contradictory on certain points and lacking in harmony with the catechisms which are of equal authority. The diversity of style between the Confession and the modifications, especially the two new chapters strikes every one and is conceded by the revisers themselves. The Confession has not only a unity of doctrine and a consistency of logic but a majesty and compactness of style which has commanded the admiration of all its opponents. This revision will inevitably mar that.

Also that the Westminster Confession being the common heritage of all the Presbyterian churches of Great Britain and Ireland, Canada, and the United States the work of revision if carried out would raise another wall of separation while we long for a closer union.

In view of this the Presbytery suggests to the Assembly's committee "to take into consideration the question of asking to be discharged from the further prosecution of the experiment of amending the Westminster Confession. But at the same time we respectfully overture the General Assembly to empower the said committee to enter upon the preparation of a short didactic and devotional creed, for the reading of the people and for use on occasions in our congregational worship."

Tionesta was considerably burglarized on Monday night of this week, and while not a great deal of plunder was secured by the light-fingered galleons, some of the losses were sustained where it hurt pretty badly. The first to discover that they had been called on was the family of Wm. Smearbaugh, who were awakened about two o'clock by strange noises, and heard some one descend the stairs rapidly and shuffle out of the back door. Mr. Smearbaugh hurried to a back window but too late to catch a glimpse of the marauder. Coming back to his room to dress himself he discovered that his pants were gone. About this time his wife discovered that her everyday wardrobe was also amongst the missing articles. Further investigation revealed the fact that Mrs. Smearbaugh's gold-rimmed spectacles were gone. The thieves had gained an entrance through one of the front windows, which had been left unlocked. All of the articles taken, except Mr. S.'s shoes and the spectacles, were found next morning near the rink building. In their unceremonious departure the thief or thieves left behind what one of the little girls designated as a "big fat club," which no doubt was intended for use in an interview at close quarters.

One of the other victims of the raid was Rev. A. T. Sager, the Free Methodist minister, who has not yet gone to housekeeping, and who, with his wife and babe, were stopping for the night with Mrs. McKay at the residence of Hon. J. B. Agnew. During the night Mrs. McKay heard some one in the hallway, but supposing it was Mrs. Sager up with the babe, gave herself little concern about the matter. Next morning Mr. Sager discovered the absence of his pantaloons, and on a search being made it was learned that they had been found near A. M. Douit's residence. Mr. Sager had about $35 in money in his pockets and this was gone, and the loss is a severe one for him. His watch, which laid on a bureau, was not taken. Probably the last place visited was Mr. J. L. Craig's residence, for they were evidently hungry when they reached there. Here they entered the boys' room and carried Will Craig's clothes down stairs on the chair on which they were hanging. They also ransacked the cellar and cupboard for eatables, doubtless being aware of Mrs. Craig's well established reputation for getting up a fine bill of fare. They were not mistaken, anyway, for they had brought out bread, butter, pies, cakes, etc., and had an elegant spread at the dining room table, where, we understand, three chairs had been used. The only thing taken here was Will Craig's watch chain, he having laid his watch in a bureau drawer on retiring. Evidences went to show that an attempt had been made to enter the residence of Mrs. Dr. Hunter, the outside cellar door having been found open next morning. They were doubtless frightened away from there by Frank Hunter, who came home rather late from lodge meeting in the evening. As to clues, there aren't any; at least none that we have heard of, opinion being divided as to whether the perpetrators were foreign or home talent. It may develop later.

At West Hickory. Wednesday night the store of Dunn & Turner, at West Hickory, was entered and between $400 and $500 worth of clothing, boots, shoes, jewelry, &c., taken. Up to the present time no trace of the thieves has been discovered.

At Tidouite. Yesterday's Derrick gives this item concerning the movements of a gang at Tidouite, whose operations look so similar to those perpetrated here, as to give the impression that possibly the same band is working all the towns about here: Sunday night burglars entered the residences of A. Duann and W. H. Mabie, at Tidouite, but did not succeed in taking away much property. When they entered the Mabie residence Mr. and Mrs. Mabie, who sleep above the dining room, were awakened and Mr. Mabie stationed himself at the hot air register and tried to identify the two men. They piled up considerable plunder and then started up stairs. Mr. Mabie had nothing to defend himself, but stepped to the head of the stairs and told them to get out of the house or he would shoot. One of the men turned with an oath and fired at Mr. Mabie, but the bullet flew wild and the men left the house on the run. There seems to be a gang of these gentry in that neighborhood, and it is only a week since Dunn & Co.'s store in Hickory was robbed of $200 worth of jewelry.

Petition of the World's W. C. T. U. for the Protection of the Home.

Addressed to the Governments of the World. Honored Rulers, Representatives and Brothers: We, your petitioners, although belonging to the physically weaker sex, are strong of heart to love our homes, our native land and the world's family of nations.

We know that clear brains and pure hearts make honest lives and happy homes, and that by these the nations prosper, and the time is brought nearer when the world shall be at peace. We know that indulgence in alcohol and opium, and in other vices which disgrace our social life, makes misery for all the world, and most of all for us and our children.

We know that stimulants and opiates are sold under legal guarantees which makes the governments partners in the traffic, by accepting as revenue a portion of the profits, and we know with shame that they are often forced by treaty upon populations, either ignorant or unwilling. We know that the law might do much, now left undone, to raise the moral tone of society and render vice difficult.

We have no power to prevent these great iniquities beneath which the whole world groans, but you have the power to redeem the honor of the nations from an indefensible complicity. We therefore come to you with the united voices of representative women of every land, beseeching you to raise the standard of the law to that of Christian morals, to strip away the safeguards and sanctions of the State from the drink traffic and the opium trade, and to protect our homes by the total prohibition throughout all the territory over which your government extends.

Miss Morgan, the British Secretary of the World's W. C. T. U., is working diligently on the Great Petition, The Good Templars, at a recent meeting in Edinburgh, took fifteen hundred headings to circulate, which is a grand action on their part; and Lady Henry Somerset has seen General Booth, who promises his full sympathy in the cause, and the matter will soon be taken up by his officers. He says he hopes to send us 100,000 names. We hope that through the diligent efforts of our English sisters, our Canadian sisters and our White Ribboners in the United States, the number of signatures may have reached a million by the time we meet in Boston, November 13 to 18. We propose to have the petition there, and wish it festooned to Fanueil Hall or Tremont Temple, as the case may be.

Will not each White Ribboner say to herself, "Have I signed? Has my family signed? Has it been circulated by our local Union?" and if it has not let her drop a postal to me at Rest Cottage, or Mary A. W. Woodbridge, Ravena, O., without delay. We do not, of course, call upon our Corresponding Secretary of the World's W. C. T. U., Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt, to help us with these details after her many years of arduous labor, but we fully recognize that she has made the Great Petition known as no one else has done.

Miss Jessie Ackerman, the new President of Australia is circulating the petition, and we hope for encouraging returns from that great country in time for the Boston Convention. According to present estimates, the petition will not be less than ten miles long, if the signatures are placed in a single row. We are sorry to be obliged to say that no country has worked with less system and assiduity to bring about this result than our own dear native land.

This is doubtless due to the fact that our women have had so many other engagements and such intricate lines of work to follow out. I am sure that that having responded so grandly to every other call of the World's W. C. T. U. they will make a specialty this time of rolling in the signatures. There is no time to lose. This is humanity's concentrated world protest against the traffic in brain poisons, and a little time put in now will make it a splendid demonstration, for which we have prayed, pleaded and worked, and the returns will yield the largest capital on the investment in time made by the White Ribboners in the noble defense of God, Home and Humanity.
